BATTLE TROOPS; BURN NEGRO

CITIZENS' BOARD TELLS PLAN FOR REVENUE RELIEF

Program Is Sent to Legislators.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

An emergency program designed to extricate Chicago and Cook county from their financial muddle was made public yesterday by the citizens' relief committee, headed by Silas H. Strawn. Bills embodying the revenue relief proposals are to be presented to the special session of the legislature when it meets at Springfield on Monday.

The avowed aim of the program is to furnish funds to enable the city, county and school governments to meet their pay rolls and other obligations after July 1, "when temporary credit relief ends," to place the local governments on an eventual cash basis and to establish a budgetary control to protect the taxpayers from squanderings of tax money.

$48,000,000 Bonds Proposed.

High lights in the financial rehabilitation system are proposals for the issuance of a maximum of $49,000,000 of bonds, without referendum, to take care of deficits and to provide the city and the board of education with ready money and start them towards a cash basis.

An increase in the city corporate tax rate from $1.075 to $1.33 for 1929, $1.37 for 1930 and 1931, $1.35 for 1932, $1.32 for 1933, and $1.29 for 1934 is proposed. The committee says that, due to the new assessment, the suggested higher rate will not increase the amount of taxes paid for 1929, taxes for which will not be extended for some months. In addition the report proposes three special taxes, aggregating 25 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation, for various relief funds for the city, and a special tax of 10 cents for the board of education, for a special cash fund.

Would Validate Tax Warrants.

Validation of outstanding tax warrants amounting to $240,000,000, is part of the program.

Reorganization and simplification of the assessment machinery of Cook county is termed a "necessary step in rehabilitation," but the committee "reluctantly concludes" it is not feasible to present it at the special session and it is left for the regular session.

Copies of the report were distributed among legislators and were sent to Gov. L. L. Emmerson. Mr. Strawn said: "The report is the result of four months' work by experts. If the legislature does not act, Chicago is sunk. This program will put it on the map."

Two Principal Recommendations.

The recommendations are divided into two heads—revision of the present loose methods of assessment and the placing of the local governments on a sound financial basis.

A tax collection schedule, to catch up with the taxes which are behind without putting two tax collections in any one year is suggested. It provides for the payment of seven years' taxes in five by making them come due ten months apart, starting July 1.

The program proposes to stop delays in assessment by enlarging the powers of the tax commission over the local assessment machinery, so that if local officials are lagging the commission may assume charge and complete the work.

Guards Against Waste Urged.

On budgetary control the committee says: "It will be useless for the taxpayers to put up large sums of money to get the city out of the hole and to place it on a cash basis unless at the same time new and substantial safeguards are placed upon the appropriation and expenditure of public money."

To stop the old custom of passing budgets larger than income and then going to Springfield to get tax rates boosted the report proposes that the city controller shall submit a full report of balances and estimated future revenue to the city council before the budget making. The aggregate budget shall not exceed the statement of estimated resources. Only one appropriation ordinance a year shall be passed, and "baby budgets" are to be forbidden.

On Fiscal Rehabilitation.

The committee divides financial rehabilitation into six phases, as follows:

"Budgetary control and limitation of expenditures to revenue.

"The gradual placing of the several municipalities on a cash basis and their maintenance thereon.

"Financing of existing deficits of the several municipalities. [This embraces the issuance of a maximum of $49,000,000 in bonds without a referendum and increase in tax rates.]

"Validation of 1928, 1929, and 1930

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, May 9.—Following disclosure of the wholesale manufacture of false Millets, another picture scandal, of which the Louvre itself was the victim, has been discovered.

Three years ago M. Guiffray, conservator of paintings at the Louvre, bought two paintings, declared to be by Watteau, for $60,000. The sales agent declared they were the property of an English family, which did not want its identity disclosed, but he furnished all necessary guarantees. Experts declared the pictures to be undoubtedly of the French school of the 18th century and very fine.

M. Guiffray later came to the conclusion that, while the pictures were in the Watteau manner, they were more probably by one of his associates, Quallard, who in reality painted a number of pictures ascribed to Watteau. This opinion has been confirmed by several experts and the council of national museums is asking for an annulment of the sale and restitution of the $60,000.

REALTY OFFICE AND RESTAURANT BOMB TARGETS

A black powder bomb burst at 11 o'clock last night in the doorway at 8652 South Ashland avenue, a realty office recently taken over from Frank A. Mulholland & Co. by an individual dealer, William J. Conroy, residing at 1710 West 82d street. Witnesses saw two bombers flee in a black sedan, which sped east in 82d street to Loomis and there turned north. The explosion caused about $500 damage. Gresham police said trouble had been brewing in the neighborhood over reported plans to sell or lease residential property to Negroes.

A black powder bomb was exploded in the front entrance of Atkins' restaurant, 1210 South Jefferson street, at midnight last night, doing $200 damage to windows and the front of the restaurant. Jack Atkins, the proprietor, told Maxwell street police he knew of no motive for the bombing.

Contractor and Girl in Auto Held Up by Youths

Two young gunmen held up Andrew Nielsen, a building contractor of 7845 South Peoria street, and Miss Blanche Fairchild, 419 West 61st street, as they sat in an automobile at 68th street and California avenue last night. From Miss Fairchild the bandits took a purse containing $15, but they were frightened away by a passing automobile before they got to Nielsen.

Reno, Nev., May 9.—[Special.]—Frances Starr, actress, filed suit for divorce in the District court here today against Haskell Coffin, noted portrait painter. She charges failure to provide. The case will be heard on Monday.

Cleveland, O., Dislodged as 5th U. S. City

Cleveland, O., May 9.—[Special.]—The population of Cleveland will fall more than 150,000 short of the million mark, census returns from practically the entire city indicated tonight. With a population of 850,000, Cleveland probably will fall from fifth to eighth or even tenth place in the list of largest cities. Los Angeles, St. Louis, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, and Newark all have a good chance to climb above Cleveland in population.

The 1920 census gave Cleveland a population of 796,841 and the population as of July, 1928, was estimated at 1,010,300.

The disappointing showing of Cleveland is due to its being surrounded by rapidly growing suburbs, which refuse to be annexed. All of these suburbs registered gains of from 60 to 200 per cent during the last ten years.

Two Towns Grow Rapidly.

Walnut Park, Cal., May 9.—(AP)—In 1920 nobody lived here, in fact there wasn't any such place. Today, however, the census supervisor said there are 8,553 inhabitants. South Gate, Cal., another town that did not exist in 1920, has a population of 19,501.

Baby Abandoned in Park by Man; Left with Women

A five months old boy was abandoned yesterday in Lincoln park by a shabbily dressed man, who left the child in the care of two women on the excuse he was going to get food for him. Mrs. Paul Mann, 5920 North Clark street, and Mrs. S. M. Panos, 816 Michigan avenue, Evanston, took the child to St. Vincent's orphanage after a long vain wait for the return of the man. They said the man had approached them as they sat on a bench near the zoo and asked if they would watch the infant while he got some milk.

POPULATION OF THIRD WARD IS FIXED AT 68,640

Substantial growth in the population of the Third ward was disclosed yesterday in census figures made public by Joseph E. Vesely, chairman of the census advisory committee and director of business research for the Chicago Association of Commerce, showing the present population of the ward to be 68,640.

The figure represents an increase in population of approximately 15 per cent over the population in 1921, when the city-wide redistricting of wards took place. The population of the ward at that time was given as 57,927, which is 10,713 less than the present number. Comparison with 1920 census figures is impossible because of the redistricting of the wards. The present boundaries of the ward are, roughly, the lake on the east, 35th street on the north, Calumet and State streets on the west, 46th over to Cottage Grove avenue, and then 43d street back to the lake.

An estimate fixing Chicago's population at 3,350,000, reported yesterday, was merely a guess, according to Chairman Vesely. He stated that this estimate could not have been based on any present census figures, as the tabulation of results is still far from complete. He said this estimate was a slight variation of the Association of Commerce estimate of the population made on Jan. 1, which set the figures at 3,285,000.

FIND MAN ALIVE IN FIRE DEBRIS OF SMOKEHOUSE

St. Joseph, Mo., May 9.—(AP)—Ora Paxton, 22, late tonight was found imprisoned alive in the debris of the Armour & Co. smokehouse and sausage plant, where an explosion late yesterday brought death to at least fourteen persons and property damage estimated at $450,000. His head and shoulders were uncovered an hour after he was found and workers expected to extricate him before morning.

Pair Wed with a Dog License, Court Is Told

"My husband was drunk and threw me out of the house," Mrs. Francesca Giacigrosso, 43 years old, 2958 Lowe avenue, complained yesterday in the Stockyards court. "He said I wasn't his wife, because he had married me with a dog license." The husband, Philip Giacigrosso, was in a stockyards police station cell, charged with disorderly conduct. Judge Heller continued the case to May 16 pending examination of the couple's marriage license.

Lynchers Go Wild in Texas City.

Sherman, Tex., May 10 (Saturday).—(AP)—Culminating an orgy of mob madness, a mob early today set fire to a Negro drug store here and near by erected a funeral pyre for George Hughes, 41 year old Negro attacker of a white woman, who was suffocated or otherwise killed in a fire which destroyed the Sherman courthouse yesterday. The body, after being recovered from the vault in the courthouse, was tied to the rear of an automobile and it was started through the streets toward the jail, dragging the body, as the mob cheered wildly. The state rangers and guardsmen remained at the jail, not attempting interference as the dynamiting was in progress at the courthouse ruins.

at the courthouse ruins. The mob later wrecked three blocks of the Negro district. At 2 a. m. the mob was still carrying on.

BULLETIN.

Austin, Tex., May 9.—(AP)—Gov. Dan Moody tonight ordered 225 additional National Guardsmen to Sherman.

Gov. Moody said he had been informed that Lieut. Col. Albert Sydney Johnson of the Texas National Guard had been seriously injured at Sherman. Johnson, a lawyer, is secretary of the Texas Democratic party.

Sherman, Tex., May 9.—(AP)—A mob of several thousand late today burned the $60,000 Grayson county courthouse here, cremating George Hughes, Negro, after being repulsed in their efforts to seize him, and tonight battled officers and National Guardsmen in an effort to storm the county jail. Three youthful leaders of the crowd were shot, and one, Jed Brown, 18, may die. Several Guardsmen were injured by stones, bottles, and other missiles.

Meanwhile another crowd battled a detachment of Guardsmen on the courthouse square when they attempted to drive the crowd from the ruins of the courthouse.

There were rumors that the mob intended to march upon the Negro quarter and burn all buildings there. The Negro population, estimated at 1,500 to 2,000, had vanished.

[Sherman is a city of 15,000 located about 40 miles north of Dallas.]

How Riot Started.

Hughes, who had pleaded guilty to charges of assaulting a white woman, had been placed in a vault in the courthouse this afternoon by Texas Rangers and local officers, when the mob stormed the building, crying for his life.

Three times officers, under orders from Gov. Moody not to shoot, used tear gas bombs, fists, and clubs to drive back the crowd, but on the fourth attack the mob succeeded in firing the building. The officers were forced to flee, leaving the Negro to his fate.

Officers said the Negro was given his choice of running to escape the mob or of being shut in the vault and that he chose the vault. When last seen he was sitting in a chair in the vault, his head bowed upon his folded arms.

The vault was provided with ventilation, but Sheriff Vaughan said there was no chance that Hughes was alive. Officers said it would be some time before the vault cooled sufficiently to open it.

In spite of an announcement by Sheriff Creben Vaughn that Hughes had perished in the vault, the mob refused to believe the Negro was dead.

Launch Double Attack.

One section of the mob turned its attention to opening the vault door to see if the Negro's body was inside, while another portion delivered an attack on the jail.

At the courthouse members of the mob climbed up to the vault and placed several sticks of dynamite on top of its door, which they had been unable to open. They lighted a long fuse, but it went out without exploding the charge.

A can of blasting powder was set off and this explosion also failed to shake the structure. Then the flame of an acetylene torch was directed against the vault.

At this juncture guardsmen from Dallas arrived and the mob turned its attention to resisting efforts made by

McBride Sure Dry League Is of Divine Call

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—Lobbies and lobbyists were forgotten by the senate investigating committee today as F. Scott McBride, generalissimo of the Anti-Saloon league, and Senator J. J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] clashed angrily over the "divine" origin of the league to a chorus of boos and hisses of "sacrilege" from drys among the spectators.

At the height of the row both Blaine and McBride accused each other of "sacrilege" and before it was ended by the intervention of Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], Blaine declared the dry leader's claim that the league was "born of God" was both "a sacrilegious and outrageous thing."

McBride also had an embarrassing moment when he was confronted with his own statement that "at least 90 per cent of the league's work clusters around elections."

Another Trying Moment.

Similarly, after McBride had reiterated his denial that the league attempts to dictate federal appointments, Blaine produced minutes of an executive committee meeting in Chicago in 1919, showing that a resolution authorizing the legislative committee to take all necessary steps to secure satisfactory appointments" was sponsored by William H. Anderson, former superintendent of the league in New York.

McBride admitted he was present at the meeting when the resolution was adopted and that Anderson, father of the policy, was subsequently convicted and sent to prison in New York for forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses.

Quoting from a copy of a speech made by McBride at the league's convention in Detroit last January and inserted in the Congressional Record by Senator Morris Sheppard [Dem., Tex.], the league's spokesman in the senate, Blaine asked McBride:

"Did you say that 'the Anti-Saloon league was born of God?'"

McBride Expounds.

"I said," answered McBride, "that the league was born of God, is led by Him, and will fight on as long as He leads and the only thing that stands out in this progressive age is that these things that are in the way of the progress of the kingdom of God must get out of the way."

"Then," said Blaine, "you regard your organization as a son of God?"

"As born of God," rejoined McBride while the rows of drys behind him broke into applause.

"And what gave you the conception that the Anti-Saloon league was born of God?" insisted Blaine above the applause. "Did God ever give you a message?"

"Well," answered McBride, "I don't hesitate to claim that the league was born of God. It began at a prayer meeting in Oberlin, O."

"Did you have a message from God to the effect that He had given birth to the organization?" asked Blaine. Several protests of "sacrilege" were heard above the buzzing of the hearing room crowd.

McBride Goes Out.

"The fact that it was born at a prayer meeting—that we do our work in close communion with the churches, that meetings of our executive committee and directors are always opened with prayer——," began McBride.

"O, I know you put on the cloak of religion," interrupted Blaine. "I understand that your organization does put on the cloak of religion and that you claim to be an instrumentality in the hands of God, but what right

DRYS IN SENATE START FIGHT ON OWEN ROBERTS

Hoover Names Him for High Court.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—Possibility of another controversy over a Supreme court appointment loomed today when President Hoover sent to the senate the nomination of Owen J. Roberts of Philadelphia for associate justice. However, it is forecast by some senate leaders that the nomination will be confirmed.

There were rumblings of opposition by the drys after reports were circulated that Mr. Roberts had denounced prohibition in a speech in 1923. Senator Morris Sheppard [Dem., Tex.], dry leader, prepared to launch an attack upon Mr. Roberts, but agreed to hold it in abeyance after Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] denied that the Supreme court nominee had taken the stand against prohibition credited to him.

Oil Case Work Praised.

Senate radicals praised Mr. Roberts' work as one of the special prosecutors for the government in the oil scandal cases, but refused to commit themselves definitely on the question of his confirmation pending a careful study of his career as a corporation lawyer.

When Mr. Roberts' nomination reached the senate it was referred at once to the judiciary committee. Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], chairman of the committee, indicated that the usual course of referring it to a subcommittee would be followed.

Administration leaders were of the opinion that Mr. Roberts would be confirmed promptly. Senator Norris indicated that sufficient time would be allowed to permit interested persons to make known their objections.

That the wet and dry situation is likely to figure in the matter was indicated when Senator F. M. Simmons [Dem., N. C.,] charged that the wets were indirectly a factor in stirring up opposition to Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina, whose rejection by the senate on Wednesday paved the way for today's selection of Mr. Roberts.

Southerners May Oppose Him.

If it develops that Mr. Roberts can be definitely classed as wet, the southern drys who actively supported Judge Parker seem certain to line up against the new nominee.

The basis for the theory that Mr. Roberts is wet was furnished by a newspaper report of a speech by Mr. Roberts on Feb. 18, 1923, which was read in the senate at the time of his appointment as special prosecutor in the oil cases. In that speech, which was at the twelfth annual dinner of the trust companies of the United States, Mr. Roberts defended high salaries paid Standard Oil company officials, opposed nationalization of industry, and also was represented as saying that he was not an advocate of prohibition and as denouncing the eighteenth amendment "as the insertion of a police regulation into the constitution which was reduced to the status of a city ordinance."

Report of Speech Read.

In the newspaper account of Mr. Roberts' speech read in the senate at that time at the request of Senator T. J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.] "to give some kind of a clew to this gentleman's trend of thought," the attorney was said to have declared Standard Oil company officials earned every dollar of their large salaries because it was their business to increase production, which meant ultimate price reductions for the consumer.

"Now, gentlemen," Mr. Roberts was quoted as saying, "what will nationalization bring?" 'O,' says the propagandist, 'the man who gets $100,000 will be displaced and we will put a man in for $5,000 who will do his work.' Will any of the $95,000 fall into your pockets by way of reduced price? Well, some of it may, on the surface of things, but let me tell you this: A loose jointed, badly run government industry will result, and while you don't pay it in the price of gasoline you will pay it not only on the gasoline you buy in taxes but you will pay the other fellow's gasoline in the taxes that you yourself pay.

Stands for Individualism.

"What is the answer? Are we prepared to revise our ideas of government? Are we prepared to go into a frank state of socialism in this country, with all that it means in the suppression of ambition, in the deterrence of industry, in the holding back of men who want to arrange their affairs for their good and the economic good, then for the good of all of us—are we to go into a state of socialism, or are you men and men like you, who form the public opinion of this country, prepared to get out, take off your coats, and root for the old-fashioned Anglo-Saxon individualism, where a man does not have to figure how, first of all, he can do a perfectly honorable business thing without first calculating what all the prohibitory statutes say; and don't, secondly, have such taxes levied upon him that he can't determine whether to go into a business proposition for fear of the resulting liability?"

Railway Reference Cited.

The report of that speech of seven years ago, in addtion to representing Mr. Roberts as criticizing insertion of the 18th amendment into the constitution, also reported that he attacked the government for the condition in which the railroads were left at the end of the government operation period and assailed the government for "absorbing too much control over everything."

"Everywhere you turn," he said, according to the article, "judicial and semi-judicial administrative commissioners, investigating bodies, inspectors, of every known variety are found. The result is that the business man in America today feels that he is doing business with a minion of government looking over his shoulder with an upraised arm and a threatening scowl."

Discussing Abstract Question.

Senator Reed said that Mr. Roberts told him today that as he recalled the speech he was discussing an abstract question, and did not deal with the merits of prohibition.

Senator Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.], author of the Jones prohibition law, was one of the numerous senators who was unwilling to commit himself on the Roberts appointment.

When the appointment was first made known several of the radicals, including Senator Norris and Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] were reported to have told other senators that they were greatly pleased by the appointment.

Record Will Be Studied.

It is a certainty that a careful study will be made of Mr. Roberts' record as a lawyer. He is known to have figured conspicuously as an attorney for large corporations.

Senator Reed and Mr. Roberts had jointly urged upon the President the appointment of Robert von Moschzisker, chief justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme court. The President, however, prevailed upon Mr. Roberts, who was not a candidate for the place, to accept it and Senator Reed gave his approval.

Mr. Roberts is 55, was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and served as a professor of law in that institution. He has been a director of the Bell Telephone company of Pennsylvania and of the Equitable Life Assurance society. He is a Republican but has not been identified with any of the Pennsylvania factions.

Roberts Will Accept.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 9.—(AP)—Owen Josephus Roberts, nominated by President Hoover for the Supreme court bench, will accept the appointment.

"Any lawyer who loves his profession as I do," Mr. Roberts said, "considers it the highest honor that could be offered him, and I consider it my duty and pleasure to accept."

Mr. Roberts is a member of the law firm of Roberts & Montgomery.

Mr. Roberts was born in the Germantown section of Philadelphia. His grandfather came to this country from Wales in 1808, established flour mills in Montgomery county near Philadelphia, and married a descendant of a family of early German settlers in Pennsylvania.

Woman Battles Evanston Cop Seeking Her Picture

Elizabeth Bell, 30 years old, who gave her address as 7031 North Ashland avenue, arrested as a shoplifter with Bertha Madden of the same address in the Wieboldt department store at Evanston, last night wrecked Evanston's police bureau of identification when she resisted attempts to take her picture for the records.

Cat and New Family Found in Suit Case on Street Car

A suitcase found in a Halsted street car was turned in yesterday to the 77th street station of the surface lines. When it was opened by W. A. Bessette, station superintendent, a cat and a newly arrived family of kittens was found inside. They were turned over to the Humane society.

NATIONAL REALTY MEN PROTEST ON DRYS' PADLOCKS

Fight the Carrying Out of Closure Laws.

The government's policy of padlocking buildings for violation of the prohibition law, thereby cutting off millions of dollars in revenue from valuable property, was criticized yesterday by the board of directors of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. The quarterly meeting of the directors opened at the Drake hotel yesterday.

"The padlocking of buildings for violation of the prohibition law amounts to a violation of the principle of private property," declared Leonard Reaum, president of the association. "The property owner cannot be held responsible for what the tenant does. And yet the government closes buildings for misdemeanors of the tenants and the property owner suffers, for no rent can be paid and mortgages cannot be retired because there is no revenue."

Up to U. S., They Say.

In a resolution voted unanimously, the real estate men declared that the responsibility of enforcement of the prohibition law rests with the government and not with the real estate owners. Property owners, they said, cannot do the government's snooping.

"Even the fact that an owner was absolutely without knowledge of his tenant's dereliction is no legal defense against closure," the resolution stated. "Nor is legal right given an owner to remedy conditions for which his tenant and not himself is responsible.

"As long as the courts made no real attempt to apply padlock provisions and there was no great pressure brought to bear for enforcement, this association felt it was well to remain silent. But recent reports advising stringent application of padlocking laws, and the many serious complaints setting forth cases of substantial injury done owners who had no knowledge of, nor in any way participated in, tenants' violations, leads this association formally to protest against this encroachment on elementary property rights."

Attack Padlock Provisions.

The directors resolved that "it is not and should not be necessary to enforce the prohibition law by closure of premises, and until these unjust provisions can be removed from the laws every effort be made to avoid their application, especially where the owner has had no opportunity to abate what is declared in such laws to be a nuisance."

GREIN FACES U. S.

Twenty hours after prohibition agents closed his malt and hop store at 210 West Madison street, Joe Grein, proprietor and president of the Malt Products company, opened his doors for "business as usual" yesterday noon.

When Grein arrived at his shop after he had appeared before United States Commissioner Edwin Walker, a crowd of sympathizers jammed the doorway. Grein made a speech, opened the shop and treated the crowd to drinks of sauerkraut juice. But no malt, or hops, or bottles, or caps were sold in the place yesterday, for the government had carted these supplies away in many trucks to the government warehouses.

Grein surrendered to Commissioner Walker on a warrant charging illegal sale of beer ingredients and bottling supplies. He said he could not make up his mind whether he was "a malefactor or a martyr."

Grein, his partner, J. Pahls, and two employés, Harry Gould and Clarence Widener, were released in bonds of $1,000 each, pending a hearing on May 16.

It was learned yesterday that the procedure followed in the Grein raid will serve as an example for future raids in Chicago. The government agents will make a point of asking clerks how to make brew potent and palatable and then make their "buys."

McBride Says Dry League is "Born of God"; Blaine Doubts

have you to call yourselves an instrumentality of heaven?"

"My own view," shouted the Wisconsin senator, "is that I don't believe God would approve of some of your practices, and I think it unfortunate for the moral forces of this country that an organization like the league should call itself a divine agency. It is a sacrilegious and an outrageous thing."

"I think your questions are sacrilegious," retorted McBride, rising from his chair.

"You have stated twice, and——" began Blaine as McBride launched into another explanation.

Caraway Steps on Pedal.

"We will just call it a closed incident," interrupted Senator Caraway, cautioning Blaine and McBride to confine themselves to discussion of the leagues' lobbying activities.

Another squabble was precipitated when Blaine asked McBride to identify Dr. Howard Hyde Russell of Westerville, O.

"The league has sort of canonized him?" asked Blaine, when McBride declared Dr. Russell was the founder of the league.

"What do you mean by 'canonized'?" asked McBride.

"What you ministers mean by the word," explained Blaine.

"Well, he was not made a bishop," laughed McBride, and even the senators smiled at what was generally interpreted as a pun on the name of Bishop James Cannon Jr., dry leader of the Methodist church south.

"But the canonization of Dr. Russell gave your organization the character of a divine institution, as you regard it?" asked Blaine.

"No, no," answered McBride.

"So you do not think your organization has divine guidance after all?" asked Blaine.

Robinson Halts Row.

"Yes, I do," asserted McBride, but a protest from Senator Arthur Robinson [Rep., Ind.] that Russell's canonization has nothing to do with lobbying halted the exchanges.

After reading the Anderson resolution adopted at the Chicago meeting, Blaine reminded McBride that yesterday he testified the league never sought to "dictate" appointments, but merely furnished the appointing power with "information" on the applicants for places. McBride asserted today that usually such "information" was furnished in telephone conversations, but when pressed could not recall a specific instance.

"Of course," observed Blaine, "that is a convenient way to suppress a fact and you know it, Dr. McBride."

Faced with his statement that 90 per cent of the league's activities "cluster" about elections, McBride sought to explain "cluster" merely meant "close relationship and did not imply that 90 per cent of the league's activities are political."

Some More Repartee.

"Well, you are very excellent in the choice of language——" began Blaine.

"Thank you," smiled McBride.

"But I don't think you fool any one," concluded Blaine.

"I wonder," said Blaine, after McBride asserted that the elections around which the league's work "clusters" are those of President, Vice Presidents, members of congress, governors and state legislators, "how you have evaded the federal corrupt practices act."

"We have not evaded it," answered McBride. He produced reports indicating that the league and its various subsidiaries spent a total of $178,000 in the 1928 elections. Of that amount, the reports showed, a little less than $100,000 was spent by the national organization.

Enter Wayne B. Wheeler.

Going back to the late Wayne B. Wheeler, McBride's predecessor, as the league's general superintendent, Blaine quoted the opening paragraph from a biography of "Wayne B. Wheeler, dry boss," written by the latter's secretary and associate for years, Justin Steuart.

Steuart's book credits Wheeler with having dictated to Presidents and congresses. It says he controlled the dry enforcement bureau and handled more patronage than any ten men in the country.

"But that book is full of inaccurate, misleading, and erroneous statements," protested McBride, offering an official statement of the league's administrative committee repudiating the biography. Steuart's devotion to Wheeler, McBride said, led him to be "careless" in his choice of words.

Still on League Pay Roll.

McBride admitted, however, that Steuart is still employed by the league as publicity assistant to Dr. E. H. Cherrington, superintendent of the educational division of the league. The league, McBride admitted further, in response to Blaine's questions, would not "employ an untruthful man if we knew it."

Blaine then directed McBride's attention to a recent magazine article by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, chairman of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals crediting Wheeler with having virtually forced the selection of John F. Kramer as the first prohibition director.

"Dr. Wilson used language carelessly," asserted McBride.

"Everybody but yourself, then, uses language carelessly?" suggested Blaine.

"Even you and I do," said McBride.

Blaine pointed out that Wheeler, reporting to the league's executive committee, on his success in securing Kramer's appointment, declared, "I had assurances from the administration that no applicant for the position will be named who does not have our indorsement."

Kramer Hired by League.

Kramer, following his retirement from the dry post, was retained by the league as a lecturer and under its auspices, according to McBride, addressed dry rallies in churches all over the country.

"Did you ever tell the ministers in whose pulpits he appeared," asked Blaine, "that it was charged in an indictment of the District of Columbia Supreme court that Kramer released 4,000 cases of whisky to Pittsburgh bootleggers who paid a bribe therefor of $100,000, and that Mr. Kramer was not indicted for conspiracy, but was a witness for the government?"

After protesting against the reflection on Kramer's reputation McBride finally said he had never heard of the charge until several years after the case had been disposed of.

BISHOP CANNON CHARGES FILED AT CONFERENCE

Three Other Church Leaders Also Accused.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Dallas, Tex., May 9.—[Special.]—The Rev. Frank P. Culver, chairman of the Episcopacy committee of the 21st general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, meeting here, admitted late this afternoon that specific and general charges of misconduct had been filed with him against Bishop James Cannon Jr., in a letter from the Rev. Dr. Rembert Smith of Washington, Ga.

Dr. Culver refused to divulge the nature of the charges. It is assumed, however, that they center about Bishop Cannon's alleged stock market gambling. Three other bishops were named by Dr. Smith, but as with the Cannon charges, Dr. Culver refused to state their nature until the episcopacy committee had canvassed the charges and was ready to make a formal report to the conference, "in about a week."

Three Other Bishops Named.

The other bishops named in the Smith document are: Bishop John M. Moore, Dallas, Tex.; Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon, Charlotte, N. C., and Bishop H. M. Dubose, Nashville, Tenn. The Rev. Dr. Smith, who is preferring the charges against the bishops, was not elected a delegate to the general conference. It is stated that he will arrive in Dallas late next week to prosecute his charges before the committee on episcopacy. Mr. Culver stated that any member of the church, either minister or layman, is permitted to bring complaints or charges against bishops to the episcopacy committee of the general conference.

Even before the filing of the Culver charges clouds of trouble began threatening Bishop Cannon. Until today it had been conceded that the charges of bucket shop patronage, lobbying and clerical political combinations lodged against the bishop some time ago would fail to stand in the judgment of his clerical brethren.

Tide Begins to Turn.

The tide, however, began to turn today, close on what delegates call Bishop Cannon's victory of yesterday, when he threw back all responsibility for his reputed lobbying and political activities on his church, and put Josephus Daniels, southern Democrat, at the head of the conference committee on temperance and social service.

The anti-Cannon group turned to the bishop's reputed bucket shop deals. The bishop did not appear in his seat in the conference. In his absence the delegation from the southwest Missouri conference presented a memorial demanding that the general conference utter a pronouncement against "stock market gambling." The memorial was committed to Mr. Daniel's committee.

The pronouncement demanded by the southwest Missouri conference, if granted, would not affect past actions of Bishop Cannon relating to alleged "stock market gambling." It is pointed out, as in civil law, its action would not be retroactive.

One suggestion heard was that Bishop Cannon be made "a bishop-at-large" without specific jurisdiction in order that "he may carry on his work of influencing moral legislation and directing political action on behalf of the church."

Another suggestion is that the retirement age of the bishops be set so that automatically Bishop Cannon will be placed on the retired list. Bishop Cannon is 66 years old.

Union Plan Rejected.

Projected union of the Methodist Episcopal church, South with the Methodist Episcopal church, the northern body of Methodism, was closed today as far as the present conference of the southern church is concerned. The special committee on unification of the two branches of American Methodism today brought a report to the conference stating that it would be "unwise at this time to attempt to outline the legal steps necessary to effect the reunion."

The two branches of Methodism were divided in 1836 over the slavery question. A plan was devised eight years ago to effect reunion, but after a bitter fight, the southern churchmen rejected the proffers from their northern brethern. It will be impossible for the church to consider reunion again for four years.

ORDINANCE TO FIX DATES OF TAG DAYS GOES TO COUNCIL

An ordinance fixing the dates of three tag days was recommended to the city council yesterday by the finance committee. Poppies will be sold by members of the American Legion, G. A. R., Spanish War Veterans and United Veterans of Foreign Wars on May 27 and 28. The Federated Charities of Chicago will tag on Sept. 8 and the Children's Benefit league on Oct. 6.

Negro Meeting to Express Approval of Parker Vote

As an expression of approval for the votes cast against the nomination of Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina for the Supreme court bench Chicago Negro leaders are planning a massmeeting of their race to welcome Senators Deneen and Glenn upon their return from Washington at the end of congress. From their pulpits tomorrow pastors of 72 Negro churches will urge their congregations to turn out for the meeting. On the committee arranging the affair are Jesse Binga, banker; Robert S. Abbott, newspaper publisher; William E. King, state representative, and Col. Spencer E. Dickerson, commander of the Eighth infantry.

ASSAIL DRY LAW PROGRAM; PLAN POLLS REMEDY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—President Hoover's program for enforcement of the prohibition laws was the target of scathing criticism and ridicule by speakers at a banquet of wet members of congress and wet organization officials at the Mayflower hotel tonight.

Meeting to lay the groundwork for a coöperation of wet groups to aid candidates opposed to the dry law at the fall elections, the anti-prohibitionists, including former Senator William Cabell Bruce of Maryland and Representative Melvin J. Maas [Rep., Minn.] lambasted the dry movement and all its friends. The Hoover administration they pictured as "having played into the hands of dry zealots" who are leading it to disaster.

"A Promise Unredeemed."

"The honorable President was never more in error than when he spoke of prohibition as an experiment, noble in motive," declared former Senator Bruce. "Long since it has passed from an experiment to a promise unredeemed, to brutal and nauseous oppression.

"Every indication is that the American people intend to have none of it. It is a water-logged log bound for an impossible shore. Even Bishop Cannon with his sanguine bucket shop temperament has begun to realize that prohibition stock values are steadily declining."

Representative Maas declared that the Wickersham law enforcement program is "the most asinine and utterly hopeless way that could be devised to get us out of the prohibition mess."

More Laws, Judges, Prisons.

"President Hoover is asking for more enforcement," he asserted. "More enforcement — that's all we hear. More laws and more judges. Arrest more. Send more to jail. What I want to know is where are they going to put them.

"Attorney General Mitchell is crying on our shoulders telling us that the prisons are filled up and spilling over, the jail walls are bulging, the court calendars are months behind, and they can't handle their prohibition cases even with bargain days. And still they want to speed up the machinery and put them into jail faster. If there ever was conclusive proof that prohibition is a failure it is the frantic efforts being made to enforce it.

"I would lose my faith in the American people if they laid down and supinely accepted this law. There are many things worse than so-called nullification. This question has never been submitted to the people. I say that nullification is a legitimate 'out' when the only alternative is tyranny."

McBride Testimony Assailed.

Representative Maas, referring to the testimony of Supt. F. Scott McBride of the Anti-Saloon league before the senate lobby committee today, that the league was "born of God," took issue with the doctrine that prohibition had anything to do with divinity. Every time any one has a weak cause, he said, they invoke the Almighty.

Charles A. Windel of Chicago, editor of Liberal, another speaker, declared that McBride should be forced to show the Anti-Saloon league's birth certificate, adding:

"Judging from its progeny, the hijacker, the racketeer, and the bootlegger, the Anti-Saloon league is the illegitimate offspring of the devil. I deny that God is the grandmother of these monsters."

"Blasphemous Claims."

Recalling the statement of Dr. Clarence True Wilson of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, that God must have saved the site for the Methodist building near the capitol grounds, Windle said he considered the statements of the two dry leaders as "blasphemous."

Virtually all of the wet organizations except the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment were represented at the banquet, which marked the first effort of the various groups to coöperate in a united program.

CUSTOMS MEN STILL BUSY OPENING CANS OF CHINESE WINE

Customs inspectors yesterday were still opening the cans in eighty cases of goods imported from China, billed as bamboo sprouts, a Chinese delicacy. Most of the contents so far have turned out to be a thick, potent wine made from rice, they said.

The carload of "canned goods" seized on Wednesday in the yards of the Soo line were shipped to a large Chinese shop, according to the inspectors. The name of the concern was not disclosed, and it is believed that prosecution will be difficult, according to federal agents, as the company can produce its records to show that bamboo sprouts were ordered.

Besides the wine, the shipment included some bamboo sprouts and possibly other Chinese foodstuffs, the customs officials said. The contents of the box car have been moved to a government warehouse.

WRITER TELLS OF SAVAGE BATTLE IN INDIA; 50 SLAIN

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 9.—A graphic story of bloodshed and ferocity in the Sholapur, India, riots, in which three police officers were killed, one burned alive, and five are missing, was received in London tonight from Ashmead Bartlett, special correspondent for the Daily Telegraph. The dispatch gave the first detailed account of the Sholapur disturbances, in which a mob of 10,000 natives terrorized the city.

With only 100 armed police and 20 volunteers, the district collector attempted to restore order in the city of 120,000 inhabitants, eight hours journey from Bombay. The collector and 25 constables fought their way through a savage mob of 1,000, resorting to firearms as a last measure. The casualties among the rioters are estimated at 50 killed and 400 wounded.

A City of the Dead.

Cabling from Sholapur tonight at 6 o'clock, the correspondent says that he found Sholapur a city of the dead. The inhabitants had hidden themselves away, and the streets were almost deserted except for scared cows, goats, and donkeys, which were wandering around disconsolately.

Occasionally a few men, women and children ventured out of doors. But at the sight of trucks filled with troops they bolted like rabbits to their burrows, hurling themselves behind cover or through half opened doors, expecting to hear the crack of a rifle and the whistle of a bullet.

How Rioting Started.

Describing Wednesday's rioting, the correspondent says two trucks full of armed police attempted to stop the wrecking of liquor shops. The mob stoned the police, but finally was chased away. Yesterday, Thursday, the crowd, reinforced to 10,000, advanced on the police, stoning them from three sides. The police opened fire, forcing their way back to the city through an avalanche of stones all along the route.

The district collector went to the assistance of a section of unarmed police who were being attacked by the mob. He found one police station wrecked by fire and the bodies of two policemen burning on a pyre in the street.

The correspondent visited this police station today and found the interior completely ruined and débris scattered in the street. Five of the seven police inside had escaped. One of the victims had his skull smashed with a paving stone. Another officer met a worse fate. The mob made a bonfire and burned him alive. The correspondent found his charred body covered with a blue cloth.

Records Destroyed by Fire.

The Sholapur sessions house and five large buildings, containing all the courts, offices and records of the city and district, were destroyed by fire and are now a mass of still smoldering ruins. Title deeds to properties, records of cases, statistics on births, deaths, and marriages and thousands of valuable deeds and records were destroyed. The mob broke into the strong room but was unable to open the safes. They then looted the "manors room," where jewelry, valuables, and records were stored.

Today, the correspondent says, there is still a serious element which may lead to racial troubles. Three of the policemen known to have been murdered were Mohammedans. This has aroused intense indignation among their co-religionists. Of the five other police missing, two are known to have been murdered and thrown down a well—one after having had his eyes gouged out. These were also Moslems.

Planes Fly as Warning.

BOMBAY, India, May 9.—(AP)—The British lion showed its teeth today to the unruly followers of Mahatma Gandhi's civil disobedience campaign.

While 40 airplanes were dispatched on a warning flight over the Peshawar district, where restive natives were suspected of preparing for a raid, the home government took occasion to announce that Great Britain has 226,000 troops ready to answer a call to arms in India.

Abbas Tyabji, retired high court judge of the native state of Baroda, who has taken Mahatma Ghandi's place as active leader of the civil disobedience campaign in the field, announced he would march on Monday morning from Karadi Matvad to Dharasana, where on Thursday he will attempt to raid salt deposits managed by the government.

He will arrive with some 300 volunteers at Dharasana on Wednesday evening and attack the deposits the next day. This was the move Ghandi threatened shortly before his arrest. It marks an important extension of the campaign against the salt monopoly, the volunteers having hitherto confined themselves chiefly to manufacturing salt themselves.

ROUND UP LEADERS

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CALCUTTA, May 9.—The British government is apparently moving in all sections of India to repress the India national congress. Nationwide arrests of the leaders of the congress are being made, with indications that the members of the body will soon fill the nation's jails. Seemingly London backs, or at least inspired, the firm hand of the viceroy, Lord Irwin.

However, the sentiment is rising so rapidly against the repression of nationalistic aspirations that what the outcome will be is unpredictable. The Indians are denied arms and are also inclined to follow Mahatma Gandhi's plea for peaceful protestations, but the younger natives continue to cause anxiety inasmuch as the students are among the chief agitators.

At Bombay a meeting of commercial bodies passed a resolution saying that the round table conference proposed by Britain is no longer desirable. This meeting urged similar bodies throughout the nation to act in a like manner.

Khyber pass remains closed, cutting off Afghanistan, from where troublemakers might reach Peshawar. Unrest prevails in Kashmir, where a memorial has been presented to the maharajah against the heavy taxation in the Srinagar municipality.

The government's hand is somewhat strengthened by the action of the All-India Moslem association of Bombay in demanding that the government come forward and stop the civil resisters. However, Hindus represent more than 80 per cent of the population.

Both Hindu and Mohammedan leaders are using their influence to prevent further religious excesses incident to tomorrow's Moslem festival.

Arrangements for maintaining peace in Calcutta and the mill areas began tonight with the posting of pickets, while reserve forces are being held ready for action, as tomorrow is the anniversary of the Sepoy mutiny at Meerut in 1857.

Impose Stiff Prison Terms.

Increased prison terms are being imposed. At Lahore two men with doctor's degrees, one being a Mohammedan, were sentenced to three years and eighteen months, while a third leader was given two years at hard labor. Prof. Indra, widely known editor of the Delhi Arjun, was released on bail of $1,809.50, pending trial.

Pandit Nehru, acting president of the all-India congress, wired the viceroy and the commissioner of the northwest province the names of a committee chosen for an unofficial inquiry into the troubles at Peshawar. They will arrive May 15. Two members of this committee already have been arrested and the others probably will be seized. Mr. Nehru's telegram requested immunity for the committee during the investigation. An official inquiry already has been ordered.

Wife Is Granted Divorce from Robert C. Sweetser

Mrs. Deborah M. Sweetser, daughter of the late William Moorhouse, former commissioner of public works, won a divorce yesterday from Robert C. Sweetser, a broker, before Superior Judge Sabath. Mrs. Sweetser charged that her husband struck her with a hairbrush. The Sweetsers were married on Jan. 15, 1927, and separated last March 25, according to the bill. Mrs. Sweetser was represented by Attorney George L. Schein.

EX-HOBO NAMED BY KING AS NEW POET LAUREATE

John Masefield Picked to Sing Praises of Britain.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 9.—John Masefield, poet, author, and dramatist, today was appointed poet laureate of England to succeed the late Dr. Robert Bridges, who died a fortnight ago. The appointment was announced in the London Gazette as follows:

"The king is graciously pleased to appoint John Masefield, esquire, D. Litt., to be poet laureate, in ordinary, to his majesty in the room of Robert Bridges, esquire, O. M., D. Litt., M. A., deceased."

Mr. Masefield is the eighteenth poet laureate in succession to Edmund Spenser, with whom this office in its modern form is considered to have begun.

Worked in N. Y. Saloon.

He is 55 and has filled at various times the rôles of hobo, sailor, bartender, and beach comber before gaining fame as a novelist and poet. He worked in a New York saloon and as a journalist before settling down to write poetry. As a boy he ran away to sea and found his way to America, where he lived a vagrant life until he obtained a job in the saloon, working 16 hours a day for $10 a month.

He chanced to purchase a copy of Geoffrey Chaucer, which determined him to be a poet. Following his return to England he published his famous "Salt Water Ballads," which were followed by nearly 40 volumes of miscellaneous collections of prose, poetry, and plays.

One of His Poems.

Quinquireme of Nineveh from distant Ophir,
Rowing home to haven in sunny Palestine,
With a cargo of ivory,
And apes and peacocks,
Sandalwood, cedarwood, and sweet white wine.

Stately Spanish galleon coming from the Isthmus,
Dipping through the tropics by the palm-green shores,
With a cargo of diamonds,
Emeralds, amethysts,
Topazes, and cinnamon, and gold moidores.

Dirty British coaster with a salt-caked smoke stack,
Butting through the channel in the mad March days,
With a cargo of Tyne coal,
Road rails, pig-lead,
Firewood, iron-ware and cheap tin trays.

At Boars Hill, Oxford, where he lives with his wife and two children, Mr. Masefield tonight expressed his appreciation for the honor. The traditional emolument of the laureateship is a cask of Canary wine. Mr. Masefield declared that it will be useless to him, as he is a teetotaler.

FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL ROOM.

Lying dead for two days in his room in the Regal hotel, 69 West Ohio street, the body of Walter Nelson, 45 years old, a newsboy, was found yesterday by two former guests who returned for forgotten clothing.

70 YEARS OLD

SIR JAMES M. BARRIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 9.—Sir James M. Barrie, creator of Peter Pan and other whimsical creatures, who have charmed millions of readers and theater goers, today celebrated his seventieth birthday, alone in his modest London flat with his black cat, Timothy.

Throughout the day mailmen and messenger boys climbed the narrow staircase, bearing letters and telegrams of congratulation from admirers all over the world, but notice was given below that the author would rather not receive visitors.

Two favored friends, who were permitted to enter the small study, stated that Barrie passed the day recalling his boyhood days in the village of Kirriemuir, the model for the village of Thrums in his novels. Tonight he made a speech at the Royal Literary fund dinner.

SEEK INDICTMENT OF NEGRO ROBBER AS GIRL'S SLAYER

Grand jury action was planned yesterday by the police and the state's attorney's office in the case of Harry Young, colored, 29 years old, who has been identified as the slayer of Miss Alice Rita Voight, 5419 Ingleside avenue, on May 3. Miss Voight was sitting in an automobile with Policeman Herbert Last in front of her home when a robber approached and, seeing Last's uniform, fired one shot and fled.

Last identified Young at the bridewell hospital, where the latter was taken after he was shot on Thursday while trying to escape from policemen. He was captured in Evanston while robbing a home.

Mabel Davis, colored, with whom Young had lived at 4733 Michigan avenue, yesterday picked out a .25 caliber revolver at the detective bureau as resembling a weapon she had seen in Young's possession. Miss Voight was shot was a .25 caliber revolver.

SCHOOLBOY ENDS LIFE TO ESCAPE ENGLISH FAGGING

Inquest Jury Recommends System Be Abolished.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 9.—The abolition of the much criticized fagging system in the English public schools was strongly recommended today by an inquest jury at Nelson in Lancashire in probing the death of Geoffrey Fairhurst, 14 years old, who hanged himself rather than return to school, where he was forced to fag or act as a servant to upper form boys.

The youth's father, the Rev. F. W. Fairhurst, vicar in the town of Barrowfield, placed the blame for his son's suicide squarely on the fagging system, which places young boys at the beck and call of older boys, obliging them to do the latters' chores under the penalty of being thrashed.

Boy Feared Fagging, Says Father.

The father testified that the boy dreaded more and more returning to school after each vacation, until his parents began to realize what an ordeal fagging presented for him. During the Easter vacation the father said the lad appeared happy, but that he went to his room and hanged himself on the eve of the end of the recess.

When questioned concerning fagging at Sedbergh, the famous north England public school, which Geoffrey attended, the father said that each boy was supposed to do twenty fags a week. When the prefect, or older student, called, all fags were supposed to run, the first one arriving receiving a credit mark. The boy failing to get 20 marks a week was supposed to be thrashed by the prefect, the father explained.

Headmaster Defends Custom.

Graham Smith, headmaster of Sedbergh, defended fagging, declaring that all of the boys in his school were happy, and fagging only consisted of the lightest tasks.

"The system has been attacked on the ground that it makes boys do menial work for derogatory reasons," he said. "We try to teach them that labor is not derogatory.

"We try to inculcate in a boy the habits of prompt obedience, cleanliness, promptitude, and the thought that it is not menial and not derogatory to do odd jobs."

Nathan Silver, 10 years old, son of B. Coleman Silver, 5000 Cornell avenue, a manufacturer of juvenile specialties at 849 West Harrison street, was killed by an Illinois Central freight train at 50th street last evening. The boy was returning from an errand and apparently had climbed the railroad embankment to shorten his trip, the police were told.

FATE OF TRANSIT EXTENSIONS UP TO ALDERMEN TODAY

Bankers Warn 200 Million Is Their Limit.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The fate of the proposed indeterminate transit franchise, so far as the transportation committee of the city council is concerned, is expected to be indicated, if not decided, today. The committee members have made few criticisms of the ordinance thus far, but many of them appear inclined to emphasize the pleas of their constituents for extensions of transit service, not provided in the plan for the consolidation of the surface and elevated lines.

Excluding the question of added extensions, sentiment in the committee seems to favor the ordinance. Just how far the aldermen will go for more extensions remains to be seen.

1925 Ordinance Recalled.

When the Dever 1925 ordinance was before the council some aldermen demanded extensions in return for their votes. In return for three votes a provision for a subway in Madison street from the loop to Cicero avenue, which all of the engineers said could not be made to pay, was inserted in the ordinance.

Elevated extensions and surface line additions were promised for other votes. When the ordinance came to a roll call vote it provided a physical plan which the engineers and bankers later said was "highly impracticable, and financially impossible." It was submitted to the voters in a referendum and was defeated.

Danger in Log Rolling.

If log rolling is started on extensions in the committee this afternoon, observers said yesterday, the final result is any one's guess. In such a case, it was pointed out, one alderman who insists upon an extension could go to another alderman who wants an extension and they could agree to vote for what each desires. If they traded votes with others who want extensions, they would gather voting strength as they proceed. If they got a majority, they might break down the ordinance with the overload, it was said.

The bankers told the subcommittee, headed by Ald. J. B. Bowler, yesterday that they cannot accept an ordinance which requires more than $200,000,000 in extension in the first 10 years. The subcommittee, composed of Ald. Bowler, J. M. Arvey, O. F. Nelson, John Toman, and J. B. McDonough, after getting new estimates of cost from the engineers, decided that no extensions to the elevated system will be recommended. The members also agreed to keep within the 300 miles of surface line and bus extensions.

Protested Lines Eliminated.

In the plan heretofore submitted the surface line and bus extensions totaled 291 miles. These included some lines against which the aldermen have received protests, and such extensions have been eliminated. On behalf of protesting constituents Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th] asked the elimination of a connecting link in Lake Park avenue and a bus line in Woodlawn avenue.

But now difficulties have arisen in two streets which require utilization of the surplus mileage of extensions. The Chicago Motor Coach company now operates in Addison street between Broadway and Harlem avenue and a suit on its right to operate is pending in court. If that is decided against the motor coach company the new transit system will operate buses on this route.

Problem of Archer Avenue.

The other problem concerns Archer avenue for three miles over which a suburban electric line now operates. The new company is willing to operate this stretch, but the company desires that these two streets—Addison and Archer—be counted as part of the 300 miles of surface extensions. If that is the final decision, then all of the surplus mileage of extensions—nine miles not shown in the present plan and other lines which will be eliminated—will be accounted for.

If the bankers, who have the final decision today, agree to Addison street and Archer avenue, in addition to the 300 miles, then about 11 extra miles of surface extensions will be added to the lines already specified.

Typical of the bankers' view is that of Albert W. Harris, who said yesterday:

"We have gone to the limit of the last notch. I cannot approve of a plan which calls for promising more than $200,000,000 in extensions, because I will not make a promise that will be unfulfilled."

"It is unfair and unbusinesslike to acquiesce in a promise that will get the new company into difficulties, cause embarrassment, and later result in extensive criticism. I sincerely believe that $200,000,000 of extensions can be obtained and assented to a penalty if there is any default in building them. The city has pushed us to the last notch. We cannot go farther."

Harlan Offers a Guarantee.

Attorney John Maynard Harlan sent a letter yesterday to Ald. McDonough, chairman of the transportation committee, in which his client, the Metropolitan Transit company, agrees to "deposit immediately with the Chicago Title and Trust company $1,000,000 in cash or high grade securities" to insure that it will establish a fund of $1,000,000 as a guarantee that it will make all required extensions, if given an ordinance. It is expected that Mr. Harlan will seek an opportunity to elaborate on his offer at the committee meeting today.

William Hughes Clarke, security dealer, has asked McDonough for a chance to present more of his ideas "to improve the proposed franchise."

Citizens' Committee Tells Program for Revenue Relief

"Validation of 1928, 1929, and 1930 annual appropriation ordinances and tax levy ordinances.

"Payment from any available funds of excess of such warrants over and above taxes collected for the year against which they were issued. [This amounts to some 5 or 6 million dollars.]"

Proposed Collection Schedule.

The collection schedule for catching up with back taxes, to keep two tax bills from coming too closely together, is as follows:

Year of levy.	Becoming delinquent.
1928	July 1, 1930
1929	Feb. 1, 1931
1930	Dec. 1, 1931
1931	Oct. 1, 1932
1932	Aug. 1, 1933
1933	June 1, 1934
1934	May 1, 1935

"At the close of 1929," says the report, "when the citizens' committee undertook the work of assisting in the restoration of Chicago's credit, there was in the corporate fund a deficit of approximately $15,000,000. Of this, $2,000,000 was carried over from 1927, about $4,750,600 was for 1928, while some $8,250,000 was for 1929. In addition there were outstanding judgments against the corporate fund of about $6,000,000.

"To meet the 1927 hang-over deficit and the 1928 reduced valuation deficit it is suggested that the general assembly should authorize the issuance by Chicago of about $7,000,000 in short term bonds payable within three years."

Plan to Meet 1929 Deficit.

The report proposes to meet the 1929 deficit by "adjustment of the 1929 city corporate tax rate, and this can be arranged easily, as 1929 taxes will not be extended for many months. The rate required will be approximately $1.33 per $100." The committee says that, due to decrease in assessed valuations, this "will not increase the aggregate amount of taxes which otherwise would have been collected had valuations not been changed."

To finance the $6,000,000 of outstanding judgments against the corporate tax fund, it is proposed to set up "a special judgment fund tax of 3 cents per $100 for a period of eight years, beginning in 1930."

The report points out that for years Chicago has been in the habit of borrowing 75 per cent of the current year's tax levy a year ahead of collection. In 1929 borrowings on tax anticipation warrants by the city corporate fund was $35,000,000, and in addition about $11,000,000 was advanced from special city funds to meet pay rolls. The committee proposes to provide "a substantial amount of ready money to start restoring the city corporate fund to a cash basis."

"To initiate this special cash fund a bond issue of $12,000,000 is proposed," the report says.

Future Tax Rates Discussed.

Dwelling on requisite tax levies, the committee declares:

"This program for the fiscal rehabilitation of the city will increase the total maximum city corporate tax rate from the present rate of $1.075 established in 1929 to $1.33 for 1929, $1.37 for 1930, $1.37 for 1931, $1.35 for 1932, $1.32 for 1933, $1.29 for 1934 and succeeding years. The reduction in these rates after 1931 will follow the gradual decrease in interest charges on tax anticipation warrants.

"In addition to the maximum city corporate tax rates shown above there will be: [a] a tax for bond principal and interest of 12 cents for 1930, 1931, and 1932, and 5 cents for 1933, gradually reducing thereafter; [b] a special tax to pay judgments [above mentioned] of 3 cents annually for eight years; and [c] a tax of 10 cents for the special cash fund.

"The proceeds of these latter taxes are not to be used for ordinary appropriations and expenditures. It is important that the public should insist that the general assembly authorize and safeguard these special taxes."

The Board of Education.

Taking up the board of education, the committee says the revenue in 1930 will be insufficient to meet interest on tax anticipation warrants coming due in 1930 and 1931. It proposes a special tax of 10 cents. The report says:

"The major problem of the board of education, however, is to get cash pending the collection of taxes delayed by completion of the reassessment. In order to meet pay rolls and other disbursements during 1930 and 1931, in addition to the moneys which will be required from current tax collections and other sources, from $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 will be required.

"The only practicable way to provide these additional moneys without imposing an undue burden upon taxpayers appears to be the issuance of bonds. To safeguard these moneys, it is proposed to segregate the proceeds of such bonds in a special cash fund."

The program for Cook county is to be announced later, the committee remarking that to provide cash to pay current bills, 4 or 5 million dollars of bonds should be issued. The report of the advisory committee to the citizens' committee was signed by Simeon E. Leland, chairman, Harris S. Keeler, Charles E. Merriam, Herbert D. Simpson and Douglas Sutherland.

Poles Demand Parliament Action in Economic Crisis

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, May 9.—Speaker Dasynski called on President Moscicki this evening and presented a demand of parliamentary opposition, signed by 149 deputies, asking him to call an extraordinary session of parliament due to the serious economic crisis. Eugene Kwiatkowski has been reappointed as minister of commerce.

TAX SPENDERS GET $2,000,000 1928 REVENUE

First Proceeds Handed to Local Governments.

County Treasurer George F. Harding yesterday turned over the first of the 1928 tax revenue to the tax spending bodies. The treasurer distributed $2,000,000 cleared through his office on personal property tax bills in the city.

The following amounts were distributed:

City and schools	$1,200,000
Sanitary district	150,000
County	100,000
Lincoln park board	50,000
West park board	50,000
Forest preserves	50,000
South park board	50,000
Minor taxing bodies	350,000

The revenue was obtained largely from banks and corporations, which had high personal property assessments. The city's share was turned over to City Treasurer Peterson.

Funds Already Spent.

These funds have already been spent by the local governments. Almost all of the 1928 and 1929 revenue has been mortgaged by the issuance of tax anticipation warrants. Treasurer Harding stated that despite the fact that he funds would be immediately turned over to take up warrants, the credit of the governments would be restored as the 1928 revenue came in.

Mrs. Ann M. O'Donohue of the forest preserves was the first to claim a share of the money. She was given a voucher for $50,000.

Niles Tax Rate Fixed.

County Clerk Sweitzer made public the tax rate for the township of Niles. The base rate for the portion outside of Chicago is $1.38, and for the portion within the city is $4.66. Other rates which must be added by the taxpayers outside of Chicago in the various city village, park, and school districts are:

Evanston	$1.20	Niles	$0.57
Morton Grove	.66	Niles Center	.55
Golf	.77	Niles Center Pk.	.08
Glen View	.83	Tessville	.45
Glen View Pk.	.11	Sauganash Park	.35
Mosquito abatement	$0.04

The last of the township rates—those for Thornton—are to be made public today.

LYNCHERS BURN COURTHOUSE AND A TEXAS NEGRO

Mob Goes Wild as It Battles Troops.

troopers to clear the courthouse grounds. After the guardsmen had repulsed the mob at the jail, machine guns were set up at strategic points around the building.

Mob Invades Trial.

Four rangers were on duty at the courthouse upon instructions from Gov. Moody, who feared that trouble might result when the Negro was brought into court for trial today.

A crowd formed before noon and many gained access to the courthouse. Some more bold than others took the leadership and made a rush for the prisoner. The rangers fought back the crowd, assisted by other officers, and rushed the Negro into a vault.

The second attack was noisier than the first and in the new rush fire hose which previously had been used with tear bombs to drive back the angry throng was slashed. The renewed rush carried the mob only to the courthouse door.

Don't Shoot, Governor's Order.

Resort to firearms was forbidden by Ranger Captain Frank Hamer, who announced he had been ordered by Gov. Moody to "hold them if you can, but don't shoot anybody."

In its third attack the mob sought to dynamite the courthouse, but the officers managed to extinguish several charges of the explosives after they had been ignited about the structure.

Infuriated by its three repulses, the reinforced mob brought up a ten gallon drum of gasoline and poured its contents into the basement of the courthouse, directly under the county attorney's office, where the vault to which the Negro had been taken was located. Then in a fourth massed rush the mob leaders succeeded in igniting the gasoline and burning the courthouse.

DEMOCRATS WILL VOTE AS UNIT ON REVENUE BILLS

Cook county Democratic members of the legislature at a meeting at Hotel Sherman yesterday voted to act as a unit on bills for the revenue relief of Chicago and Cook county in the special session. Michael L. Igoe, minority leader and national committeeman, presided.

The Democratic assemblymen also adopted a resolution against the consideration of an amendment to the revenue article of the constitution until reapportionment is settled.

THREE STADIUM DIRECTORS QUIT AMID DOG WAR

Court to Rule Today on Injunction Petitions.

Two judges of the Superior court will sit en banc this morning to decide the question whether dogs can be racing animals. Meanwhile a storm brews about the directorate of leading business men who head the Chicago Stadium corporation.

Three directors of the Stadium corporation have turned in their resignations since the board voted to lease the building for dog racing this summer. The three, each of whom said that he resigned only because of other business, are Clement Studebaker Jr., L. Montefiore Stein, and Vincent Bendix.

View of Some Directors.

Several of the other directors are out of the city, and have taken no part in the dog racing matter. Among those who favored it, and who considered that civic and reform agencies might object to the use of the stadium for such a venture, the opinion was expressed that the stadium is a corporation for profit and has to pay its way, and that the civic and reform agencies haven't lent many helping hands in the venture thus far anyway.

These directors, considering the opposition of State's Attorney Swanson to the venture and his threats to close the dog racing plants if they are opened, pointed out that Al Capone has operated a dog track in Cook county for three years without successful interference from the authorities. Why, therefore, asked one director, should apparently reputable sportsmen be denied the right to operate a dog track?

Prosecutor Fights Writ.

Mr. Swanson, who insisted that he had contested the injunction against interference under which Capone's Hawthorne Greyhound club has been operating for three years, made objections to new dog track ventures through his first assistant, John E. Northup.

Mr. Northup appeared before Judge Robert E. Gentzel yesterday to oppose a petition for an injunction to restrain the police and the state's attorney from interfering with the operation of the Chicago Coursing club, which has leased a space for operating a dog track at White City.

On Thursday a similar petition was presented to Judge William J. Lindsay on behalf of the Chicago Greyhound club, which has taken a 30 day lease on the Chicago Stadium. Judge Gentzel, after hearing Prosecutor Northup say the state's attorney was opposed to the opening of new dog tracks and would close them if they opened without an injunction, declared he had arranged with Judge Lindsay so that both judges will sit this morning to decide on both petitions at once.

Rival Arguments Outlined.

Attorney Cecil C. Erickson, representing both clubs, argued, in the same vein as had Capone's lawyers in obtaining their injunction from Judge Harry M. Fisher, that under the law pari-mutuel betting on horse races was legal, and that betting on dogs in similar fashion was not illegal. Mr. Northup took the position that horse race betting had been explicitly legalized by statute, but that all other forms of betting were gambling against the law, and, as gambling, would be prosecuted by the state's attorney.

Sidney N. Strotz, president of the board of business men who undertook to operate the Chicago Stadium as a "civic" enterprise and who now have contracted to devote it to dog racing, defended the sport.

"There are many dog tracks in this country and abroad which are operated by highly reputable sportsmen, and patronized by the best society," he said.

Mr. Strotz said he had not yet heard of Mr. Bendix's resignation, but that Mr. Studebaker and Mr. Stein had given business reasons for stepping out of the Stadium board.

In any event, Mr. Strotz made it plain, the board will stick to its plan for opening the Stadium to the dogs, if the courts enjoin the police and the state's attorney from interfering.

"This is a business proposition with us," Mr. Strotz said. "We have a building for rent, and a tenant has offered us a good rental for it. Thomas J. Duggan, promoter of the Kennel club, has no connection whatever with Al Capone and is a reputable sports promoter. We expect he will operate the enterprise in an honest, orderly fashion."

Duggan Comes to Chicago.

Duggan, it was learned, is from Canada. He promoted a hockey venture in New York City, and has operated a dog track in Pittsburgh. Recently he came to Chicago to promote a dog track here. At first he considered the Coliseum, but the size and shape of that building was not deemed the best for the purpose, and Duggan then turned to the Stadium.

He offered Mr. Strotz $5,000 nightly rental. The Stadium recently was rented to a circus for $2,000 a day, and for several long stretches through the winter, which is supposed to be the busy season for amusement halls, the building stood idle. The top price of the Stadium had been $3,500 a day, and in this light the $5,000 offer from Duggan was considered by the directors.

The directors, in addition to the three who have resigned, include Mr. Strotz, the president; John F. Bowman, vice president; Harold Strotz, David Beaton Jr., Arthur W. Cutten, Charles E. Driver, George Dulany Jr., who is in California, John F. Jelke Jr., Burt A. Massee, John J. Mitchell, who has been in Santa Barbara, James Norris, Guy Peters, Orville J. Taylor, and Patrick J. Harmon.

Paddy Harmon, who was the original promoter of the Stadium and was later ousted from control by the present régime when it was decided to go in for "civic" management of the institution, said last night that the directors in voting to admit the dog races, considered that no evil attached to the racing itself.

"We have got to pay the interest on the Stadium bonds," said Harmon. "The sum of $150,000, which will be a month's rental to the Chicago Greyhound club, will help to pay that interest, and that was our main objective in accepting the proposition.

"The Association of Commerce and the crime commission never lent any support to the Stadium. The civic agencies, when they considered a proposition to rent a hall for a convention or show, shopped around for the cheapest place they could get and left the Stadium to get along the best it could.

Studebaker Refuses Comment.

Mr. Studebaker declined to comment on his resignation. Mr. Bendix, reached by telephone in New York just before he left for Chicago, said:

"It is true that I handed in my resignation two or three weeks ago. I have no time to attend meetings. I have resigned from several corporations lately. I spend so much time in New York that I really had no time for the Stadium affairs. I don't like to be on a board in which I cannot be active."

FIRE AT OIL PLANT BREAKS OUT AGAIN, BUT IS CONTROLLED

New York, May 9.—[Special.]—The fire at the Bayonne plant of the Gulf Refining company which destroyed nearly $5,000,000 worth of property, including twelve tanks, a warehouse, three piers and hundreds of thousands of gallons of gasoline, yesterday, flared up anew this afternoon with a sudden shifting of the wind and raged furiously for an hour or two.

City and company fire departments, including tugs and fireboats, attacked the new outbreak with vigor and eventually brought it once more under control. Tonight thousands of workers of other oil plants of the district were playing hose lines on the roofs and walls of buildings to prevent any chance spark from starting the conflagration anew.

GUARD CALLED OUT TO BATTLE FIRES IN MAINE

Camden, Me., May 9.—[Special.]—With town officials recruiting volunteers on the streets and rushing them to the front in automobiles and the Camden company of the National Guard mobilized to aid the regular fire fighting force, a huge forest fire which has swept over Mount Battie and Mount Megunticook in the last two days was believed under control late tonight after burning to within a few hundred yards of several big summer estates here.

Youth Is Sentenced to Prison for Extortion

Charles Cuda, 19 years old, Chicago Heights, was sentenced to one to twenty years in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge Walter P. Steffen in the Criminal court after he pleaded guilty to extortion. He tried to extort $5,000 from Oliver Ellis, 1525 Euclid avenue, Chicago Heights, his former employer. Cuda's attorney asked for probation, but Judge Steffen denied the plea.

THIEF NABS LOOT OF TWO BANDITS IN WILD CHASE

$3,000 Vanishes as Auto Crashes.

An unidentified thief was being sought last night after he had made away with $3,000 in cash, the loot dropped by two gun robbers when hard pressed by pursuing police. The gun robbers were captured and gave their names as John Torsiello, 23 years old, 924 Garibaldi court, and Alexander Pope, 21 years old, 616 South May street.

A few moments before the mad chase of the bandits through south side streets, which ended at 24th and Canal streets when the robbers' car crashed into a parked automobile and overturned, Torsiello and Pope had held up Justus Dietz and his wife, restaurant owners at 2558 Wentworth avenue, seized a box containing $3,000 and fled.

Police Give Chase.

Three policemen, Wilford Duclose, Clarence Reinhardt and William Grund of Cottage Grove avenue station, crusing in their flivver, heard the shouts of pedestrians and saw the bandit car dash away. They immediately gave chase. Over a winding route the careening bandit car sped until it crashed into the parked car.

Abandoning the box of money and their two automatic pistols, the bandits leaped clear of the wreck and continued their flight on foot. They were caught and overpowered by the policemen. Severe bruises they had sustained in the crash were treated at the Bridewell hospital.

The Money Disappears.

Meanwhile, in the midst of the excitement, a thief looted the money box and slipped away in the crowd. When the policemen returned to the robbers' car the box was found to contain but $9. Torsiello and Pope said they had been alone, but one theory is that a third member of the gang snatched the money and escaped unobserved.

Dietz said he had provided the money to use in cashing pay checks. He said the bandits forced him and his wife to a rear room with their automatics and seized the money box. He identified both robbers.

Recall Old Days of Famous Settlement.

Flags were flying yesterday above the doorways of Hull house, and carnival of a sort held sway at the settlement that occupies a solid block amid the hubbub of Halsted street. The institution whose name and fame, like that of its founder, Jane Addams, have echoed around the world, was in gala array on the occasion of its completion of four decades of existence, but the birthday party, although it extended through every department, failed to upset the tranquility of the usual regime.

There was chatter and gossip and reunion in Bowen hall, on the north extremity of the quadrangle, where hundreds of friends and former residents of Hull house convened to discuss the early days of American settlements in general and those of Hull house in particular.

Recall Early Days of Work.

The Chicago Federation of Settlements was in charge of the gathering, and among those who contributed to the program of reminiscence were two of the foremost figures of the city in social work circles. They were Graham Taylor of the Chicago Commons and Miss Mary McDowell of the University of Chicago settlement. Both harked back to the early days of Miss Addams' efforts and predicted as useful a future as the past has been.

Others who had experienced the hospitality of Hull House at first hand, and, like Miss McDowell and Mr. Taylor, proved their appreciation either in person or through anniversary reminders, included Mrs. Gertrude Howe Brittain, who was married in Hull House and has lived there for years; Miss Julia Lathrop, first head of the United States children's bureau, who returned from Washington for the occasion; Mrs. Florence Kelley of New York, secretary of the Consumers' league, who with Miss Addams and Miss Lathrop was named last week on the national honor roll of the League of Women Voters; Paul Kellogg, editor of the Survey; Albert Kennedy, secretary of the National Federation of Settlements, and others.

Cable from Premier MacDonald.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Rosenwald sent a seventeenth century silver and copper urn filled with spring flowers. A telegram arrived from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hull Ewing of New York, trustees of the settlement and relatives of the original owner, Charles J. Hull. Ramsay MacDonald, prime minister of Great Britain, who spent his honeymoon at Hull House, conveyed felicitations in a cablegram.

Tomorrow night the general character of the celebration will be mucn enlivened. In addition to exhibits in twelve departments, there will be dancing and gymnastic performances, a presentation of Reinecke's "Elfreida and the Swans" by the music school children, a play, "The Farmer's Wife," in the theater, and a public meeting in Bowen hall at which Miss Addams will preside, and the homecoming feature reach its zenith Dr. John Dewey, professor of philosophy at Columbia and one of the trustees, will arrive today to attend.

WRECK LAST PORTION OF OLD DEL PRADO HOTEL ON MIDWAY

The last remnant of the old Del Prado hotel at 59th street and Blackstone avenue was removed yesterday when a water tower 154 feet high was pitched to the ground by workmen of the Globe Wrecking company. Ground will be broken in August for the International house, a club which the University of Chicago plans to erect for foreign students with funds from John D. Rockefeller Jr.

The old hotel was built in 1892 at a cost of $700,000. During the World's Fair it was considered the smartest hotel on the south side. It was directly opposite the Java village on the Midway. The Del Prado is now located at 5307 Hyde Park boulevard.

While workmen applied acetylene torches to the framework of the tower, a large crowd gathered around the site, and traffic became tied up on the Midway at Blackstone and Dorchester avenues.

Ten days ago Dominick Sciortino anticipated trouble. He sent his wife and their two children to live with a married daughter.

Yesterday after neighbors had called the attention of the police to the open back door and the unexplained noises of the night before Sciortino was found dead in the living room of his home at 1233 Carmen avenue with six bullet holes in his body. Under his outstretched arm lay a contract for the sale of some property to a cousin, Antonio Sciortino, and Antonio Minnio. Police sought them for questioning last night.

Neighbors told Lieut. William McCarthy of the homicide squad that they had heard noises about 7:30 p. m. Thursday and had seen two men leave the house. At the Summerdale police station Capt. Martin J. O'Malley questioned Mrs. Sciortino, her daughter, Josephine, 21 years old; a son, August, 15 years old; the married daughter, Mrs. Mary de Salvo, 1775 Berteau avenue, and a brother of the dead man, Joseph Sciortino, 1212 Penn street, but learned little save that Sciortino was not regularly employed and dealt occasionally in real estate.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Frank Johnson, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary. Chester Hancock and Arthur Roach, robbery, sentenced to 2 years each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Charles Cuda, extortion by threats, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

Joseph Zenaitis, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the Pontiac reformatory. Bernard Ernst, receiving stolen property, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Harry B. Miller.

AUDIT OF PRIMARY STATEMENTS IS ORDERED BY NYE

Senator Meets Attorney for Mrs. McCormick.

BY PARKE BROWN.

An audit of the statements submitted by United States Senator Deneen and Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick concerning their recent senatorial primary contest was ordered yesterday by Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, chairman of the special committee investigating campaign expenditures.

Chairman Nye made this announcement last night at the close of his second day of listening to reports from the committee's agents, who have been scouting over the local battleground for the last week. He also said he had conferred during the afternoon with Alfred S. Austrian, to whom Mrs. McCormick referred, when she was before the committee, as her "personal and not political attorney."

To Analyze Statements.

"I saw Mr. Austrian this afternoon," Senator Nye said, "and I hope to see the Deneen representatives in the morning — Roy O. West and Thomas J. Healy; and the audit will be begun at once. I brought the originals of the statements of the two candidates with me and have retained a Chicago accounting firm to analyze them."

Senator Nye declined to give the name of the firm or to give any information concerning the reports the committee agents have made to him. Mr. West, former secretary of the interior, is Republican national committeeman from Illinois and had charge of Senator Deneen's campaign in a general way. Mr. Healy was treasurer of the Deneen county organization and in that capacity kept the books showing the expenditures of the group in the local field. It is understood he will be asked to turn these over to the auditors.

This impression was created by a visit paid by two of Chairman Nye's representatives to the Deneen headquarters, which since the campaign has been transferred to the Foreman Bank building. They called upon Jacob D. Allen, the executive director of the local campaign, and talked to him for some time.

Report Records Sought.

It is understood that they requested access to the records of the Cook county expenditures and were referred to Treasurer Healy. Other queries concerning the state campaign were referred to National Committeeman West. The visitors also are said to have asked for the names of both the Deneen and the Snow-city hall organizations, which were furnished.

This led to a theory among politicians that the approaching inquiry may go beyond the expenditures of the candidates and the headquarters of the organizations supporting them and seek to fix the outlays in various wards by committeemen and leaders and to ascertain the sources of these funds.

Files Recount Petition.

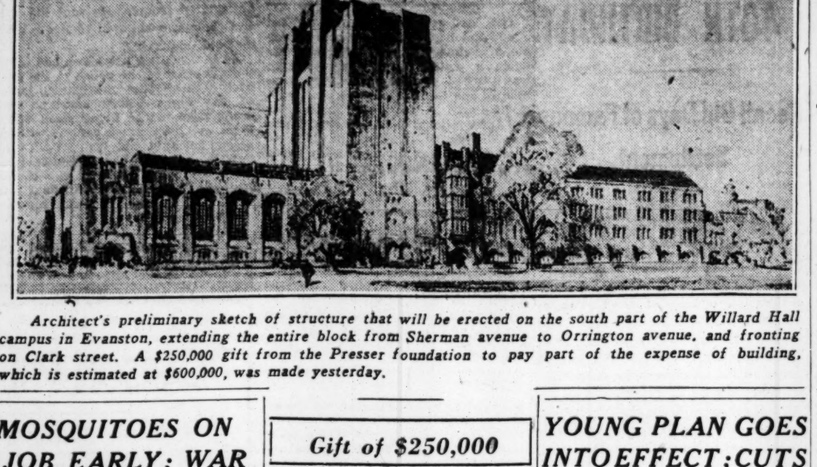
James C. Moreland, who, according to County Clerk Sweitzer's proclamation yesterday, came within 56 votes of defeating Congressman "Leaky Trunk" Michaelson for renomination, filed his petition for a recount as soon as the county clerk's action was recorded legally. Attorneys John F. Tyrrell and Cornelius J. Harrington began the proceedings in the Circuit court, where the case probably will be assigned to a judge today.

In his petition Moreland charged that 1,000 "floaters" voted in the 7th district, that clerks mistook the name of Walter R. Mathisen for Michaelson when Mathisen's name was spoken during the calling of votes, and that poll officials were corrupted by the use of liquor an money and permitted outsiders to handle the ballots, to alter ballots and to make false entries of the returns.

Son of Bishop Indicted for Second Degree Murder

New York, May 9.—(AP)—James Maxon Jr., 21, son of the Episcopal bishop of Tennessee, was today indicted for second degree murder by a general sessions grand jury. Young Maxon is alleged to have killed David Paynter, 73, during a drunken brawl in a boarding house here last month.

Plan Northwestern University Music Building



Architect's preliminary sketch of structure that will be erected on the south part of the Willard Hall campus in Evanston, extending the entire block from Sherman avenue to Orrington avenue, and fronting on Clark street. A $250,000 gift from the Presser foundation to pay part of the expense of building, which is estimated at $600,000, was made yesterday.

MOSQUITOES ON JOB EARLY; WAR TO DEATH OPENS

Suburbs Are Active in Abatement Work.

Mosquitoes, bane of spring gardeners and sportsmen, have arrived several weeks ahead of time on account of the warm spring.

J. R. Lloyd, assistant forecaster at the Chicago weather bureau, hearing of the reports that mosquitoes have been annoying the citizenry, said that the spring has been unusually warm, causing the mosquito larvae to hatch prematurely.

"Up to today," Mr. Lloyd said, "we have had an excess temperature above normal of 411 degrees since Jan. 1. This is a daily average excess of 3.2 degrees."

Suburbs Already in Battle.

The north and west suburbs have had forces at work for weeks destroying mosquito breeding places, and officials in charge of the war on mosquitoes give assurance to residents of their districts that the pests will not be so numerous this year. The southern suburbs already have been swarmed with the winged stingers, according to reports, and so far as can be learned, no concerted effort is being made to save the people of the south county from the pests.

Arthur Stringer, president of the North Shore Mosquito Abatement district, extending from the Chicago limits north to Glencoe, said that forty laborers and engineers have been in the fields for several weeks, draining swamp lands and stagnant pools and spreading oil over the marshes.

"We are trying to get the first crop of mosquitos, because every mosquito we get now will save us from the hundreds which would be hatched from that mosquito's eggs later on," Mr. Stringer said.

Lake County Fights Pests.

Similar efforts are being made in Lake Forest and the Lake county suburbs on the north shore by a mosquito abatement district organized in Lake Forest.

The west suburbs are attacking the pests through the Des Plaines Valley Mosquito Abatement district, of which Dr. S. S. Fuller of Riverside is president, and which extends from North avenue to 89th street, and from Harlem avenue to the county line.

"We have done a lot of work getting at the early crop," Dr. Fuller said. "We have destroyed many breeding spots, including those in Thatcher woods. Marsh land has been drained, and I would say that our district is in very good shape."

Dr. Franklin H. Martin Ill in Passavant Hospital

Dr. Franklin H. Martin of 219 Lake Shore drive is in the Passavant hospital for rest and observation, it was learned last night. While pursuing research work in Arizona Dr. Martin suffered a partial breakdown some days ago and returned to Chicago with Mrs. Martin, entering the hospital on Monday. His physician, Dr. Loyal Davis, said he detected nothing serious in the patient's condition. Dr. Martin, a trustee of Northwestern university, founder of several hospitals and medical societies, and organizer of the American medical service in the late war, is 72 years old.

Gift of $250,000

Confirming reports that the school of music of Northwestern university would soon profit by a substantial contribution, announcement was made last night that the Presser foundation had given $250,000 toward a million dollar project which will house the school in a new building.

The gift was announced at a dinner in the home of Mrs. James A. Patten in Evanston given in honor of Dean Peter C. Lutkin of the music school. It is contingent upon the university's raising a like sum, and a campaign to that end will be launched today with Mrs. Patten as chairman of the committee. Endowment to the amount of $150,000 will also be sought for the school.

The Presser foundation was established by the late Theodore Presser of Philadelphia, publisher of Etude, who stipulated that the income from his large fortune should be used to aid schools of music.

The new building will be known as Presser hall, and will cost approximately $600,000, the university announced. It will occupy the south part of the Willard hall campus in Evanston, extending the entire block from Sherman avenue to Orrington avenue and fronting on Clark street.

This stretch of land is valued at about $200,000. With $150,000 as endowment and a $50,000 expenditure for pipe organs, the total investment is brought to $1,000,000.

The building will house the Lutkin Memorial auditorium, which will seat 1,200 persons and will contain a stage large enough to accommodate a full symphony orchestra, band or large chorus. In it the major concerts of the school, the Evanston Symphony orchestra, the university glee club and similar organizations will be given.

A large recital hall, class rooms, teaching rooms, sound proof practice rooms for piano, orchestra and pipe organ, and the administrative offices will also be included in the new school.

COUNCIL GROUP VOTES $500,000 FOR STREET JOB

By a six to five vote the council finance committee yesterday recommended appropriations totaling $500,000 to lay conduits and water pipes and move electric light poles in Ashland and Western avenues and La Salle street before the thoroughfares are widened and paved. As it takes a two-thirds vote in the council to pass appropriations several aldermen expressed the opinion that it will be difficult to obtain the consent of the council to the appropriations at the meeting on Monday.

"The city hasn't the money to appropriate," objected Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th], "and no plan has been mentioned here to obtain the money. I believe the work should be pushed to relieve unemployment but because of the city's financial condition I cannot vote for this appropriation."

"I don't want to appropriate $500,000 that we haven't got," said Ald. Guy Guernsey [6th].

The total appropriation is divided, $250,000 going to Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, and $250,000 to Michael J. Kennedy, commissioner of gas and electricity. Faherty's share would be used in hiring additional employes and Kennedy's in moving the light poles back to the new curb lines.

YOUNG PLAN GOES INTO EFFECT; CUTS GERMANY'S DEBT

New Pact Is Signed by Five Nations.

PARIS, May 9.—(AP)—The Young plan for payment of reparations, reducing Germany's obligations for damages caused during the world war from something like 25 billion dollars to about 9 billion dollars, went into effect this afternoon.

A protocol registering the decisions of the Hague conference, which adopted the plan Jan. 20, was signed by the ambassadors of Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy and the French minister of foreign affairs after a tea served by the French foreign minister, Aristide Briand.

Ratified by Five Nations.

The signing was made possible by arrival today of necessary ratification papers from Great Britain and Italy. Ratification by Germany and four creditor nations was required, and ratification documents already had been deposited by Germany, France and Belgium.

The first consequence of this act, which modifies for a second time the reparations machinery provided by the Versailles treaty, will be the disappearance of the reparations commission which, in coöperation with other bodies, had taken charge of payments under the Dawes plan and under supervision by Seymour Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations.

World Bank Gets Under Way.

The second will be the beginning of functioning by the bank for international settlements at Basel, Switzerland, under the presidency of Gates W. McGarrah of New York.

The third will be the issuance of $300,000,000 in reparations bonds, two-thirds going to creditor nations and the other third to Germany for internal requirements.

J. C. Shaffer of Evanston Gets $53,017 Tax Refund

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(AP)—A refund of $53,017 to J. C. Shaffer of Evanston, Ill., for overassessment in his income tax for 1914, 1915, 1916, and 1922 was announced today by the internal revenue bureau.

$57,000 SPENT FOR KOHLER IS BARRED AT TRIAL

Judge Rules Jury Cannot Consider Fund.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sheboygan, Wis., May 9.—[Special.]—Judge Gustav Gehrz cut away today much of the foundation upon which the La Follette progressive group in state politics had built the structure of a jury case to remove Gov. Walter J. Kohler from office under the corrupt practices act.

In a carefully prepared opinion the court ruled out of jury consideration the evidence and exhibits which tended to make the governor responsible for the acts and expenditures of the state central committee and of the Sheboygan county committee during the 1928 campaign because no agency had been authorized between Kohler and the committee. He barred from consideration the $57,000 spent by the state committee in the 1928 primary campaign. The court also held that tire covers, eye shades and matches distributed in the interest of the governor's candidacy were of trivial value and did not constitute a violation of the law.

Had it been held that these committees acted under the direction of Candidate Kohler, his expense account would have been increased far beyond the legal limit and the election could have been declared void and his office vacant.

Contribution Lawful.

The court held that the contribution of Mr. Kohler to the Sheboygan committee was lawful. It was held that the candidate made this committee his agent in the expenditure of $500, which was duly reported, but that no agency as a matter of law had been shown for the state-wide committee.

Court was adjourned tonight until Monday to permit the defense to go over the admitted exhibits and find out just what is left for them to meet in the case.

No motion for a nonsuit was made today, the governor's counsel stating that this course was taken not because they thought the state had made out a case but because the governor wanted to present all the facts on his side and the reasons for his acts.

There still is the strong possibility that the case will be taken completely away from the jury on a motion for a directed verdict at the close of the evidence for the defense. The Supreme court then will have a complete record for review.

State to Fight On.

The governor is not entirely out of the woods in this case, however, and the state will fight on for submission to the jury of all the evidence showing the volume and value of the work done at the Kohler company plant, by the governor's employés, during the campaign. It is their theory that much of this was unaccounted for in the report to the secretary of state. As the governor reported $2,700 expenses and the limit is $4,000, it is only necessary to show an expenditure of a little more than $1,300 additional to make out a technical case against him.

BARRISTERS O. K. MORE PROPOSALS FOR MODEL CODE

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(AP)—Virtual agreement upon further recommendations for a wholesale revision of the nation's criminal code and the completion of another step in an 18 year task of "restating" the country's common law was achieved tonight by 600 leading jurists and barristers at the eighth annual meeting of the American Law institute.

During the day, for the sake of speedier deliberation, the intsitute divided into two camps. One considered the final chapters of a voluminous "model code of criminal procedure." The other debated points of the common law.

Roberts Is Congratulated.

At one point, however, the two met on common ground—congratulating Owen J. Roberts upon his nomination by President Hoover today to the Supreme court. Roberts is a member of the institute's council.

One change was made in the "model code" today by the justices, judges, and lawyers considering it. The point involved a provision for facilitating the summoning of witnesses from other states, and the entire section was withdrawn when it was found in partial conflict with a plan to accomplish the same end formulated by another law body. A committee was appointed to eliminate the differences.

A vote on the remaining sections in the 12 chapters of the proposed code not yet approved was scheduled for tomorrow.

Proposals Approved.

Major proposals already approved would call for the selection of extra jurors in protracted trials, the examination of jurors by the judge rather than by the opposing counsel, permission to defendants to waive jury trial in other than capital cases, the issuance of a summons rather than a warrant of arrest in minor cases, and a simplification of the form of indictments.

The step accomplished by the conferees on "restatement" of the common law was an agreement on the proposed draft on "the conflict of laws." The draft was designed to serve as a reference work, facilitating decisions upon laws that now conflict. It constitutes an important chapter in the estimated 22 volume task of "restatement," to be completed in 1941.

"BEER SALESMAN" ROBS GOLD COAST WOMAN OF $20,000

A robber posing as a Canadian beer salesman gained entry to the apartment of Mrs. Mary Robins Davis, 40 East Oak street, yesterday morning, and robbed her of jewelry valued at $20,000.

Mrs. Davis is the wife of Dr. George Davis, who has offices at 208 South La Salle street. She was summoned to the door of her apartment by a man who said he was dellivering beer. She insisted that none had been ordered. But when he suggested that she take his card for future reference, she opened the door, and the robber, drawing a revolver, forced his way in.

Mrs. Davis was wearing her jewelry. The holdup man took four rings and two diamond bracelets. He then escaped. Mrs. Rosalie Cunningham, manager of the hotel, said that he must have left by a fire escape.

MYLES O'DONNELL AND PAL FREED IN AUTO KILLING

No Witnesses to Testify Against Pair.

Myles O'Donnell, west side gangster and beer peddler and brother of Klondike O'Donnell, and Edward Sirnek, his pal, raced down the wrong side of Cicero avenue on Aug. 5, 1929, in a large sedan at 70 miles an hour. The machine careened into another car, killing one woman and injuring five other persons.

The case, which has been on the Criminal court calendars for nearly 10 months, was disposed of yesterday when the state's attorney's office entered an order in Judge Daniel P. Trude's Criminal court: "Dismissed for want of prosecution." The witnesses who were in court signed a statement to the effect that they were willing that the case be dismissed. One of them, with the knowledge of the state's attorney's office, accepted $500 for "damages."

"Can't Make Case," They Say.

Assistant State's Attorneys Owen West and Harold Keele explained that because they were unable to get witnesses who would tell whether O'Donnell or Sirnek was driving the automobile that it would be impossible to prove a case of manslaughter. Both men could not be found guilty of manslaughter, they said, and inasmuch as if could not be proved which one was guilty, both were liberated.

Mrs. Mabel Sarah Potter, 4326 West Congress street, was the woman who lost her life in the accident. She was riding with Richard Mitchell, 928 South Euclid avenue, Oak Park. They had just crossed Division street at Cicero avenue when the heavy sedan, speeding on the wrong side of the street, sideswiped an automobile driven by Daniel Kramer and then crashed into the Mitchell car.

The two occupants of the sedan scrambled from the wreckage, leaving the accident victims lying helpless in the street.

Police Find Pair.

The police discovered that two men covered with blood had taken a taxicab at Chicago avenue, a half mile away. They made Fred Lietget, a chauffeur, take them to where the men had left his cab. The police then saw that the home of Myles O'Donnell at 1229 South 61st court, Cicero, was the only one lighted up in the neighborhood. Peeping through a window, they saw O'Donnell and Sirnek bandaging their wounds and wiping away the blood. After an argument the police entered and arrested both men. Both were identified as the occupants of the car, but no one would say which was the driver.

Chief Investigator Pat Roche of State's Attorney Swanson's office, who talked to both men the day after the crash, said O'Donnell had admitted to him that he was driver of the car but that two armed policemen who had jumped on his running board made him speed. The assistant prosecutors did not say whether Roche had told them of these admissions.

Joseph Hubert, who once lived at 112 West Grand avenue, was the principal witness for the state, but he cannot be found now.

Willing to Drop Case.

William Potter, husband of the victim, and Mitchell and Kramer also signed the statement that they were satisfied to dismiss the case. Kramer, according to Prosecutor West, was paid $500 yesterday. Attorney W. W. Smith, counsel for O'Donnell and Sirnek, could not be reached yesterday when an attempt was made to learn if the other victims of the accident had received any money.

EXTRADITE AUTO THIEF.

Lincoln, Neb., May 9.—(AP)—George D. Knott of Decatur, Ill., was ordered extradited today from Grand Island, Neb., for an automobile theft.

TWO ARE FREED IN EXTORTION CASE BEGUN BY PASTOR

Defendants Tell Different Story.

The Rev. Paul W. Luecke of Evanston appeared before Judge John Sbarbaro yesterday to recite how he had been made the victim of extortionists. The minister described how he had paid $108 to avert charges that he was guilty of annoying women.

Then the two defendants, Mrs. Sarah Mollinger of 1511 North Irving avenue, and Fred Monaco of the same address, got their story before the court. The minister, they swore, had gained entrance to Mrs. Mollinger's apartment in the guise of an automobile salesman, and was forcing his attentions on her when she was rescued by Monaco, who had been called by his wife.

Defendants Are Freed.

Mrs. Mollinger, a woman of 40, who appeared in court bolstered by a social service worker, apparently on the verge of fainting and with smelling salts continually at her nose, was concluding her tale when the judge decided:

"I don't believe we have to hear any further testimony in this case. The defendants are discharged, and will confer with the plaintiff about returning the money that passed between them."

A statutory charge against Mrs. Mollinger and C. W. Klaernes, said to be a hotel detective, with whom the police allege she had been living, was continued to May 20.

Monaco, a sheikish young man of 26, related his side of the story, which was corroborated by Mrs. Mollinger. The Rev. Mr. Luecke, who for the last thirteen years has been pastor of Bethlehem Evangelical Lutheran church in Evanston, is 40 years old and the father of three children, had described how Monaco jumped on the running board of his car as he passed the North Irving avenue address and forced him to drive into an alley at the point of a revolver.

Pastor Tells His Side.

"I had been driving around the neighborhood to look at some property, worth $75,000, that I was considering buying. Several people were in on it and I expected to trade some property I had for my share. This man ordered me into the apartment at 1511, took $8 from me, and said if I didn't get more he would kill me. Then Mrs. Mollinger said that I couldn't be going around annoying women in the neighborhood and get away with it. I was so frightened I went and got $100, came back and gave it to them."

Monaco's recital was in direct contradiction to this version.

"We were playing ball in the street," he testified, "when this man drove past. A short time later I saw him talking with Mrs. Mollinger on the porch and trying to force her into the house.

Called by His Wife.

"My wife called me and said something was wrong. I burst into Mrs. Mollinger's room to find this man pulling at her dress and kissing the back of her neck. 'What's your game?' I asked him. 'Are you a moron? I'm going to call the police.' Then he fell on his knees and begged us to let him go, that he had three children, and that his wife didn't understand him.

"He said he would make it right with us. I told him I didn't want his money, but he pressed a $5 bill on me, then came back with $100, left it on a table and said, 'That's for your trouble.' Then he went out."

Complete faith in their pastor was expressed yesterday by a trio of his church members, who declared he was undoubtedly the victim of a plot.

Illini Game Robber Witness Is Sentenced for Perjury

Champaign, Ill., May 9.—(AP)—Perjury committed at the trial of Vern Katz and Claude Henderson for robbery of 150 guests at a party following last November's Army-Illinois football game here brought a one to fourteen year sentence to Chester penitentiary for Giles Sprouse of Salem, Ill., today.

SEVEN STUDENTS FINED FOR TAKING PART IN YALE FRESHMAN RIOT

New Haven, Conn., May 9.—(AP)—Seven Yale students, four of them wearing bandages around their heads, were fined $25 each today on charges of breach of the peace as the result of clashes with police growing out of the annual freshman "spring riot" last night and early today.

Three of the eleven arrested were discharged by the court when they proved that they had no connection with the rioting, and one is to be arraigned later, after his release from a hospital. A traveling salesman who somehow got mixed up in the mêlée is also in the hospital and will have a hearing later.

Among those fined was Raymond High, Chicago. John McEwen, Winnetka, Ill., a member of the 1929 varsity football team, was among those discharged.

LIQUOR PATIENTS INDICATE RECORD FOR KEELEY CURE

Indications that 1930 will be a record breaking year in the treatment of booze addicts, despite the prohibition law, were seen by Martin Nelson, secretary of the Keeley institute at Dwight, Ill., which for many years has treated drug and liquor patients.

"A total of 386 patients have been treated for the liquor habit up to May 1," Mr. Nelson said. "This exceeds by 40 the number treated during the same period in 1929, which in itself was a record breaker. Patients taking the cure in 1929 totaled 754, the largest number since 1907, he said.

"If the entire year of 1930 continues to show an increase in proportion to the first four months, the total number of liquor patients will exceed any year since 1896," Mr. Nelson continued.

"The institute is rushing through a new building program to meet the demands of post-Volstead inebriates. A new clubroom and gymnasium has just been completed and work is in progress on a dormitory addition."

CAPONE DENIED WRIT TO STOP MIAMI ARRESTS

Federal Judge Refuses to Act on Petition.

Alphonse Capone was denied an injunction restraining the police of Miami, Fla., from arresting him without a warrant by Federal Judge Halsted L. Ritter late yesterday, according to dispatches from Miami. The federal judge declined to assume jurisdiction. The writ had been sought in the federal court on the ground of assuring Capone his constitutional rights.

The Chicago gangster, his brother John, and two alleged henchmen were arrested in Miami on Thursday and held for three hours without charge. Capone is protected from arrest by any sheriff in Florida by a federal injunction, and he sought to extend his immunity by making the writ apply to the Miami police.

Miami Official Tells of Threat.

Miami's city manager, Frank H. Wharton, reported yesterday that he and his brother-in-law, Albert P. Hinson, had been warned to get out of town by unidentified men, who assaulted Hinson on a highway. Wharton said he believed the threat came as the result of his activities, together with those of other city officials, in harassing Capone and his associates.

Ralph Capone, Al's brother, alleged leader of a liquor smuggling ring, reported by federal agents to have run more than $1,000,000 worth of Canadian booze into Chicago by airplanes, was held in bond of $5,000 when arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Walker on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws. A hearing was set for May 23, when five attaches of Ralph's Cicero cabarets, the Cotton club and the Greyhound inn, raided by dry agents on Thursday, will also appear.

Ralph Capone went to the federal building with his attorney, Joseph Lustfield, and surrendered to a warrant in the hands of deputy marshals. A surety bond already had been posted.

"That's all the bunk," said Capone, when asked about the alleged airplane booze running business. Lustfield characterized the charges of special federal agents who have been working on the investigation for several months as "utterly ridiculous."

The federal operatives asserted that they had not anticipated a confession from Capone, and Alexander C. Jamie, who led the raids on the Cicero cabarets, declined to discuss the airplane phase of the conspiracy charges.

Resists Dry Agents.

Ralph Haller, 2211 South 61st avenue, Cicero, reputed manager of the Cotton club, who was one of those arrested in the Thursday raid, was again taken into custody there early this morning after a scuffle with a squad of special prohibition agents seeking additional evidence of dry law violations.

According to the agents, Elliott Ness, one of their number, picked up a cocktail from a table at which four patrons were seated and was about to pour it into a bottle for evidence when Haller ran across the room and knocked it from his hand. A brief tussle ensued and Haller was taken to the Lawndale police station, where he was locked up. Agents said that he would be charged with attempting to obstruct justice and resisting a federal officer.

McGurn Ordered to Trial.

Jack McGurn, Capone lieutenant who says under oath in a petition that his name is James Gebardi, must stand trial on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, Judge E. I. Frankhauser in the Criminal court decided yesterday. The judge refused to suppress the evidence.

McGurn was arrested while riding in the loop in a taxicab. When the police searched McGurn they found a revolver. Attorney Thomas D. Nash, McGurn's counsel, argued that inasmuch as the arrest was illegal so was the searching of his client.

Judge Frankhauser ruled, however, that because of McGurn's reputation the police had a right to stop him, and also to search him. He ordered McGurn to trial before a jury on June 2.

FROM MAYO LANDING, THE YUKON

"This letter, mailed at Mayo Landing, Yukon Territory, Canada, on March 28, reached me a few days ago," Mr. Farrar writes. "Mayo Landing is situated about 250 miles up the Stewart river, a tributary of the Yukon, running northeast from the latter. This small town of 50 or 60 people is the shipping point for the mines of the Treadwell Yukon company at Keno Hill, Yukon.

"The writer of the letter, James A. Fairborn, tells of the winter he missed by being in Chicago this year. The following is a quotation from his letter: 'I missed a fine winter here. The average temperature for 85 consecutive days was 35 below. It stayed at 58 to 65 below from Dec. 30 to Jan. 10. Yes, sir, I missed a dandy.'

"Radio reception is poor at present, Mr. Fairborn writes, but under favorable conditions he is able to get a great variety of programs on a short wave attachment, having switched from Chicago to London to Australia to Japan in one evening.

"On his return this spring Mr. Fairborn flew by plane from White Horse to Mayo Landing in 2½ hours, whereas the trip over the trail would have taken him eight days. Mr. Fairborn is an old timer in the north, having gone there at the time of the Klondike gold rush. He has had claims on all the famous creeks, but never struck real pay dirt. He is a member of the Yukon Order of Pioneers, qualifications for membership in which are that one must have crossed Chilkoot pass on foot, or rather before the railroad went through, about 1899. He is, or was, well acquainted with Jack London, Rex Beach, Tex Rickard, Robert W. Service, and most of the old characters of the north country.

"Mayo Landing has a fine summer season, the temperature averaging about 75 during June, July and August. Flowers, berries and garden truck grow very quickly, since there is always moisture in the ground and the sun is able to get in nearly 24 hours' work every day."

MAN'S BODY FOUND IN WATER.

The body of a man about 30 years old, dressed in working clothes, was found in the river at 93d street yesterday. It had been in the water about three months. There were no marks of violence. It was taken to the county morgue, to await possible identification.

CONVICT BEYERS AS EMBEZZLER IN 'TAX FIXING'

David Beyers, tax adjuster, who is accused of swindling various persons of more than $100,000, was found guilty of embezzlement yesterday by a jury in Judge E. I. Frankhauser's Criminal court. He faces a sentence of 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary if his motion for a new trial is overruled on May 23.

Beyers was found guilty on the specific charge of swindling Jacob Hoffman, real estate dealer at 10 South La Salle street. The jury found that he had defrauded Hoffman of $1,700, although the state alleged he obtained much more.

Beyers is said to have victimized many real estate owners on the pretext that with his political influence he could reduce their taxes. He was to be paid fifty per cent of the amount of the tax saved, it was charged.

He fled from the city after a score of his alleged victims had complained to the state's attorney's office. He was later found in a newly purchased bungalow near Michigan City, Ind.

Woman Hurt as Police Fire on Fleeing Cyclists

While pursuing two motorcyclists who had driven through a stop light at 521 and Ogden avenues, Cicero, last night, one of a Cicero police squad fired a shot which shattered the windshield of a sedan entering Ogden avenue at 22d street, Chicago. A bit of glass struck Mrs. Alice Curran, 24 years old, 427 West 72d street, one of the four women in the sedan, and cut her above the right eye. One of the cyclists, Thomas Hogan, 26 years old, 1849 South Karlov avenue, was captured and held by Cicero police.

KILLS HER HUSBAND AT HOTEL.

Marie Robinson, 25 years old, colored maid at the Lexington hotel, 22d street and Michigan avenue, shot and killed her husband, Milo Robinson, 48, a houseman of the hotel, yesterday when they quarreled at the hotel.

Of Course Sixes Beat Fours

But in the ESSEX Challenger

you get a Super-Six

OPEN EVENINGS

Its patented Super-Six principle gives the New Essex Challenger easy dominance over conventional Sixes. Look at the records. More than 5,000 New Essex Challengers set them. Every community knows them. They represent local, national and world records in a great many cases. And they stand for what any New Essex Challenger can do. No "Six" ever proved such all-around Performance, Reliability and Economy.

OPEN SUNDAYS

More Important Still Essex Keeps Its Newness for Years

This is where you will be thankful for the Super-Six principle—and its smooth, vibrationless performance. Weeks and months and years do not make this Essex old. The pep and sparkle you first knew are still there. So are the economy and freedom from repair. So are the smartness and good looks.

The secret is that Essex is free from vibration. It saves every part from this destructive action. It remains tight, free of squeaks and rattles. And it saves the driver, just as it does the car, from nerve-pounding discomforts.

Its completely modern and balanced design accounts for these results. It includes not only the dominant Super-Six principle, but balanced aluminum pistons, balanced crankshaft and flywheel; balanced clutch, drive shaft and universals; and the Lanchester balancer for smooth pick-up.

The patented oil system provides more and cooler oil constantly to all bearings. And such fine car items as roller valve tappets and adjustable front timing chain make for silent operation.

Big and Roomy, Too

The New Essex Challenger is a big, roomy car with longer wheelbase, wider tread which allows for ample interiors and greater passenger comfort. And its beautiful interior appointment carries out to the smallest detail the fineness and distinction of this car.

Everyone knows that Sixes do beat Fours. Every owner knows that the Super-Six just as decisively bests the conventional Six.

Indians' Fading Heritage Told by Crow Chief

White Men Lack Religion, Tribesmen's View.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"American," subtitled "The Life Story of a Great Indian" [John Day], by Frank B. Linderman, is at once a perfectly titled and an imperfectly subtitled volume. Plenty Coups, chief of the Crows, an old man waiting eagerly to go to his Father where he may "live again as men were intended to live," was indeed an American of the purest roots.

"American" is not, however, his life story complete, for he refused to talk about the time when, the buffaloes driven from the plains by avaricious white hunters, the Indians foodless, poverty stricken, mere pensioners of a race which had usurped their land, life went on for his race, but death was really in their hearts. It was about his youth only that he would talk to Mr. Linderman. It is the saga of the last Indian heyday that the sympathetic recorder has set down.

No other record of this sort ever has been made, for no other chief of such rich memories, such ripe age, has ever confided his story to a white man or has set it down himself. The autobiographical red men have all been educated in the white man's language, mostly at Carlisle. Plenty Coups does not to this day speak English. He talks Crow and a special sign language.

Mr. Linderman has lived for most of his lifetime among the Indians of Montana. He has been accepted as a friend by them. He is officially a member of two tribes. They trust him. But it was only because Chief Plenty Coups was persuaded that his people would be helped by the white man's deeper understanding of them that he consented to tell his memories.

Those memories are of two kinds, interwoven—memories of battles, and memories of dreams and "medicine."

How interwoven it is is evident on every page, for no fighting ever was undertaken without "medicine" and the medicine of each warrior came to him through dreams. The mysticism of the Indian was something so closely knit into his life that life was unthinkable without it. It is a strange mysticism to forthright white minds—but the Indians feel, so Plenty Coups says, that the white man has no religion.

"American" is a vivid and vital record set down by a recorder who is a "creative listener" in the sense that he understands deeply, but not a creative one in the sense that he embroiders the narrative with his own interpretations. It is a clear, unadorned, moving history of a time and a people both gone.

"American" is illustrated by Herbert M. Stoops, once of the art department of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

"Car of Croesus" Is Story of Temporary Millionaires

"The Car of Crœsus," by Ernest Poole [Macmillan], was a sumptuously fitted town car which an exiled Russian prince and a clever American girl bought as a business adventure. They rented it at $100 an hour to any one who, for secret reasons, wished to appear a millionaire for a night. The prince, as liveried chauffeur, and the girl as a French maid, heard and saw with the aid of a dictaphone and a long narrow mirror over the windshield, the comedies and tragedies in which their patrons played a part. Of such dramas is "The Car of Crœsus" compounded.

How Gloria Swanson Was Motive for Novel's Plot

Here is news about "Enchantment," a novel by Ruth Cross [Longmans-Green]. She autographed a copy of it to be sent to Gloria Swanson and what she wrote was to "Gloria Swanson, whose success in the dual rôle of charming woman and distinguished artist inspired the chief character in this book. With admiration, Ruth Cross."

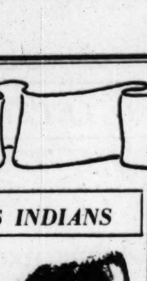
"A LADY OF FRANCE" TELLS OF LOYALTY TO DETHRONED ROYALTY

"A Lady of France," by Grace Stair. [Stokes.]

The friendship between Louise de Lamballe [the Princesse de Lamballe] and Marie Antoinette is the theme of "A Lady of France"—the story of one of the great loyalties of all history. Louise de Lamballe is one of the characters of the past which shone like a good deed in a naughty world. Whatever history says of her friendship for her queen, undeniable fact says that she did "lay down her life for her friend."



GRACE STAIR.

Mrs. Stair sees Louise de Lamballe the rock of constancy, of purity, of fineness in a court which cared little for any of those three qualities, two of which at least it took another queen of another day to bring into fashion. She sees her a lonely, unhappy wife and a mourning widow beholding the young dauphiness likewise alone and without family, and offering her a friendship which was ended by the grave [the princess was beheaded and her head on a pike was carried to the window of the queen, as a hint of the fate of all royalists]. Mrs. Stair sees the dauphiness, later the queen, a light minded woman, too fond of gayety, too easily flattered, too reckless, held in check by some one to whom she was forever a queen. She sees in Louise de Lamballe the balance wheel in a mad machine which was doomed to internal combustion.

The author paints an interesting picture of the court of Marie Antoinette, minutely detailed and documented. She does it after the fashion of a tapestry, however, rather than after the fashion of a motion picture. The scenes are colorful, static, representative, rather than photographs of life in action. Louise de Lamballe, Queen Marie Antoinette, Louis XVI., Phillipe de Chartres are woven into the tapestry. They do not carry you breathless through their days. They are part of a pattern of a memorable time, not palpitant living creatures of today. They belong to that school of historical novel writing which portrays the past as the past, and not as an entrance hall to the present. F. B.

The Year's Great Historical Romance

A CANDLE in the WILDERNESS

By IRVING BACHELLER

Author of A MAN FOR THE AGES

Romance and swift adventure crowd the pages of this glorious tale of 1630 Early New England, dangerous, rock strewn—a dour land. Youth, then as now, headstrong, fiery, filled with desire for adventure—and for love.

Irving Bacheller tells their engrossing story. A rich, dramatic novel against the mighty tapestry of colonial New England in which the author of EBEN HOLDEN creates in Amos Todkill a new character of irresistible humor.

BOBBS-MERRILL

Britons Fighting Off the Fear of Book Shopping

Swinnerton Predicts They Will Buy More.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—One of the features of the English book market during the last twelve months has been the great success of a number of series such as the "Travellers' Library," the "Phoenix Library," and the "Adelphi Library."

The price of these series, three shillings and sixpence, is roughly the same as that of the dollar libraries in America, but the great feature of them is that by some freak of fashion they are all the same size, and very suitable for the pocket.

Now an organization called "The National Book council" has made a comprehensive list of all the books in all the pocket series at three shillings and sixpence, and the list is being widely circulated. It should do much good.

In England men do not buy books as they do in America. They are rather afraid of bookshops.

I believe the sales of these series will jump as the result of the publication of the comprehensive list. Until one sees the comprehensive list one cannot estimate the huge numbers of attractive books now obtainable in pocket form in England.

To take a few examples, one may read (and put in the pocket) the complete works of such diverse writers as Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, "Elizabeth" John Galsworthy, D. H. Lawrence, Jeffrey Farnol, W. J. Locke, Arthur Machen, Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch, Lytton Strachey, Rafael Sabatini, Hugh Walpole, H. G. Wells, and Stanley Weyman.

There are single books, and sometimes a representative selection of books, by Aldous Huxley, A. A. Milne, Norman Douglas, Joseph Conrad, E. V. Lucas, Arnold Bennett, James Stephens, and H. M. Tomlinson. I could name a hundred more.

I ought to mention that American authors are well but not yet fully represented in the series. Hergesheimer, with five books; Herman Melville, Henry James (complete), James Oliver Curwood, Ambrose Bierce, Sherwood Anderson, John dos Passos, Lafcadio Hearn, Du Bose Heyward, H. L. Mencken, Christopher Morley, and Eugene O'Neill are the names that strike my eye, and most of these are in the "Travellers' Library."

"Iron Man" Seems Perfect Portrait of Real Prize Fighter

"Iron Man," by W. R. Burnett [Dial Press], is a novel about a prize fighter written with what seems to this reader to be absolute and remarkable realism, for its hero never is for a moment out of tone with himself, as the author has created him.

One of the favorite theses of romanticists is that the rougher the diamond the more brilliantly it shines when the subtleties of emotion give it a polish. Not at all so with the hero of "Iron Man." He lives up to his title every day and, what is more important, in every crisis. Never having known a professional pug intimately, it is probably not of any importance to say that to me this one is the perfect pug.

But I never knew a Prince Myshkin intimately, either, and that never undermined my certainty that Dostoevsky painted a perfect portrait of him in "The Idiot." F. B.

"FLYING GYPSIES" IS FULL OF THRILLS FOR CHICAGOANS

BY JOHN T. McCUTCHEON.

"Flying Gypsies," by Violette de Sibour. [Putnam.]

Last year the Vicomtesse de Sibour (Violette Selfridge) and her titled husband decided to go to Indo-China to do some big game shooting. They owned a tiny Moth plane, barely five times their combined weight, and as both were experienced pilots they decided to make the trip in it.

VICOMTE DE SIBOUR.

VIOLETTE DE SIBOUR.

In this book, "Flying Gypsies," Violette de Sibour tells the story of their adventures, and no one whose pulse is in working order will fail to be thrilled and amused by the recital. By the time they had returned to London they had flown around the world—except for the two big oceans—and had piled up an amazing series of experiences in Europe, Africa, Asia, and North America. The book is vivid with color and adventure, and sparkles with a delightfully refreshing leaven of humor. Peril and humor march gaily together through the pages, one always on the heels of the other.

The trip was made in many hops, most of which seemed to start at about five in the morning, and most of the social activities after each successful hop lasting until nearly the same hour. One wonders which was the greater test of endurance, the prolonged flights over difficult and often hostile country, or the barrage of entertainment between times. How they survived the combination is one of the pleasing surprises of the book.

The story of their tiger hunt in Indo-China is a classic in humorous narrative, all the more remarkable because one doesn't associate humor with tiger hunting.

Americans will feel a particular interest in the book, because the authoress was born in Chicago, the daughter of Harry Gordon Selfridge, now a great merchant prince in London. And Chicagoans will find added pride in the little narrative describing her reception in Gabes by the caid, Si Aziz Dgilouli, who remarked upon learning that she was an American: "Tell me of the wonders of America," he said. "I hear that the most beautiful of modern buildings is to be found in Chicago and belongs to a newspaper. Can this be true?"

Specially for Voyagers.

"To Be Taken Before Sailing," by Irvin S. Cobb [Cosmopolitan], is a little book the size of "Speaking of Operations," destined for those about to undergo the operation of a European tour for the first time. Mr. Cobb's advice is to make a list of all the places starred by the guide books and head that list, "What to Avoid." Part of the book is funny, but most of it is not, although its intentions are all humorous.

New York Does Best to Equal 'Hot Countries'

Or So It Seems at Tea for Alec Waugh.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Alec Waugh arrived in good season to realize that his new book, "Hot Countries," well might have included this one. On Friday, complete even to tropic temperature, was the very swank tea given in his honor at the Chatham by his publishers, Farrar & Rinehart.

ALEC WAUGH.
[From a wood cut by Lynd Ward.]

Katharine Brush, Blair Niles, Will Cuppy and lots of other authors were there. Carl Van Doren, William Soskin, Henry Hazlitt and lots of other critics, and Lynd Ward, the young American artist whose wood cuts supplement Mr. Waugh's word pictures of native dancers in Martinique and white elephants in Siam.

With a pink carnation in the lapel of his gray flannels, the much traveled young Briton gayly weathered hundreds of introductions and those group questionnaires which make tea party conversation such a delightful game. "Were you pulling a bit of hot slang in your title, Mr. Waugh?" "O, no, I never lecture. I'm going from here to the Pacific coast by plane."

Hollywood, it was ultimately disclosed, is not the lure—it's the swimming. But chiefly it's the urge to travel. For Mr. Waugh is restless unless going from here to there. Unlike those authors who seek seclusion in which to work, he has done most of his writing for the last four years on shipboard, settling down of a morning in the midst of the excursions and alarums of the bar and keeping hard at his task until tea time.

Prolific, versatile and sophisticated are some of the things they say about him—and truly. Since he was nineteen he has had at least a book a year published—poetry, essays, short stories and novels. He has proved by personal investigation the truth of most of the maps in the atlas; he saw active service in the late war and experienced the enemy's prison camp; in his recent trip from the east coast of Africa he traveled steerage, roughing it with Arabs and Lascars, and by way of contrast, when in London, he dwells in a modernistic flat with exotic decorations and—they do say—yellow sheets and blue blankets.

Contrast is the zest of life to Mr. Waugh—who certainly gets it in the ways his name is pronounced—it's of Scotch origin and the "h" should be sounded. He is now but thirty-two—has the quick-seeing eyes and live, alert bearing of an expert cricketeer, and his complexion is deeply bronzed from long intimacy with the sun.

Houghton Mifflin have just issued a book entitled "Is It Safe to Work?" which, alas, doesn't answer that question nearest our heart, "Is it safe not to work?" Casualties unnecessary in our modern industries are discussed in this volume by Edward L. Bowers, acting chairman of the department of economics at Ohio State university.

Two Good Mystery Stories

MURDER BACKSTAIRS

By Anne Austin

Author of The Black Pigeon

How a week-end party turned into a murderous tragedy in which hosts, guests, and servants were all involved is the story of Murder Backstairs, a book which will add to the fine reputation which Miss Austin has already gained by her previous mystery tales. $2.00

WHY MURDER THE JUDGE?

By Claude Stuart Hammock

Writing of the mysteries in the new White House Library, Walter Yust says in the Philadelphia Ledger: "Why Murder the Judge? is a mystery which could seduce any statesman, let alone everyday folk. It is fairly presented and moves quicker than summer lightning... I am prepared to report that Mr. Hammock murders sleep, in spite of his name. Mr. Hoover will increase the usefulness and glory of his Administration by generously adding Why Murder the Judge? to the White House Library." $2.00

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS

BY THE LITERARY EDITOR.

FICTION.

The Royal Woman, by Heinrich Mann [Macaulay], is a translation of "Eugenie, Oder die Bürgerzeit," of which 100,000 copies already have been sold in Germany, the story of an upper class bourgeois family which parallels the career of the Empress Eugenie.

When Beggars Ride, by George Agnew Chamberlain [Putnam], is a record of climbing on the international social and diplomatic ladder in Paris.

"Petal of the Rose," by Charles Pettit (Liveright), is a sophisticated, amusing record of the indiscretions of a mandarin maid of more beauty than restraint. It is translated from the French by Una, Lady Troubridge.

"Doctors' Wives," by Henry and Sylvia Lieferant (Little Brown), is a keen picture of the storms and stresses of being married to a doctor.

"The Obelisk," by William Rollins Jr. (Brewer & Warren), is the story of a self-absorbed, romantic coward, who longs for adventure, but dares nothing. It is full of the humor and the pathos of adolescence.

"Regency Windows," by David Emerson (Little Brown), is a romance of the regency in England done in the modern fashion.

MYSTERY.

"The Yorkshire Moorland Murder," by J. S. Fletcher [Knopf], has as murderee a famous American book collector and as recorder one of the most popular of the mystery writers' union.

"The Man of a Hundred Faces," by Gaston Leroux [Macaulay], has as hero an impecunious young lawyer assigned by the state to defend a petty thief, and as plot what a crook the thief made of the lawyer.

POETRY.

Prize Poems 1913-1929, edited by Charles Wagner [Paper Books], is an excellent anthology of modern poetry, with an introduction by Mark Van Doren.

The Canterbury Tales, by Geoffrey Chaucer [Longmans], consists of six tales and six lyrics of the old boy's pen, translated into modern English verse by Frank Ernest Hill.

Olive, Cyprus and Palm [Harcourt Brace] is an anthology of poems of love and death.

ABOUT PLACES.

"Look to the East," by Frederick Palmer [Dodd, Mead], is a series of reimpressions of Japan, China, Corea, Manchuria, and the Philippines after twenty-five years by a well known literary traveler.

"The Last Rustler," by Lee Sage [Little, Brown], is the autobiography of that lost specimen, the woolly, wild westerner, and the story of the west when it was both.

NONFICTION.

The Biography of President von Hindenburg, by Rudolph Wetterstetten and A. M. K. Watson [Macmillan], is the first, if we mistake not.

Portrait of the Artist as an American, by Matthew Josephson [Harcourt Brace], is the dramatic story of America's literary expatriates, Henry James, Henry Adams, Ambrose Bierce, Lafcadio Hearn, Stephan Crane, and others.

The Revolt Against Dualism, by Arthur O. Lovejoy [Norton], is said by those who know to be the philosophical book of the year.

"The Power and Secret of the Jesuits," by Rene Fulop-Miller [Viking], is a history of the order written by the author of the famous "Rasputin, the Holy Devil."

"How to Commit a Murder," by Danny Ahearn [Washburn] really tells you how to do it and "all the major crimes of the calendar and get away with it." The author speaks from long and successful experience.

"Who Moved the Stone," by Frank Morrison [Century] takes the awe-inspiring mystery of what happened to the body of Christ and applies to the thus far unsolved question the tests of modern reasoning and modern psychological examination.

"Three Masters," by Stefan Zweig [Viking], consists of critical essays on Balzac, Dickens, and Dostoieffsky.

ARMADA OF AIR HAILS ITS 'FIRE' ON NEW YORK

Planes Open Attack and Dirigibles Finish It.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 9.—[Special.]—The greatest aerial demonstration this city has ever known brought Manhattan's millions to a pause today as 131 naval planes, four dirigibles and sixteen army fighting ships theoretically demolished a comparatively "defenseless" metropolis. For an hour the sky was swept with planes as a path was "cleared" for the airship Los Angeles and two bomb carrying blimps. Then as the navy fleet sped away to its carriers in Hampton roads the army planes swooped down over the city on a "mop-up" mission.

The daylight "air raid" was staged in honor of army and navy day at the air show. The roar of the air armada turned every eye skyward. To the spectators it was only a thrilling air circus, but to the navy tacticians it was a major battle maneuver to be studied for weeks.

Scout Planes Open Attack.

Three squadrons of scout planes flashed in from Long Island at 150 miles an hour darting about at an altitude of 2,000 feet. The fighting wing followed and a score of these single seaters began a "dog fight" at the southern end of Central park.

Tumbling about high over the skyscrapers, the fighting planes put on a sham battle that "routed" an imaginary enemy. Great Martin bombers followed, each carrying in theory thousands of pounds of high explosives. Protected by the pursuit planes, the bombers singled out the tall buildings in the center of the city for their "attack." The buildings were defenseless.

As the air fleet began droning away from the "wrecked" city, the dirigible Los Angeles and three silver blimps appeared suddenly from behind a theoretical smoke screen which almost was a reality as smoke clouds caused by the Bayonne, N. J., oil fire still hung in the air.

Dirigibles Hail City with Bombs.

The dirigibles swung up the Hudson river to 110th street and circled back over the middle of Manhattan. For more than 30 minutes the city was at the mercy of the airships, an imaginary hailstorm of bombs smashing the buildings that had withstood the airplane raids.

Then the warships of the air crossed back toward New Jersey and the army fighting planes dived over the "devastated" city for a final attack.

The greatest thrill given to those in the streets took place just south of Central park, in the vicinity of 5th avenue. Twelve fighting planes appeared, 2,000 feet overhead, flying like wild ducks in "V" formation. Suddenly the "V" became a straight line and a moment later every plane was diving earthward, throttles wide open. It was a power dive in formation and to those on the sidewalks it appeared certain the flyers would crash headlong into the street. But at 1,000 feet the planes straightened out and zoomed almost straight upward to continue their game of follow the leader.

GLIDER LOOPING RECORD SET BY CHICAGO PILOT

Towed by an airplane, Lyman Voelpel, Chicago transport pilot, took his biplane glider up 4,000 feet above Curtiss airport yesterday and looped his way back to the ground to establish a new world's record for loops in a glider. Voelpel made twelve loops in his descent, said Maj. R. W. Schroeder, manager of the airport.

Shortly after Voelpel came down Jimmy Van Cise climbed into the powerless plane and the two rose again into the air. At 2,500 feet they cut loose from the airplane, flown by Maj. Harold Darr, and Van Cise jumped out with his parachute. It was said to be the first time that a parachute jump had ever been attempted from a glider. Both glider and parachutist floated safely to earth, landing a few feet from each other.

Voelpel's record trebles the previous world mark. The feat was accomplished in a two place biplane glider built by the Heath Aeroplane company, a Chicago concern.

SEAPLANE SOARS 26,000 FEET AND RECORD IS WON

New York, May 9.—[Special.]—The American altitude record for seaplanes was broken this afternoon at the North Beach seaplane base when Capt. Boris Sergievsky, chief pilot for the Sikorsky Aviation corporation, soared to a height of more than 26,000 feet in a Sikorsky seaplane carrying 1,102 pounds [500 kilograms] of dead load. During the last two months the pilot has shattered eight records with similar planes, including three world marks and five American achievements.

Before the start of his hour and a half flight today Sergievsky had the wheels removed from his Sikorsky amphibian so that it would conform with seaplane specifications, there being no category of records for amphibian aircraft. The plane was a standard model equipped with military superchargers on its two 425 horsepower Pratt & Whitney Wasp engines.

Curwood, Novelist's Son, Dies After Plane Crash

Owosso, Mich., May 9.—(AP)—James Oliver Curwood, son of the late novelist, died tonight from injuries received in an airplane accident Thursday night. He was 19 years old. Curwood, who was a licensed pilot, took two passengers up from the Owosso airport last night. While he was attempting a landing a wing of the plane struck a tree, and the machine nosed dived 50 feet to the ground.

Captain Killed in Crash.

Hartford, Conn., May 9.—(AP)—A man identified as Capt. Lewis H. Taylor, and thought to be from Washington, D. C., was burned to death, and Milton H. Moore of Hartford, owner of the Interstate airways, was critically burned today in a plane crash at Brainard field. It is believed the plane's motor failed shortly after the takeoff.

AIR PASSENGER SERVICE RULES ARE ANNOUNCED

Supervision Expected to Reduce Risks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—Strict government regulations for scheduled air passenger transport services were announced today by the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce. The rules become effective on May 15.

Placing of the passenger flying lines under supervision is one of the most far reaching steps yet taken toward making air travel safe and popular, according to Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, who announced the new rules. When put into full effect, he said, the rules should bring "unprecedented records of safety and reliability" in this phase of aeronautics.

Federal control of air passenger lines has been made necessary by their phenomenal growth in the last four years, Mr. Young said. In 1926 there were 5,782 persons carried on schedule routes, while in 1929 the estimated number was 150,000, an increase of 2,492 per cent.

The most important of the new rules, which will form a supplement to the basic air commerce regulations, provides that every person or firm operating an air transport service must obtain a certificate of authority from the secretary of commerce.

In order to obtain and retain a certificate the operator must submit to periodic inspections of his equipment and organization, satisfying the government inspectors that his aircraft are provided with suitable instruments and maintained to "the highest degree of operating efficiency" and that both pilots and ground organization are competent.

PLANETARIUM TO BE DEDICATED THIS AFTERNOON

Franz Fieseler, personal representative of the Carl Zeiss Foundation of Jena, Germany, builders of the $1,000,000 Adler planetarium, is in Chicago to attend the dedication of the planetarium this afternoon. Dr. Fieseler said his trip from Germany was to voice the tributes of the Zeiss Foundation upon the completion of the first planetarium in America.

"The planetarium will be of incalculable worth to Chicago," Dr. Fieseler said.

The Adler planetarium, which is the first of its kind in America and the sixteenth in the world, will be dedicated at 3 o'clock this afternoon and officially opened to the public on Monday morning.

AIR MAIL LINE REPORTED READY TO QUIT CHICAGO

School Airport Lease Is Seen Near Defeat.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

Simultaneously with the report that the forces in the school board opposed to the proposed Municipal airport lease have grown to sufficient numbers to defeat the proposition when it comes up for a vote on Monday came a second report yesterday that the Bendix Aviation corporation plans to build one of the largest commercial airports in the middle west at South Bend, Ind.

And, to add embarrassment to aviation leaders in Chicago, another report was brought back from New York by M. C. Meigs, chairman of the Chicago Aero commission, that the United Aircraft and Transportation corporation, the biggest operators of air mail in the United States, may move its operations base from Chicago because there has been no assurance that adequate facilities for modern air transport will be provided here.

Given No Encouragement.

Mr. Meigs, while in New York, visited Col. C. W. Deeds, director of United Aircraft, which now operates the transcontinental air trunk line from New York to San Francisco, in an effort to persuade United to make Chicago the chief base for all its flying operations.

"We have considered such a stand," Mr. Meigs quoted Col. Deeds as saying, "but we are inclined to think the move would be unwise inasmuch as we, as well as the rest of the operators, have had no encouragement or coöperation from the city of Chicago. There has been a lot of conversation, but no action. We have had less coöperation from Chicago than from any other city in the United States."

Mr. Meigs pointed out that United has had plans for the building of a large terminal here for over a year, but has postponed construction because of the present short-term lease on the Municipal airport property and the congested conditions of the field. Boeing Air transport and National Air transport are the chief subsidiaries of United here.

Four Trustees Against Lease.

Reports in school board circles yesterday stated that four trustees would likely vote down the proposed long term lease on 600 acres of school property including and adjoining the present city field when the matter comes before the building and grounds committee Monday.

The reports from South Bend stated that the Bendix corporation plans to build a 500 acre airport at a cost of $1,500,000 northwest of the city. It was stated that the airport would be reserved for private purposes of the Bendix company, which manufactures airplane accessories. The reported plans call for ten miles of paved runways arranged in star shape, each runway to be 6,000 feet long.

MRS. GREENBERG WINS SUCCESS AS A POETRY READER

Judge Hearkens to Her Rhythmic Plea.

Mrs. Elizabeth Greenberg, 30 years old, 884 North Richmond street, yesterday read a poem before Superior Judge Joseph Sabath. Several times during the reading the judge attempted to put an end to the recitation, but without success.

Mrs. Greenberg appeared in court with her attorney, Irving Eisenman. The attorney informed Judge Sabath that Mrs. Greenberg was seeking a divorce from Morris Greenberg, an electrician, so that her husband could marry Miss Blanche Eichel, the mother of his month old daughter.

Attorney States the Case.

Greenberg had sought to have his wife adopt the child, Attorney Eisenman said, by telling her that he had seen a remarkable baby in the Michael Reese hospital when he had gone there with a friend. Mrs. Greenberg went to the hospital with the intention of adopting the baby, but became suspicious when she learned that the name of the father was Morris Greenberg, according to the attorney.

The suspicions were verified, Eisenman said, when the wife found a poem in her husband's pocket, written by the baby's maternal grandmother, assailing Greenberg for refusing to recognize his child. Mrs. Greenberg was called to the witness stand.

Mrs. Greenberg Reads.

She drew a long breath and began reading the poem:

"'Tis the fifth of March, such a dear sweet day,
As my new born baby girl came to stay,
But her dad will stay far away.
She will only know, with one parent to play.

"I'm used to this kind of cruelty.
I've raised two, I can raise three—
My grandchildren are my own, you see,
Even if all three have no daddie."

The judge interposed at this point, declaring that the evidence was sufficient, but Mrs. Greenberg was not to be denied. She went on through two dozen stanzas and ended shouting:

"Morey, I always said you never meant well,
But now you are putting us a little further in hell.
If you weren't, you'd be on the alert,
For Blanche and the baby you wouldn't desert.

"Well, I will close now, as it is all in vain,
And I don't ever want to see you again.
Now that you're through, is a relief to my brain,
As my quarrels with you were quite a strain."

Mrs. Greenberg finished her declaration triumphantly. Judge Sabath motioned to Attorney Eisenman.

"Draw up a decree," he said. "And burn up the poem."

ROBS THEATER; CAPTURED.

Watheren Dillon, 21 years old, recently from North Carolina, yesterday snatched $6.50 in silver from the box office of the La Salle theater, 110 West Madison street. He was captured a half block away. He said he was penniless and hungry.

FOR A WET AND DRY REFERENDUM IN ILLINOIS.

F. Scott McBride, national superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, has testified before the senate committee investigating lobbies. He said that the 1926 referendum in Illinois on prohibition was nonbinding, futile and ineffective. It was for that reason that the league advised its followers not to vote on the issue.

"The fact is," Senator Blaine said in cross-examination, "that you had fear that the vote would be overwhelmingly against your attitude."

This McBride promptly denied. There was no doubt in his mind that the majority of the people of Illinois favored prohibition. The failure of Illinois to repeal its search and seizure laws he interprets as the will of the people. The Anti-Saloon league, he said, had restored the legislature to the people.

Mr. McBride has raised a simple issue of fact, which can easily be determined. The issue is: Do the people of Illinois favor prohibition? One answer to the question is presented in the Literary Digest's straw poll, but that expression is discounted by Mr. McBride. It shows at the last compilation 110,000 votes in Illinois for repeal, 71,000 for modification to permit the sale of beer and wine, and only 58,000 for enforcement. As Mr. McBride does not regard this or any other straw vote as a true index to public opinion, another referendum is plainly required.

In the attempt to determine the state of opinion in Illinois, the wets and drys can, for once, cooperate. Both claim to speak for the people. Which does? A referendum would give the answer. The drys have repudiated the 1926 referendum which gave 840,000 votes for beer and wine to 354,000 against. They have said their followers did not vote on the question. Let us, then, have another referendum in which both sides will exert their full strength.

The state law permits a referendum on questions of public policy upon petition of 10 per cent of the registered voters. Some 350,000 signatures are required. By their combined efforts, the organizations against the eighteenth amendment on the one hand and the Anti-Saloon league and the W. C. T. U. on the other should have little difficulty in obtaining the necessary signatures. The referendum could be taken at the November election.

That would be an appropriate time for it. The prohibition issue will be raised in the senatorial and legislative campaigns this summer and autumn. If there is any one in Illinois whose mind is not made up his doubts should be resolved by November. Let there be no more idle words about what the people of Illinois think on this paramount political issue. Let us have the answer from the people themselves.

AMENITIES IN THE U. S. SENATE.

The United States senate has been known as the best club in the world. That was its distinction after it had begun to doubt that it was the most dignified deliberative body. Even the newer renown is fading out and nowadays the Conscript Fathers can feel that they are just as much protected by the amenities of life as Moran gangsters would be in cutting into Capone territory.

They enjoyed raiding letter files to discover what they could turn up of a confidential nature embarrassing to witness stand victims confronted with their pilfered personal belongings, but it is something of a different color when their own desks are ransacked by unknown hands. Disconcerting lists of names must be suppressed to keep the statesmen themselves from pain. Two senators have lunch together and at the next sitting of the chamber one turns the other up as having intimated he could get a federal job if he voted to confirm a nomination to office.

The Conscript Fathers have become stool pigeons by choice, moralists who find that to be truly good they must abrogate the normal decencies of life. Presently when one senator sees another he will climb a tree and yell for help.

MURDERERS' INSANITY.

As the law now stands, a convicted murderer who pleads insanity may not be examined by alienists for the state. This procedure, of course, gives the murderer a distinct advantage in proving that he is out of his head. That is one of the reasons that convicted murderers in this state frequently escape the consequences of their crimes.

The state's attorneys are agitating for a change in the law which would permit their experts to study the prisoners before the insanity trials take place. This is well enough as far as it goes, but an additional question might well be raised. Why should not a murderer who becomes insane be executed? As long as he is insane his life is worth little to himself or any one else. The fact that he has committed murder is a pretty good indication that he would be a menace to his fellow patients in an asylum as well as to those who must guard him. Should he recover his mental balance, he would then have to be executed; he would have been kept alive at the expense of the state and cured of his insanity only to permit the state to do away with him. This is a waste of money and a refinement of cruelty which prompt execution would avoid.

MAKE AN ISLAND.

Yachtsmen in Chicago have no place to go. With cruising waters for sail and power unequaled anywhere, Chicago yachtsmen can voyage from one street end to another along the unindented coast line, but unless the boat is large and the cruise a full day or more in length the points of interest for arrival or departure are not great. Along our shore are few harbors for small boats. Great Lakes possesses one for naval use. Waukegan and Racine have industrial ports of little interest to the sportsman. The north shore residential towns have nothing but the canal at Wilmette. And Chicago's harbors for small boats are few and far between.

An island five or six miles off the Chicago coast would meet these needs for a harbor and a recreation and hotel center. Land even a few acres in extent given in part to a public park, bathing beach and a harbor, and in part to a high grade restaurant and hotel concession and hotel grounds, would give to Chicago an emphasis and interest in yachting and in water sports of great value to the city. It would make a place to go to, a cool spot for taking supper, a breezy place not far from town to take rooms for a week or for the summer, and with fast boats, airplanes and small steamers the transportation would be easy. It could be made, no doubt, much more than self-supporting.

Eight miles from the Chicago shore the water is not more than 60 feet in depth. An island five miles or six from shore can be made in 40 feet of water with the dirt and stone now dropped in the lake daily. In 1929 no less than 843 scow loads of dirt and stone were dumped beyond the 13 mile limit. Nearly 500,000 cubic yards of this material is dumped into the deep water every year. Were this dumping concentrated on a point six miles out, a breakwater and retaining works laid down to hold it, an island of huge value to the city would soon rise above the waves. The engineering problem is not difficult and the costs probably not much higher than the filling in of Lincoln park or the south park islands. The benefits of such an east park and hotel area would be even greater.

In 1929 Chicago hauled 1,267,548 cubic yards of stone and dirt for dumping. Some of this went to the south park islands, the Lincoln park development, filling in the old channel of the river, and to various street ends, but more than a third of it, 489,126 cubic yards, was thrown away beyond the 13 mile limit. This, with sand pumped from the bottom, should be used year by year for an island half a dozen miles or so off our shore.

The study of an island project will be worth the while of yachtsmen, hotel men, engineers, city officials and those who wish to give Chicago a firm place among the towns that welcome summer and the tourist season. It is a project that will find support and strike the popular imagination, and it will pay in many most important ways.

THE NEW HITCHING POST.

As a part of the midwest's general furnishings a mooring mast for dirigibles should be erected. To an aeral hitching post of sufficient height Dr. Eckener can tie up when he brings his Zeppelin around the world again. The Los Angeles can moor there, and other dirigibles will be welcome. For lack of hitching posts the Graf Zeppelin could stop conveniently at few places around the world. Chicago was not one of them.

The Central Manufacturing District club has asked the help of Congressman Britten in acquiring a mooring mast for the Chicago region, and Mr. Britten says that he will help. To get it up before the national air races next fall will take speed, but Britten and the manufacturers are fast workers.

FOOTNOTE ON WEST POINT TRAINING.

A number of years ago Cincinnati was looking for a city manager. The choice fell upon Col. Clarence O. Sherill of the regular army. He had distinguished himself at West Point and at the time of his appointment as city manager was superintendent of public buildings and grounds in Washington, D. C. He went to Cincinnati at a salary of $25,000 and resigned recently to join the management of a chain store system.

Now Cincinnati is looking for his successor and has again directed its attention to the army. The post has been offered to Col. Ulysses S. Grant III., who succeeded to Col. Sherill's position in Washington, but Col. Grant has declined. He wishes to remain at his post until the new building program in Washington has been completed. Who will be selected is still undecided, but no less than seven army men are being considered, and it is at least probable that one of them will be chosen.

This record we recommend to pacifists for study. They like to think that any army man is a narrow-minded martinet, happy only when he can issue peremptory orders to civilians and make them like it. How false this picture is any one with an acquaintance among American officers knows. Cincinnati is looking for a man of ability and training in engineering, and above all for a man of tact and integrity. There is no school in the country which does more than West Point to develop these qualities of leadership among its graduates. There may be other schools which provide superior instruction even in purely military matters, but none anywhere which is a better character builder. This country has no reason to fear the rise of a sword-waving, arrogant military caste. That is a bogey invented for us by alien-minded persons whose knowledge of armies, if any, was gained in foreign lands.

Editorial of the Day

[Kansas City Times.]

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Philadelphia upheld the revocation of citizenship of a loyal member of the communist party, thus sustaining a decision of the federal court at Pittsburgh. The Appellate court held that communist principles to which the member stood pledged were so incompatible with those of the American constitution that no person could be faithful to both. That is understandable. What remains a mystery is that any devoted adherent of the communist party should find enough interest in America to attempt to become or remain a citizen of the country.

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. By Bo.

NOW, AFTER WE GOT ALL WORKED UP ABOUT PEACE—

here comes one Yen Hsi-shan and likewise Feng Yu-hsiang, and they bring a lot of boys with them and fight a battle with another army out in China commanded by Gen. Chiang Kaishek that results in 7,000 casualties. How come Yen Hsi-shan didn't read about the naval peace conference in London? And what about former Secretary Kellogg's peace pact that outlawed all war? And even if Yen Hsi-shan didn't know about these things, Feng Yu-hsiang ought to keep in touch with what's going on. And Chiang Kaishek is as much to blame as any of them. The League of Nations ought to bring all three boys in and talk to 'em pretty rough. And the very day that trouble happened out in China the British had an all day battle in India. It's all very confusing.

We send our delegates over to a peace conference and spend a lot of money, and they come back with a report, and even before we've got a chance to see the report Yen Hsi-shan and the other two boys—you know their names, no use repeating them—muss up the Chinese landscape something dreadful. And down in India there's fighting all over the place. And just a few years ago we went into a war because it was a war to end war. And after that came Mr. Kellogg and his peace pact. And then came several peace conferences. And almost every day we read in the papers about wars and rumors of wars. Maybe nations think peace pacts are like chain letters: somebody's always starting 'em, nobody's supposed to break 'em, and everybody does. Or explain it yourself.

Were I gifted to be graphic
In a geometric way,
I'd eschew the method Sapphic
To express what I've to say;
For a graph that's drawn precisely,
On the checkerboard of life
Would reveal and all too nicely
That you'd make a doubtful wife!

One would see your whims resurging
In a serrate sort of line,
All the ups and downs emerging
To describe a danger sign;
Not a semblance of a curving
To denote the milder moods,
For no matter how deserving:
Angles trace your attitudes.

Graphs are much too mathematic,
Yours would make an odd display,
Nonetheless (I'm quite emphatic)
I would wed you anyway!

PREVENTION OF GOUT.

E. N. J. writes: Could you give a short article on the cause and prevention of gout?

REPLY:

To E. N. J. we reply that his is the first request for information about gout for some time. It may be gout is a disappearing disease. Certainly men are not the heavy meat eaters and wine guzzlers that they once were, and these practices were charged with responsibility for gout. Before me lies the menu of a banquet given about sixty years ago by a certain college in Alabama to an old and well beloved former president of the institution. The menu could be offered in evidence before a Criminal court of the present day as proof of the intent of the friends to kill off the old gentleman. A dozen kinds of meat were served and, to flatter the cooks, the banqueters must have spent hours in traveling the menu from top to bottom.

The British aristocracy were supposed to have a corner on gout, and this, because of their addiction to the rare roast beef of old England, meat pies, and all the things that went with these heavy dishes in the customs of the old days. Part of the decline in gout can be attributed to change in dietary habits. Much of it is due to change in medical opinion, and still another part to the variableness of fashion in diagnosis. Much of what was called gout a generation ago now goes by other names. This is especially true if we include the uric acid diathesis among the evidences of gout. The present day opinion is that uric acid has very little to do with disease. It causes some kidney stone and gravel, and a few people have real gout, but that is about all we find in the present day indictment of uric acid.

The theory now is that uric acid is the product of the waste and destruction of cell nuclei. Some of it comes from the waste or wear of nuclei of cells of the human body. Most of it is derived from the nuclei of cells that enter into our diet. Some of this acid, or of urates, is present in the blood and tissues at all times. Some is being constantly excreted. Occasionally some precipitates in the kidney or some kidney-tube, causing gravel or stone. Occasionally some is laid down in the tissues around joints, causing gout, or in other tissues, causing tophi.

It is to be expected that the machinery which uses nuclei and then gets rid of the waste should go wrong occasionally. If a person has a tendency to gout or to uric acid stones he should change his habits. Above all, he should eat less liver, kidney, sweetbreads, and highly flavored lean meats. He should avoid sauces and condiments. Alcoholic beverages should be entirely tabooed. And he should become more active physically on general principles.

OXALIC ACID ASH.

M. N. writes:

1. How much oxalic acid ash is there in pumpkin and banana?
2. How much fats, and what kinds, may a case of arthritis, duodenal ulcer, infected gall bladder safely take?
3. Can such a case drink sassafras tea?

REPLY.

1. I have not found the answer to this question in any book. I am sure both are very low in oxalates, since both are alkali-ash foods.
2. Of these three diseases, infected gall bladder is the only one in dieting for which there is need of regulating fats. Persons with infected gall bladders will do well to eat fats sparingly. This applies also to egg yellow.
3. Sassafras tea in moderation will do no harm.

BEING CAREFUL COUNTS.

D. F. writes: I visit a tubercular patient in a sanitarium every week and would like to know if

1. It is all right to sit on the patient's bed to converse?
2. Exchange gifts [that she has wrapped]?
3. She receives candy from a friend and offers the box to me after it has been in her drawer a few days.

REPLY.

1. All right to sit on a chair near the bed.
2. Yes, if the patient is careful and the consent of the physician has been given.
3. If she is careful there should be almost no danger.

COTTONSEED OIL USED.

G. T. B. writes: Can cottonseed oil be used as a lubricant without harmful results?

REPLY.

Yes. Any grease can be used as a lubricant. For that matter vaseline, which is not an oil, is used as a lubricant. Lubricant action is wholly local. Nothing but the skin could be harmed by the use of oils. Practically speaking, there is no absorption. Finally, if there were absorption, refined cotton seed oil is a wholesome food in wide use.

IF HEIRS DISAGREE.

Round Lake, Ill., May 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Mother and father are dead. There are nine brothers and sisters left heirs to a 75 acre farm and buildings. Two heirs are minors.

1. Can property be sold before minors are of age?
2. Can one heir opposed to selling property prevent it being sold?
3. If two of the heirs leave homestead, must the remaining heirs pay rent of land or house?
4. Must the one leaving have to pay rent of land if he uses it and gets crop from it?
5. What should be the means of providing for the minors if brothers and sisters are not financially able?

G. F. R.

1. Only by court proceedings.
2. No.
3. Depends upon facts that are not before us.
4. We do not understand the facts.
5. One course would be to employ an attorney, to bring partition proceedings.

DIVORCE NOT BAR TO NATURALIZATION.

Chicago, May 4.—[Friend of the People.]—I received my first citizenship papers Nov. 1, 1928. Will the fact that I expect to receive a divorce next month cause me any trouble in getting my second papers? A. F.

The fact that an applicant for citizenship may be divorced is not in itself any bar toward naturalization unless the facts disclosed in the divorce proceedings affect the character of the applicant for citizenship.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Naturalization.

NOT RELEASED BY MOVING.

Chicago, May 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Husband is laid off temporarily and cannot pay rent for flat. Explains said conditions to landlord, who requests that tenants move. Can rent be collected until expiration of lease? M. K.

Yes. The tenant would not be released unless the landlord expressly assents thereto or takes judgment for possession.

DEFECTIVE GUTTERS.

Chicago, May 3.—[Friend of the People.]—My neighbor's gutters are broken down and the water runs into our basement. We have asked him several times to have it fixed but without results. F. N.

You are advised that an inspector has been assigned to make a thorough investigation, and if any violation is observed, proper action will be taken to effect an abatement.

Health Commissioner.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 10, 1865.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The question of reconstruction chiefly occupied the attention of the cabinet at its meeting today. The question of Negro suffrage in connection with reconstruction is attracting the earnest attention of the government. It is desired that all loyal elements in the south shall have an opportunity to participate in the rehabilitation of governments in the states recently in insurrection, while ingrained and malignant traitors shall be excluded from any connection with such action.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Gen. Sheridan's command is expected at Alexandria within a few days, where it will remain until after the grand review. It will then be reorganized and remounted preparatory to being set to work again, the whole to be under command of Sheridan. The several commands consolidated will number nearly 100,000 men. What disposition of the force will be made is not known, but it is expected that a portion of it will be scattered in detachments throughout the recently rebellious states.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The military commission appointed to try the conspirators in the assassination of President Lincoln met and heard the order of President Johnson read. The order states that the conspirators are subject to trial by a military commission, in the opinion of the attorney general. The prisoners, on being brought before the commission, were asked whom they desired as counsel during the trials. Their selections follow: David C. Harrold—Fred Stone, Joseph H. Bradler, and J. M. Carlisle; Lewis Payne—Mason Campbell of Baltimore; the Surratts—Reverdy Johnson and William Wallace Kirby; Samuel Mudd—Robert James Brent of Baltimore. George E. Abzerot, S. B. Arnold, and Michael McLaughlin did not name their counsel.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Gen. Grant received a dispatch stating that Jeff Davis and his fleeing party are completely surrounded by Union forces in Georgia and that he cannot possibly escape, except by skillfully assuming a disguise. Maj. Gen. Grierson's force is nearest to Davis and his party.

MAY 10, 1900.

PEORIA, Ill.—With the nomination of Richard Yates of Jacksonville by the Republicans of Illinois today history was true to its traditions. Forty years ago today his father, bearing the same name, was nominated for the same office by the same party and on the same ballot. The nomination today was made on the fourth ballot after a wild stampede, led by Congressman William Lorimer, to Yates. This came after Lorimer saw there was no chance to nominate his candidate, Judge Elbridge Hanecy of Chicago, who had 573½ votes on the first ballot. Judge Orrin N. Carter's following, 359½ votes on the first ballot, went to Congressman Reeves. About the only satisfaction Gov. Tanner got out of the convention was that some of his friends were cared for. The final ballot stood, Yates, 971; Reeves, 566. Others nominated were: Lieutenant governor, W. A. Northcott, Greenville; secretary of state, James A. Rose of Golconda; auditor, J. S. McCullough, Urbana; treasurer, M. O. Williamson, Galesburg; and attorney general, H. J. Hamlin of Shelbyville.

LONDON.—Lord Salisbury's speech at the Primrose banquet almost startled England. The premier, with more than his usual incisiveness and bluntness, declared that Ireland will not have home rule and that they will not be allowed to accumulate munitions of war to turn upon England as in the case of the Transvaal. He also said that every Englishman should learn to shoot to resist foreign invasion. He asserted that the foreign menace is growing.

CHICAGO.—The Daily Maroon, the new students' daily newspaper at the University of Chicago, has been suspended by the faculty after a brief career of three days. The faculty decided the new paper was more yellow than maroon. An article headed "Divinity Scandal; Love Affairs of a Semitic Fellow Well Aired," was regarded by the faculty as sensational rather than scholastic.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 10, 1920.

MEXICO CITY.—A report that Carranza has been captured at Apisaco was officially announced. Gen. Obregon will enter Mexico City tomorrow. He has guaranteed Carranza's life shall be spared.

WASHINGTON.—Official confirmation of the occupation of Mexico City by rebel forces on May 7 was received by the state department from the American embassy. The navy department announced that the destroyer flotilla has been ordered from Key West to Tampico, which also is in rebel hands.

NIGHTIES IN THE DAYTIME.

Oak Park, Ill., May 8.—A paper of your prestige, reputation, and power could certainly do something about throwing out the new styles for women. If anything looks terrible it's one of these sliced-up, dragging or long straight skirts added on to a hodge-podge mess of cloth called a dress or a suit.

All the styles today add about 15 years to the women's looks, besides making them look dowdy and fat—all of them. They have lost that snappy chic that goes with this age.

The dress of before, coming just below the knee and with every line (what few there were) doing its part all over, made a woman look like something.

Why not quit publishing fashions showing dresses having a resemblance to night attire and put up a stand for the former right style? Go after it in the manner in which you are going after prohibition. DISGUSTED.

RUTHLESS NATURE.

Chicago, May 6.—In your May 5 column I noticed with particular interest the reasoning of E. C. He deprecated a recent editorial on birth control. He ended his argument with the following statement: "The inference is that prevention practice is moral, while abortion and designed neglect of the newly born is immoral." I believe that he accurately inferred the meaning of the editorial in question, but I cannot but be astonished at the blindness of any human mind which cannot distinguish the enormous difference between abortion, or infanticide, and the intelligent control of conception.

Abortion and infanticide are premeditated murder, murder in the first degree. Contraception is a scientific method for controling the cruel fecundity of nature, even as curative medicine and surgery is a check upon the ruthless destruction of nature.

We do countless acts to make life happier and more livable which are nothing more or less than corrections of defects as we find them today in nature's way. The destruction of the weakling babe is the natural way; the prevention of the conception of the weakling babe, or the unwanted babe, is just another triumph of modern science over nature's ruthlessness. RUFUS RIDDLESBARGER,
Executive Director of the Medical Bureau of Information on Birth Control.

WAITING FOR HIS MONEY.

Chicago, May 3.—Six months have passed since the closing of the City State bank on Nov. 2, and we depositors are still waiting for news as to when we may expect to get back some of our hard saved money.

I have been informed that we depositors would not receive 50 cents on the dollar. It is hard to understand how a bank under state supervision is allowed to operate long enough to get into such a condition. Over one-half of our money is gone. Who got it?

If the officers of the bank have disobeyed the state banking laws in making loans, etc., why doesn't the state hold them responsible for any loss to depositors? If they have not disobeyed the state banking laws, why didn't the state close the bank a few years ago before its poor management could result in such a large deficit? J. A. H.

THE DRY WHO VOTES WET.

French Lick, Ind., May 3.—I wonder why the only fraud in prohibition is the man who is wet and votes dry, while the man who is dry and votes wet is honest and true. I have infinite respect for the man unable to resist temptation in himself, yet who votes to shield others, just as I despise the man who, knowing the evil in liquor, will not drink it himself, yet votes it on others. That is, I respect the man who, while wet himself, votes dry; or I despise the man who, while dry himself, votes wet. Where is the false logic in this? JOHN SCOTT ADAMS.

A CLERICAL ERROR.

[From the New York Times.]

Even those wets who were, as the phrase goes, "grilled" by the senate lobby committee, must agree, after reading of the first day of inquiry into dry campaign financing, that no favorites were played. Senator Caraway, who is a dry, brought out every possible point in his examination of E. C. Jameson of New York. Informed of the contribution of $172,800 by Mr. Jameson to encompass the defeat of Smith, the senator, it is true, expressed the belief that more than a "dry revolt" was represented by political activities in the south. But he slighted none of the details so embarrassing to those who like to think that the five southern states carried by the President in 1928 rose voluntarily in their wrath against an anti-dry Democrat. Among these details were some which reveal Bishop James Cannon, by many called "the Sheridan of the campaign of 1928 in Virginia," as once more unhappily entangled with figures.

When his stock margin account in New York City was previously discussed, he showed an engaging innocence of amounts, per cents and loans. A man of the cloth, the bishop appeared very like a child lost in a forest of ticker tape. At the time it was felt that matters of accounting and speculation had best be explained by some one else. After Mr. Jameson's testimony on Tuesday this impression deepens. The witness said that he, in his zeal to see a wet defeated, had given the bishop $65,300. For reasons best known to himself, the cleric telegraphed Mr. Jameson that, "to correspond with our records," the amount be separated as $17,300 to the "headquarters committee" and $48,000 to the "Virginia committee." Since any one would want his records to "correspond" with those signed by a bishop, Mr. Jameson agreed. Had this suggestion been made by a professional politician, it would have been represented as one of the tricks in campaign bookkeeping intended to becloud the exact facts about contributions. But coming from a bishop whose difficulty with arithmetic had been before demonstrated, it justifies calling him back for examination as soon as possible.

THE FASTEST TRAIN.

Chicago, May 9.—I would respectfully point out an error in your editorial of May 3 in which you intimate that the fastest train from Chicago to Montreal is 18 hours and 15 minutes via the Canadian National. The truth of the matter is that the Canadian Pacific train "The Canadian," leaving Chicago each evening at 6:30 o'clock, arrives in Montreal at 4:30 o'clock the next evening, a full fifteen minutes ahead of the Canadian National train leaving Chicago at the same time. I would appreciate your giving this correction space in your columns. L. T. KELLIE, Press representative, Canadian Pacific railway.

FAST TRAINS.

Chicago, May 7.—The fastest train time between Chicago and St. Louis is 6 hours and 30 minutes, or an average speed of about 44 miles per hour over the shortest line, and over fairly level country. This is not as fast as the Century by about 4 miles per hour, but 44 miles per hour up hill and down dale, maintained day in and day out, is good, I think.

I would like to see some comment.
M. J. JOURS,

CREDITS HOOVER FOR FLEET UP TO LONDON LIMITS

Britten Surprises House by His Statement.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] of the house naval committee sprung a surprise in the ranks of the little navy group in the house today when he asserted during debate on the 379 million dollar naval supply bill that the administration favors building the American fleet up to the tonnage limits set by the London naval agreement.

Responding to pointed questions as to whether he expressed the views of the administration when he introduced a bill today calling for the construction of a half-billion dollars worth of new ships in addition to war vessels already building or authorized, Mr. Britten stated he was confident that such was the case.

Mr. Britten asserted that all the figures carried in his bill had been represented to him by the navy department as in line with the administration views on the naval building policy to be followed during the life of the pact.

Would Cost Over Billion.

Construction of all warships, airships, and aircraft necessary to give the United States theoretical tonnage parity with Great Britain would cost this country more than a billion dollars, according to Representative Britten.

"I would like to know," Representative French [Rep., Idaho] asked, "if the bill you introduced today expressed the views of the administration."

"It does," replied Representative Britten. "All the figures in my bill were received from the secretary of the navy."

Administration's Views.

"Does the gentleman mean," persisted Mr. French, "that it is the thought of the administration that a bill along the lines you have introduced, carrying all the obligations involved in the money total, carrying the program of construction up to the limit, is the policy that the administration has approved?"

"That is correct," replied the Illinois member. "The administration would never have agreed to the London treaty if it had not intended to build up to the tonnage limits. The delegates would not have signed had they not thought the administration would build necessary ships."

Inquiry at the White House late today brought the reply from White House attaches that President Hoover had not yet stated his policy as to the building program.

France and Britain Discuss Moves to Meet U. S. Tariff

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 9.—Foreign Secretary Henderson of Great Britain and Foreign Minister Briand of France today discussed European affairs preliminary to proceeding to Geneva for the league of nations council meeting on Monday.

The principal subject of conversation was M. Briand's project for a United States of Europe. This has been focused into the limelight through the protests throughout Europe against alleged discriminations in the proposed new tariff schedules of the United States.

Both foreign ministers agreed that an international conference to discuss tariff schemes in advance should be held to avoid such situations, which, they said, often are harmful to smaller powers or even to larger nations heavily interested in certain long established industries.

Reopen Naval Problems.

The ministers also discussed the Italian-French naval problem, the deadlock over Italy's demand for parity with France, which prevented a five power agreement at the London conference last month.

Mr. Henderson urged M. Briand to recommence pourparlers with Italy at the soonest possible moment, as was pledged at London. The French minister said it was his intention to reopen conversations on the subject with Sig. Scialoja at Geneva next week.

Both ministers indorsed a decision to postpone the next session of the league's preparatory disarmament commission until after the assembly in September, and approved the tentative date of Nov. 3.

Grandi Sees Pact Ineffective.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, May 9.—The naval treaty between England, the United States and Japan is an ineffective instrument so long as the naval rivalry between France and Italy remains, Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, told the chamber of deputies today during a lengthy review of the negotiations at the London conference. He was congratulated on his speech by Premier Mussolini.

"The liberty left to France and Italy in their construction may render the triparty pact totally precarious since such liberty may exert a repercussion on the naval armament of Great Britain, the United States and Japan," Sig. Grandi said, referring to the safeguard clause in the London treaty, which allows the contracting parties to build more ships than agreed on at London if nonsignatory powers develop building programs which upset Great Britain's two power standard with regard to Europe.

Ready to Resume Negotiations.

While no agreement could be reached at London between France and Italy, he said, Italy, however, was ready to resume these negotiations at any time.

The foreign minister took several sharp digs at France's armament program, but in general he was unusually restrained on the subject of Franco-Italian relations. He spoke ironically of France's continually harping on "security."

"There is a state which instead of disarming is every day augmenting its armament," he said, "and the London conference showed that the Franco-Italian relations reach far beyond the frontiers of the two countries themselves and that their collaboration was essential for the peace of Europe."

A new entente between the two Latin countries can only be durable, he said, if founded on the basis of "parity of right and parity of duties and responsibilities."

League Drafts New Peace Pact.

GENEVA, May 9.—(AP)—The draft of an elastically framed treaty, designed to strengthen the means of preventing war, today was adopted by the league of nations committee on arbitration and security. The agreement provides that parties engaged in disputes brought before the league council must agree to accept and apply the measures which the council recommends for solution of the dispute.

YOUTH KILLED AS MOTORCYCLE HITS AUTOMOBILE

William Johansen, 19 years old, 7109 Woodlawn avenue, was killed yesterday when his motorcycle, purchased two days ago, crashed head on into an automobile on the Lincoln highway just west of Chicago Heights. The impact overturned the automobile, slightly injuring the driver, J. C. Wolfinger of Sturgeon, Mich.

This death and two others in Cook county raised the 1930 auto toll to 311.

Elsie Wojek, 6 years old, 6445 South Hamilton avenue, was fatally hurt when she ran in front of a truck at Hoyne avenue and 65th street.

Frank Swan, 47 years old, a barber residing at the Metropole hotel, 2300 South Michigan avenue, died early this morning in the Westlake hospital at Melrose Park from injuries received on May 7 when the automobile in which he was riding collided with another at 17th avenue and Roosevelt road in Broadview.

Miss Kate Rising, 60 years old, of Hollywood, Cal., a former teacher in the Chicago public schools, died in an Aurora hospital of injuries sustained yesterday when she was struck by an automobile driven by Miss Dorothy Tellison, 17 year old Aurora high school girl. Dr. Mary Rising, a niece, is an instructor in the chemistry department of the University of Chicago.

Maniac Escapes Again; Guard Girl He Trailed

William Ballinger, 24 years old, a legally adjudged maniac, was at large again last night, leaving Mrs. Sophie Sacks, 22 years old, 2536 South Hamlin avenue, in fear of her life. Ballinger was committed to the Dunning asylum some months ago on Mrs. Sacks' complaint that he had trailed her for two years with a pistol. He escaped a week ago. Yesterday officers saw him lurking at Clark and Adams streets, fired several shots as they gave chase, and captured him. Returning to Dunning, he broke away from his guards. Mrs. Sacks is under guard.

Students Will Honor Mothers with Parties

Plans were being made yesterday for the observance of Mothers' day tomorrow in churches, clubs, lodges, and university groups, as well as with the individual remembraces by a son or daughter.

In the Episcopal churches men and boys will present a thank offering in memory or in honor of their mothers. These offerings will be placed on the altars at tomorrow's services for the missionary work of that church.

The Chicago lodge, Order of Elks, will hold a ritualistic observance of Mother's day tomorrow afternoon at the Selwyn theater. Judge Michael Feinberg, exalted ruler, and Dr. Solomon B. Freehof wil speak.

Sororities and fraternities at Northwestern and the University of Chicago will give teas in honor of their mothers.

Delta Kappa Delta sorority will give a luncheon and bridge this afternoon at the Medinah Athletic club. Psi Delta Sigma sorority will give a similar affair today at the Graemere hotel. Beta chapter of Kappa Zeta Kappa will have a Mother's day luncheon tomorrow at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Chi Sigma Epsilon sorority will give a luncheon and bridge tomorrow at the Seneca hotel; Alpha chapter of Kappa Zeta Kappa ,a luncheon today at the Admiral hotel. Theta Lamda Gamma will give a tea tomorrow at the Medinah Athletic club.

There will be a special display of flowers at the Garfield Park conservatory, 3800 West Lake street.

Celebration of Mothers' day began last night at the University of Illinois in Urbana, with intersorority singing and a play. Several thousand mothers will be on the campus, where many activities are on today's program. These include a meeting of the Mothers' association of the university and the annual May fete, during which Miss Marie Johnson of Kansas City will be crowned as queen of the May. A concert by the men's glee club will be given tonight. Special cnurch services will be held at churches there tomorrow.

A memorial window in the students' Catholic church at the University of Illinois will be dedicated tomorrow to Mrs. John J. Enright of 6458 Lakewood avenue, Chicago, in recognition of her work in organizing mothers' clubs throughout the state.

Husband Won't Tell Wife a Word About His Finances

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Don't you think a wife should know all about the financial side of the partnership? I have a good husband. I know he has saved and invested wisely in our thirty years of married life, but I do not know how much.

"I do not know what his salary is. I do not know how much insurance he carries. I have asked him many times to talk over our finances with me. He has promised to make up a report-list—but never has.

"He is generous in every way. I have always had an allowance. I never keep things from him. I feel hurt that I am not treated the same way. I am a wife who can keep her affairs to herself, too. I never discuss my personal affairs with friends or relatives. I think private finances concern only husband and wife, but in my married life I never have been an inside partner. Do you think it is fair? P. P. M."

Not only unfair, but unjust, but O, so commonly a husband's attitude. It is an attitude, too, that is responsible for the tragic money confusion and loss widows experience. Appended to the statistics on money losses of widows, which appear every now and then, should be a clause dealing with the husband who never taught his wife how to handle money.

This money reservation is a strange one in the character of the male. Especially strange in this era in which women have proved they are perfectly capable of handling moneys entrusted to them. Perhaps it is man's last hold on the patriarch rule in the home. Until women manage a law enforcing husbands to tell all, they will hold out. In the meantime, if one's husband is that way, nothing much can be done about it if love for his wife fails to see the fairness of full money confidences.

However, in the particular instance under discussion, if one has managed for thirty years with the generous qualities the mate has, would it not be best not to let the grievance wear one down?

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

He Is Too Old.

"Dear Miss Blake: My boy friend is 32. I am 18. Is he too old for me?
"WONDERING."

A girl of 18 should associate with boys who share her pleasures and enthusiasms. A man 14 years her senior can't possibly do so.

Pay No Attention.

"Dear Miss Blake: When I go out with my friend he says he loves me. My girl friend says that he has another girl. Please advise. BILLY."

I shouldn't give the other girl a thought.

BETROTHED

[Bernie Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Harris F. Williams of 6910 Sheridan road announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Isabel, to Theodore William Vayo, son of Mrs. A. R. Krause of 1851 Greenleaf avenue. Miss Williams attended Northwestern university and Mr. Vayo is a former student of the University of Illinois. The wedding will take place in the early fall.

WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Virginia Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Brown of Sioux Falls, S. D., to B. McKee Marcon of Chicago is to take place at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at St. Luke's Episcopal church in Evanston. The Rev. George Craig Stewart will officiate. Miss Brown attended Dana Hall, Wellesley, Mass., and was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1928. Mr. Marcon was from Windsor, Canada. He now is assistant manager of the Chicago Civic Opera building. Mr. Marcon and his bride plan to reside in Chicago or Evanston.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rummler of Winnetka announce the marriage of their daughter, Rosalia, to Sage Redfern, son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Redfern of Rogers Park, which took place on Thursday, May 1.

The marriage of Miss Mary Meyering, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Meyering of 3750 Sheridan road, to Ward Farnsworth of 900 North Michigan avenue took place yesterday at St. Chrysostom's church.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Spaghetti Italienne.

The American interpretation or adaptation of spaghetti Italienne is a cooked spaghetti well turned over in some butter, sometimes sprinkled with Parmesan cheese and then served with a measure of either plain or highly seasoned tomato sauce. With real Italian service this would be accompanied with a dish of grated Parmesan cheese. Instead of butter the Italians would use a high grade of white olive oil, and when this is used with discretion it does give quite a different dish from spaghetti seasoned with butter.

As to the cooking of spaghetti, there is no end of ideas, and if the one cooking it has no ideas of her own she can always follow the directions on the box, which in most cases are exactly contrary to my idea of the correct way of cooking spaghetti. No matter how the spaghetti is cooked, or even macaroni, if they are well turned over in a little delicious butter and salted lightly they are edible with no further addition. A great many people, in adding the tomato sauce, like to put the spaghetti in it and turn it over and over until it is all red. But it is more truly Italian, probably, to serve the sauce on top of the well seasoned spaghetti and let the eater do his own turning.

The Italians, in making this sauce, quite universally use a tomato paste, which may be excellent or poor. We can take some fresh tomatoes and in about fifteen minutes' time make a superior sauce, and instead of its being dull and not of excellent flavor our sauce will be bright and as fresh a flavor as a cherry picked right from the tree.

For a small amount of sauce, peel and cut up, and perhaps even chop, three large tomatoes. Cook them gently; when cooked turn them into a strainer; let the liquid run off, to be used for soup or as tomato juice; rub the solid tomato through the strainer or sieve into a saucepan, add a tablespoon of butter and a little salt, then stir rapidly over the fire until it is of the right consistency. Take from the fire and add one teaspoon lemon juice and about one tablespoon of finely chopped onion, that is, onion chopped almost to a mush; then stir it into the sauce and serve. Never should the lemon juice show up as flavor, but it adds a quality that is desirable. High grade spaghetti Italienne is likely to have a herb flavor or two, and the platter on which it is served is likely to be rubbed with garlic.

Glamour Results from a Sparing Use of Makeup

by Gabrielle Beverly

The popularity of a certain person about whom there was much conjecture among her fair rivals was finally pronounced as "the glamour she built up around herself."

Looking upon a vividly painted cheek and a heavily shadowed eyelid of an otherwise personable girl across the car, the word "glamour" came back to me—because the girl's paint job gave so little of it. Isn't it glamour that one should strive for when she sits down before her dressing table spread with powder, rouge, mascara, and eye shadow?

Glamour, though not authentically defined that way, means certain surprise qualities in a person—unsuspected charms, let us say. Now, if rouge is slapped on as if it were the barn door and not a fair one's cheek, none of the unsuspected charm is going to come to the surface. What charms might be there are blotted out with the paint brush.

In fact, makeup, now, unless it is done cleverly, imparts a commonplaceness to an individual more quickly than clothes will. She is catalogued in a sort of mass production class when there is none of the hint of illusion makeup should and can impart.

The force of what makeup can do was brought home on a recent sea voyage in which a table companion figured. An unusually good looking type of girl she was, hazel eyed, with a flawless skin with a light olive tinting. Ordinarily she appeared at table with just the faintest glimmer of color accenting beautifully the warmth of her olive tones.

Then one noontime she appeared in a brilliant yellow sports suit and hat to match. The occasion seemed to call for stronger red in her cheks. Immediately her fascinating charm was gone. She was just another painted damosel. The bright, wide splotch on her cheeks did something unkind to her eyes and also to what natural coloring was still showing. Persuaded to remove the unbecoming splotch she presented immediately the old picture of individuality—with that illusive something about her we are trying to explain.

I don't know any type that gains a bit of glamour with the paint put on as if there were lots more where it came from, do you?

Spoke to Wrong Man.

When I lived in Minnesota I used to go to the horse races with my husband. We had entered our horse Dan and, of course, I was most eager to see him win, so we went close to the ropes to watch. The gong sounded, the race was on, and our horse was in the lead.

Slapping some one on the back, I said, "Sweetheart, if Dan wins won't we have some swell times?" A voice answered, "O, I dunno. What's the big idea?"

I looked up and found my husband had moved away and I had talked to the wrong man. MRS. C.

No Joke to Boss.

One April Fool's day I had resolved not to be fooled. Therefore, when one of the girls told me I was wanted for dictation in the other office I refused to go and she went back and told the boss I thought it was a joke. It surely was embarrassing when he called to me from his office and said, "It's no April fool joke. I want to dictate." S. F.

GRAPE JUICE For Breakfast!
Physicians Recommend It
Here are seven of the reasons why Welch's is fast becoming the favorite breakfast fruit juice in many thousands of homes:
1. Welch's is the pure, unadulterated juice of luscious Concord grapes, Pasteurized.
2. Welch's is rich in fruit nourishment and mineral salts, and so perfectly adapted to the human system that it is taken into the blood-stream without digestive effort, releasing quick new energy. It's non-fattening.
3. Welch's is already squeezed. No fuss!
4. There's no squeezer to clean, no machinery to sterilize. No muss!
5. There's not a particle of waste!
6. In every pint there are six liberal portions, making Welch's only 5c a glass—costs even less if diluted with one-third water, and many prefer it so.
7. It's ready instantly. And temptingly delicious. You simply dilute to suit taste, pour and serve.

At your hotel or club, ask for grape juice on your "club breakfast," and insist on Welch's. For "Ways to Serve Welch's," Free, write to Welch's, Dept. B, Westfield, N. Y.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

The dipping shirred panel of this dress is a smart detail that gives the figure length and grace, making it suitable for slender or full figures. Shirring appears again at the shoulders, providing a becoming fulness to the surplice closing bodice. A narrow belt is drawn snugly around the figure at the back of the normal waistline, and it passes through a bound opening at the right side front—creating a panel that contributes further length. Any of the printed silk crêpes will be smart in this design.

The pattern, 3420, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material with ¼ yard of 18 inch contrasting.

Coiffure Determines the Fit of the Bonnet

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Fashionable ladies around Paris are having their hair and hats arranged along the same lines. They go first to their coiffeur and get him to give them something new in the way of a haircut—preferably one that is fluffy and feminine—and generally something with the hair left rather longish. Then they are all set for the milliner, who drapes and molds a hat following the same lines. It is quite tricky and looks "done to order" and exclusive.

A coiffure and bonnet in this manner are shown in our sketch. The coiffure at the top of the page is Antoine's latest, with a roll across the top of the head and curls behind the ears. The bonnet is from Jeanne Lanvin, and is made of silver lamé with quaint padded rolls for trimming. It is designed to be worn with dinner and restaurant clothes.

Sketched with this bonnet is Lanvin's new fur neckpiece—a round padded collar of ermine that you slip on over your head and wear like a necklace.

On the same figure Dorothy Dulin has sketched Chanel's new gloves, which are eight button length and tucked in a lattice design from wrists to the top. They are made of the finest suede, in pinky-beige color and are most smart.

At the top of our sketch is one of the new summer lamé blouses that Parisiennes wear with tailored suits for the swanky luncheon. This one is flowered lamé on a silver ground and its unusual jabot collar is a distinctive detail.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

Little Phil was told he would be severely punished if he again asked for food at our neighbor's home. His aunt was also told not to give him any if he asked for it.

A few days later Phil was at auntie's while they were having dinner. Spying pie on the table he decided he had to have a piece, so cunningly he said, "I like pie." Auntie didn't answer.

So he said a little louder, "I like pie." No answer again.

Finally, he said with a sigh of exasperation, "I just love pie, but I'd die before I asked for some."

SYNOPSIS.

Catherine West, of Boston, on her way to Paris, meets Geoffrey Macadam in the Havre to Paris train. Macadam is an Englishman who lives in Paris. Catherine tells him that she is going to visit her cousin's widow, Mme. Belmont Bender. She is a little apprehensive about the coming visit because she had received, just before sailing, a letter from Hermione Cushing, who tells her that Mme. Bender is far from well. Macadam is a lawyer and he tells Catherine that his firm handles Mme. Bender's affairs, but he doesn't know the widow very well. He had heard that she was ill. Arriving in Paris Catherine is a little disappointed when her cousin's chauffeur is not at the station to meet her. Geoffrey sees her into a taxi, giving her his address and telephone number. He tells her that he will be anxious to know how things are at the Bender apartment and she promises to call him. Arriving at Mme. Bender's apartment, she is treated coldly by the servants and Jeanne, Mme. Bender's maid, suggests that she go to a hotel. Catherine insists on staying in the apartment as she is suspicious of the servants. Jeanne tells her that Mme. Bender attempted to commit suicide the night before. The next morning Catherine goes in to see Germaine Bender who is pathetically glad to see her. She tells Catherine how she had taken poison by mistake.

Geoffrey invites Catherine to dine with him and it is a relief for her to get out of the apartment and to tell him of her vague fears. He is disturbed, too. Geoffrey escorts her back to the apartment. The door is locked but Geoffrey arouses Eduardo who says he thought Miss West had come in long before.

The next morning Catherine calls on Miss Cushing, who takes her to her milliners, where she sees a man she has noticed hanging around the Bender apartment. Back in the apartment she finds the gallery open for the first time and she goes in only to discover a number of pictures and tapestries missing. She asks Jeanne about them and Jeanne says they were sold shortly before Mr. Bender's death. Catherine feels she is lying and believes she and Eduardo are thieves. She finds Jeanne is exerting a baneful influence on Mme. Bender. Jeanne denounces Catherine to the invalid. Catherine calls on Miss Cushing and together they visit Germaine's doctor to explain their suspicions of Jeanne and ask his help in ordering Jeanne away for a rest.

INSTALLMENT XXXVI.

A LATE VISITOR.

When Catherine and Miss Cushing were outside on the pavement Catherine breathed a sigh of relief.

"Well, that's accomplished!" she cried with satisfaction. "We've opened his eyes a bit, which is something. Poor man, I felt rather sorry for him. He is now in a state where he doesn't know what to think."

"He is not the only one," replied Hermione with an ominous shudder. The exhilarating effect of the Burgundy having worn off, she was becoming mysterious and pessimistic.

"Why do you say that?" asked Catherine, slightly annoyed.

The singer shrugged her vast shoulders.

"Jeanne. She is a deep one. I warn you, Catherine, we have not got the best of her yet, any more than we have got to the bottom of her devilment. You'll see——" and she shook her head with a gesture Cassandra might have envied.

It was stupid to be cast down by any pronouncement so irrational. So Catherine told herself several hours later, when, unable to sleep, her mind tiresomely harped upon what she scornfully called the gypsy's warning. Hermione was always dramatic; she invariably read mysteries into things. It was simply her temperament, unchecked by common sense.

deep. I shouldn't wonder if she guessed that this is a prearranged plan, and finds some way to get round it. How I distrust that woman! She's capable of anything!"

The hall clock struck twelve, half-past, then one, and still she was wide awake. At last just as consciousness was beginning to film over a stealthy sound in the passage outside roused her again to alert attention. She sat up in bed and listened.

Footsteps, muffled, were descending the stairs to the lower floor. She strained her ears, but after some time had elapsed the person or persons had not returned. With a feeling of puzzled uneasiness she slid out of bed, put on dressing gown and slippers and went quietly out.

There was a light in the downstairs hall, and from below the murmur of voices reached her. Leaning over the balustrade she tried hard to catch what they were saying, but she could make out nothing except that there were several people apparently holding a conclave, angry and disputatious.

At last curiosity got the better of her. She crept cautiously down, a step at a time, until, crouching at the turn, she could peer through the rounds into the lighted space.

What she saw made her gasp with astonishment.

Against the closed door of the picture gallery Eduardo was stationed, with his foot braced in an attitude of defiance. Jeanne was ranged beside him, a dark coat thrown over her nightgown, her eyes hard and sullen, while confronting the pair stood the meanly built figure of a man, quivering with rage. One glance at the latter's black, broad brimmed hat was enough. It hid the features of A. Blom.

What on earth was he doing here at this hour?

His manner frightened the watcher. Charged with malevolent animosity, it hinted at something arrogant and at the same time implacable. She held her breath, terrified lest he should discover her, even while realizing that his fury was entirely concentrated on the two guarding the door, which, it seemed, he was determined to enter. Guttural words reached her, but there was so much argot as to render the meaning unintelligible.

Catherine stared, fascinated. The Alsatian was no match for Eduardo, who could have throttled him with one powerful fist, yet for some reason the butler's bravado seemed a hollow sham, while the gleam in his small eyes was distinctly nervous. Only Jeanne remained calm, glancing from one face to the other with a cold calculation.

The whispering stopped, there was a pause during which nothing was heard save stertorous breathing. Then the notaire spoke between his teeth.

"Enough! Give me the key. I am going to see for myself," he commanded brutally.

"No! I refuse. It's not your affair," retorted Eduardo.

"Not my affair? Then listen. I will tell you something!" And putting his lips close to the Portuguese's ear the speaker hissed a few words venomously.

Some of the butler's assurance wilted away. He wavered uncertainly, looking towards Jeanne in doubtful question. The latter considered for a moment, then with a shrug and a jerk of the head moved aside.

"Very well," she agreed indifferently, "let him have his way."

With slow reluctance the Portuguese drew a key from his pocket and inserted it in the lock. The next instant the notaire had pushed him away and with a muttered expletive had vanished into the gallery, switching on the light within. The others followed with less confident steps.

Silence ensued, broken only by hoarse exclamations of rage. Evidently Blom had made some discovery not to his liking, doubtless in connection with the missing pictures. Yet what could it mean? Catherine's belief that the three were working in conjunction with each other was suddenly shaken.

If the listener had hoped to learn something conclusive she was doomed to disappointment. The door was softly closed and the voices, which had resumed their angry conference, sank into inaudibility. Still she remained, rooted to the spot, and shivering more from tension than cold, for the apartment was warm and close.

An endless time passed before the trio reissued into the hall. They were no longer quarreling, and Eduardo was obviously cowed, but Jeanne's features remained an enigma. Without speaking, the notaire moved towards the street door and opened it. A damp breeze swept in, ruffling the tails of his ill-fitting coat. He turned and addressed his companions distinctly, with the air of laying down the law.

"Remember, this is the last time. Play that trick again and you will find yourselves in the soup!"

In the glare of the overhead luster his face showed pale like a fishbelly, his glittering eyes horridly repellent. Catherine shuddered.

"Now mind what I say. I am the master here—I," he repeated, striking his meager chest.

He was gone, swallowed up in the darkness. The door shut upon him. Eduardo and Jeanne exchanged questioning glances. Then the woman's lips tightened with a mutinous expression.

"We shall see," she muttered briefly. "Put out the light——"

Once more they disappeared into the gallery, while Catherine seized the chance to escape unobserved. Safe in her room she sank upon the bed and waited with pounding heart till she heard the two servants come up the stairs and separate in the passage outside. Only when all was quiet again did her strained muscles relax and her pulse resume its normal beat.

Good Morning!

"Hold Everything" is a rough and ready farce comedy with music. It abounds in songs, wisecracks, lusty action, and is all in technicolor. The ultra-fastidious will shrug a shoulder at it, but the average movie fan who likes his screen diet light of a springtime, will eat it up.

The action concerns a pair of pugilists and their sweeties and leads you through a maze of night clubs, training camps, fight rings, and arenas. One, Georges La Verne is preparing for his coming fight with the heavyweight champion. The other, Gink Schiner, is a lazy "preliminary" boxer, carried along by "Pop" O'Keefe who manages the big boy.

Georges is greatly admired by a young society woman with a yen for fighters, and sees no reason why he shouldn't treat her pleasantly. Ginks has an eye for every pretty girl he meets. Well—the sweeties get jealous. Winnie Lightner is one of them and as Toots Breen she stands for NOTHIN'! Sally O'Neill, pretty as a picture, as the champ's beloved does plenty in her own sweet way, too.

There's one real fight in which you get a chance to see Georges Carpentier, as Georges La Verne in action. Slick fighter, I would say, knowing nothing at all about fighters! The preliminary bout, featuring Joe Brown as Ginks, is one of the funniest performances of the kind ever screened.

"Hold Everything" has laughs, girls, speed, music, WINNIE LIGHTNER, and JOE BROWN. It entertains.

See you tomorrow!

Florence Nightingale to Be Recalled on Hospital Day, May 12

Florence Nightingale was born 110 years ago in Florence, Italy, but her influence is felt more and more each year in American hospitals. On Monday hospitals will observe national hospital day, not alone as the birthday anniversary celebration of the famous nurse but also to call attention to the equipment and scientific progress in modern hospitals.

Several Chicago hospitals will hold open house. Among them will be the Passavant hospital on Northwestern university campus. This hospital recently announced an expansion program, which will be formally started on hospital day. The Chicago Memorial hospital, 33d street and Lake Park avenue, will hold open house from 2 to 4 p. m., with tea served and a program of ten minute talks by staff physicians.

The Woodlawn hospital executives will give a luncheon for south side business men on Monday, followed by an inspection tour of the hospital. Dr. R. K. Packard, committee chairman, said plans have been made for meetings in an effort to bring business and medicine into a closer coöperation in the discussion of community problems.

Hospital day was first observed on May 12, 1921. There are, according to estimates, more than 8,000 hospitals in the United States, valued at about five thousand million dollars, four times the assessed valuation of the real estate of Chicago.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

What task did you most dislike to do when you were a child?

The Answers.

Miss Mary Rafter, 4116 West North avenue, telephone operator — Washing dishes after dinner, or whenever I was at home, especially on occasions when I wanted to go out. But mother insisted that I do them and not let them lie around. I am sick of that work even today.

Richard E. Baldwin, 134 North La Salle street, lawyer—Weeding the garden. We had a vegetable garden in the rear of our home in Escanaba, Mich., and every few days I had to clear that garden of weeds. Sometimes it was with fear that I watched father look through that garden to inspect my work.

Prudence Penny, 1544 Farwell avenue, writer—The only task that fell on me that I really hated was to take anything back to the store, either for return or exchange. I feel the same way today. I felt a right choice should be made at first.

Frank Ryan, 809 South State street, meat cutter—Well, how would you like to get up at 2 o'clock in the morning and drive seven miles to the market? That's what I had to do three times a week in the summer when I was a boy living near Pittsburgh. That was during the civil war.

Miss Agnes M. Owens, Hartford building, advertising—Washing dishes. I didn't always have to do it, but when I did I disliked it very much. I hated any work that kept me from my play. I wouldn't object to it now, but, being away from home, I haven't the opportunity.

Wider Pension Law Urged for Needy Mothers

Governor's Committee Acts After Inquiry.

A recommendation was approved yesterday that the state legislature be asked to increase the scope of the mothers' pension law to include four classes of mothers not provided for at present. The approval was given by the Illinois committee on child welfare, a group appointed last fall by Gov. Emmerson to study the Illinois child welfare situation, with the view to legal revisions. The meeting yesterday was held at the Knickerbocker hotel and presided over by Wilfred S. Reynolds, director of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies.

"The committee believes that the last session of the legislature took an important step in state aid and the supervision of aid to mothers," said Joel D. Hunter, superintendent of the United Charities of Chicago. As chairman of the subcommittee on dependent children he presented the recommendation. "We feel that all mothers who belong in counties of Illinois and dependent over a long time should be included. Those so aided should include mothers whose husbands are incarcerated, who are divorced, or women who are mothers of illegitimate children. Help also should be given in cases where a female relative, instead of the mother, must care for the child."

Other committees made reports on delinquent children, defective children, on health and education. Among committee members attending were Rodney H. Brandon, director of the state department of public welfare; C. M. Moderwell, Judge A. D. Morgan of Marion county, Judge Oramel B. Irwin, Springfield; C. V. Williams, superintendent Illinois Children's Home and Aid society; Miss S. P. Breckinridge, University of Chicago; the Rev. William A. Cummings, superintendent Catholic Home bureau; Jacob Kepecs, superintendent Jewish Home Finding society.

Rev. S. M. Griswold to Become Chicago Bishop on Tuesday

The Rt. Rev. Sheldon Munson Griswold, suffragan bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago for the last 13 years, will be enthroned as head of the local diocese at ceremonies at St. James' cathedral on Tuesday. Bishop Griswold recently was elected to succeed the late Bishop Charles P. Anderson, to whom he was assistant.

The Very Rev. Duncan H. Browne, dean of the cathedral, will officiate at the induction ceremony. It will form a part of the holy communion service opening the special convention called to elect a coadjutor bishop, who eventually will succeed Bishop Griswold.

Four clergymen, three from Chicago, who have been mentioned in pre-convention discussions, are the Rev. Dr. Samuel Drury, rector of St. Paul's school, Concord, N. H.; the Rev. Dr. Stephen E. Keeler, rector of St. Chrysostom's church, Chicago; the Rev. Dr. George Craig Stewart, rector of St. Luke's church, Evanston, and the Rev. Dr. George H. Thomas, rector of St. Paul's church, Chicago.

4,000 PRIESTS ATTEND EUCHARISTIC RITES HELD IN CARTHAGE

CARTHAGE, Tunisia, May 9.—(AP)—Four thousand priests of nearly all nations, including more than a hundred Americans, assembled this afternoon for the first sacerdotal conference of the thirtieth international Eucharistic congress of the Roman Catholic church.

After discussions lasting an hour, the priests were grouped in sections according to the languages they spoke. The Americans, the British and the Irish occupied one section.

A pontifical mass on the ruins of the ancient Basilica Majorum, where St. Augustine five times preached a panegyric on the martyred saints, was today's chief event.

The moving story of Ste. Perpetue and Ste. Felicite, who were thrown to the lions early in the Christian era, was invoked this morning by Cardinal Lepicier, papal legate, in a plea for emulation of their fidelity.

Boston has furnished the largest American contingent, with 140 pilgrims led by Msgrs. Frederick A. Burke of Brighton, Mass., and J. E. McGlinchey. Boston also supplied the oldest and youngest American pilgrims, Cornelius O'Leary, 80, and John Henry O'Neil, 6, son of John A. O'Neil.

French priests who are war veterans today decided to accord the fullest honors to the war dead of Tunis, who were mostly Moslems and Jews. On Saturday morning these priests will decorate the monument to their fallen comrades in arms.

Traffic conditions, which in this small town have been even worse than in the congested arteries of the world's greatest capitals, improved today. A sharp attack on police methods in a leading Paris newspaper brought immediate results.

Sengalese troops assisting the police have been using strong arm methods to enforce their orders literally. Even Cardinal Lepicier suffered from this and was prevented from attending the ceremony in the amphitheater yesterday.

Blackfriars' Show Musical Travesty on Chicago Dry Era

Blackfriars club of the University of Chicago presented its annual musical comedy last night in Mandel hall. It is "Smart Alec" whose music was written by Jerome H. Solomon, and the lyrics by Jack Pincus, both of the law school. Other performances will be given tonight and May 16 and 17. There are 22 in the cast and 100 in the company. All those in the show are men, though half of the rôles portray women.

The plot is a burlesque on life in Chicago under gangster and prohibition influence. A principal character is a gangster. A chorus girl asks him if he is the "worst gunman in Chicago." He proudly replies he's the "best gunman in Chicago." There are several convivial scenes and a song hit is a "Drinking Song." Robert Baisley has the chief feminine rôle.

Among those at the opening were President and Mrs. Robert Maynard Hutchins, Harold H. Swift, head of the university's board of trustees; Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mrs. Jacob Bahr, Mr. and Mrs. Percy B. Eckhart, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Logan, and Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Stagg.

Poor and Sick Get Flowers on Lilac Day

Guild Starts Its Regular Summer Work.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A breath of the open country was carried into the heart of Chicago yesterday. Hundreds of sick and needy persons were made happy with lilacs and other flowers.

Flowers were carried by the hundreds into the centrally located booths of railway stations as passengers and trainmen brought large bundles to the women who volunteered to see that they were placed among the poor and ailing. Visiting nurses on their rounds yesterday carried bouquets of lilacs with their grips full of medicaments and bandages.

"And no flowers were ever more appreciated, I am sure," declared Mrs. W. S. Underwood, chairman of the Chicago Plant, Flower and Fruit guild booth in the North Western station. Mrs. D. M. Workman, chairman of the Union station booth, went with an entire truckload of lilacs to see them placed in the tuberculosis ward of Cook County hospital.

"You can't realize how much good these flowers do our patients here," said Miss Grace Bradley, nurse in charge of the ward. She was joined by Michael Zimmer, warden, in thanks to the gardeners who sent in the flowers.

Suburbanites along the Illinois Central sent in another profusion of lilacs of many kinds, tulips and iris greeting Mrs. T. E. Moritz, in charge of the Randolph station booth. Garden clubs on the Rock Island also responded to the call of Mrs. H. E. Wulfing for lilacs at the La Salle street station, while passengers of the electric lines north and west sent boxes and baskets full of fragrance to the booth at the terminal of the Aurora, Elgin and Chicago electric line. These lilacs, with those received at TRIBUNE office and People's Gas building booths, added to the truckloads sent out during the day.

Among the places and organizations where flowers were left for distribution by welfare workers and nurses were: Chicago Commons, Humboldt station of Visiting Nurses, Northwestern university settlement, Infant Welfare association house, Church Home for Aged Persons, Frank Billings hospital, Howell settlement, Gads Hill settlement, Chicago Lighthouse, Infant Welfare May street station Madonna settlement, Mary Crane nursery, and the Mary Thompson Women's and Children's hospital.

Booths will be open on alternate days in railway stations continuously during the flowering season, guild officials report, and other worthy institutions will be supplied during coming weeks.

Festival in Michigan.

Benton Harbor, Mich., May 9.—[Special.]—In holiday attire the twin cities today greeted the greatest crowd in the history of their blossom festivals.

A parade of 100 floats with twenty bands and other features is scheduled for tomorrow.

The program today included two presentations of the outdoor pageant, "The Dawn of Day," depicted by 150 high school dancers in costume, at Filstrup field, overlooking the St. Joseph river.

The pageant, a band concert by the Benton Harbor High school band, and circus acts drew a crowd of more than 10,000 this afternoon and evening.

Queen Cecelia Eisenhart of Buchanan, Mich., this year's festival ruler, is the central figure in the festival programs.

President Kinley of University of Illinois to Be Honored May 15

A dinner honoring President David Kinley, who will soon retire after thirty-seven years as head and faculty member of the University of Illinois, will be given by the alumni of the university on May 15.

W. L. Abbott, alumnus and former member of the board of trustees, will preside as toastmaster. Speakers will be Dr. Frederic C. Woodward, vice president of the University of Chicago, and Robert F. Carr, an alumnus and former member of the board.

Howard B. Hare is chairman of the committee in charge of the dinner, with headquarters at 164 West Jackson boulevard. Several hundred reservations have already been made by alumni, former students, and friends of Dr. Kinley, he said.

Good Health for Your Children Needs Two Allies

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

The other five days of this week have been devoted to five of the most important factors that combine to make our children measure up to the ideal of perfect health.

Today is the last day of our own children's health week. Physical health can scarcely be a thing apart. When we say our ideal is health we mean really health in every sense—not just the physical one. So, closely linked with all the physical things we have been concentrating on during the week, are two other important ones. They are understanding and good management. These are two great auxiliaries of physical care.

The question then to ask yourself is, first, do you try to understand your children? And second, do you use that understanding to manage them well?

The first without the second does not get you far in a practical way. You must know how to apply your knowledge—or it isn't a wisdom in the real sense of the word.

For example, just to know that the baby is fussy because he doesn't have enough sleep isn't enough. You must see that he gets what he needs by learning how to make him go to sleep at the required hours. To know that your small daughter refuses to eat because she likes the center of the stage, or loves your attention isn't enough. You must develop a way of dealing with her motives so she won't cut up at meal times.

To realize that your son is not in glowing health because he lacks vigorous exercise and the stimulation and satisfaction of congenial companionship is not enough. You must turn this observation to practical account and see that he gets the exercise and finds the boys he needs.

So the question for you to ask is—am I fitting myself to make these actual contributions to my children's well being? The answer for you may lie in simply thinking the thing out for yourself. Or you may need the help that others who are studying children can give you. Helpful reading will be suggested to those who write in to this department.

Several Debut Dates, Places Set for Winter

BY THALIA

Debut plans for next winter are pretty well formulated now. Most of the desirable dates and places already have been reserved by mothers who wish their daughters to have auspicious comings out.

Thus, also, a summer care-free of the necessity of contemplating such preliminary plans is assured to both mothers and daughters. Doubtless, some of the plans will be changed before the season opens, as the reservations made are not always binding, but are merely precautionary.

Helen Bowen Blair, the William McCormick Blairs' daughter, who returns this month from studying in Paris, is to have her debut tea at the Blair residence at 1416 Astor street and her formal coming out ball on Dec. 19 at the Blackstone. Miss Blair, Beatrice Kirk, the Walter R. Kirks' daughter, and Elsa Armour, daughter of the A. Watson Armours, have all been together in Paris this past winter and will be contemporary debs. Mrs. Armour has gone to Europe to shepherd them home again. Miss Kirk and Miss Armour are to have a joint ball on Dec. 21.

Betty Offield, the James Offields' daughter, and Elinor Whiting, daughter of Mrs. A. Harris Whiting, both have been at Mlle. Bloissier's school in Paris. They are to be among the debutantes of the year. Mrs. Whiting is to give a tea for Miss Elinor on Nov. 28 and a dinner-dance on Dec. 21. Miss Offield's tea is to be early in November at the Offield residence at 1400 Astor street and there will be a ball and dinner-dance for her later in the winter.

Miss Betty Chapin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell M. Chapin, is to have her formal ball on Dec. 26. She is studying at the Fermata school at Aiken, S. C.

Such authorities as social secretaries predict that the season will be unusually gay.

Arts club announcement cards are out for the seventh annual exhibit of the Chicago Architectural Exhibition league to be opened with a tea on next Thursday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Dr. and Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum and Hugo Simon, German consul-general, and Mrs. Simon gave a reception yesterday afternoon at the Baum residence at 1508 North State parkway to George Fassnacht Sr. and members of his family who are appearing in the Passion play at the Opera house.

Kent S. Clow is chairman of a special gifts committee for the United Charities' campaign, with eight committees of men working under him.

Samuel Insull Jr., Robert A. Gardner, Hopewell L. Rogers, Albert A. Sprague, E. J. Bermingham, Howard Fenton, Charles F. Glore, and Lawrence F. Stern are chairmen of the subgroups. The special gifts committee seeks to get $750,000 as a first unit of the 1960 fund of $1,150,000 to be completed this fall.

Chicago is well represented in the gathering of bankers and their wives at White Sulphur Springs for the annual conference of the Investment Bankers' association of the United States. Many activities have been planned for the entertainment of the visitors.

The week will be one of the gayest of the spring season for that fashionable spa. Chicagoans include the Henry S. Robbins', Robert A. Gardner, Paul Cleveland, Charles F. Glore, Mr. and Mrs. Alden H. Little, Frank McNair, Joseph A. Rushton, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Taylor, Robert Whiting, and the Le Roy Woodlands. Archery golf has been revived at White Sulphur and is quite popular.

Mary Trigg Waller, daughter of Mrs. Trigg Waller of Highland Park, is to be one of the attendants of the senior May Queen, Katherine Roberts of Flushing, L. I., today at the annual May day celebration at Wells college, Aurora, N. Y. The queens hold court on the bank of Lake Cayuga, and are entertained by members of the classes with a program of solo and group dances.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon K. Gould of Evanston are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son on May 4. Mrs. Gould is the former Miss Edith Sherrill of Paducah, Ky. The baby is a sixth generation descendant of John Kinzie, pioneer Chicago settler, and is to be named Gordon Kinzie Gould Jr. His paternal grandmother, Mrs. George W. Gould of Riverside, is a great-granddaughter of John Kinzie.

The engagement of Miss Nancy Langworthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Langworthy of Evanston, to Adon N. Smith of Cleveland, O., son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip T. Smith of Hamilton, N. Y., was announced last evening at a dinner given at the Evanston Country club. Miss Langworthy is a graduate of the Bennett school in Millbrook, N. Y., and has studied sculpture with Archipenko in New York and with Grisellí in Florence, Italy. Mr. Smith, a Culver graduate, later attended the Massachusetts School of Technology.

MARIMBA-CELESTE OFFERS NOVELTY AT ORCHESTRA HALL

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Something out of the usual in concert instruments was heard in Orchestra hall last night, when a recital upon the marimba-celeste was given by Clair Robbins Musser, who accepts billing as the world's greatest percussion artist. He was assisted by an orchestra drawn from the Chicago Symphony and conducted by Edward Collins, also Annabel Robbins, pianist.

Miss Robbins was the first to appear, an artist technically efficient to the point of brilliancy, in études by MacDowell and Moszkowski and a waltz by Conductor Collins. Then came Mr. Musser, accompanied first by the orchestra, then by Miss Robbins, in a series of varied works.

The marimba-celeste is a grown-up though younger sister of the marimba, with added pedals, resonators, and various devices for varying the tone of the instrument. Apparently its greatest need at present is music written especially for it. What was played by Mr. Musser is subject to the limitations of all transcriptions. Sometimes the change from one instrument to another goes well, at others it shows plainly that the composer had the first instrument in mind when he did his composing.

He played the "Mignon" overture, several works by Chopin (written for piano), a pleasant piece by Victor Staub, and the Weber-Liszt Polonaise Brillante, also a solo intended originally for piano. He did not include the "William Tell" overture, but that is a work intended for soloists of the undeveloped marimba. Both marimba and marimba-celeste are instruments which, with their variety of hammers, as well as the improvements on this one, give a chance for variety of tone, and, when played with the agile technic displayed by Mr. Musser, are capable of many legitimate musical effects. But either needs its own music.

Helen Byram and Don Burdick to Wed June 2 in New York

Invitations have just been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Byram of Chicago and New York, for the wedding of their daughter, Helen, to Don Burdick of Shanghai, China. The ceremony is to be performed on Monday, June 2, at the chantry of St. Thomas' church in New York.

Miss Byram is a graduate of the Masters' school at Dobbs Ferry, and of Mme. Payen's school in Paris. Following her graduation last spring, she made a trip around the world with her parents.

Mr. Burdick is a graduate of the University of Washington and has resided in China for several years. There he is connected with various maritime and banking interests. He is a member of the Shanghai polo team. A reception is to follow the wedding at the New York residence of the Byrams at 920 Fifth avenue, New York City. Mr. Burdick and his bride are to reside in Shanghai.

DON'T IGNORE WARNING SIGNALS

Headaches, Listlessness, Bad Breath, Backaches, Indigestion —Stop Them with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

This is a serious matter. You must conquer constipation! Stop it at once before its poisons get in their deadly work.

Nearly 90% of all sickness has its origin in irregular elimination. If you neglect the symptoms—constant fatigue, bad breath, headaches and coated tongue—you may be laying yourself open to permanent ill-health.

There's a natural, easy way to free yourself from this terrible scourge, once and forever. By eating regularly a delicious cereal—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Physicians recommend ALL-BRAN because its action is different from pills and drugs. Ordinary cathartics give only temporary relief, and are often habit-forming.

ALL-BRAN acts naturally, gently. Its roughage sweeps the system clean of poisonous wastes and impurities.

And ALL-BRAN is a great aid to health in other ways. It contains abundant iron which enriches the blood, builds strength and the glowing color of health. With milk or cream—or in fruit juices—it brings important vitamins to the diet.

You'll find the flavor of ALL-BRAN delightful. A crisp, ready-to-eat cereal, with a nut-like flavor.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to keep you free from both temporary and recurring constipation.

Ignoring constipation is like playing with dynamite. Start serving Kellogg's ALL-BRAN now. Sold by all grocers in the red-and-green package. It is served in restaurants, hotels and dining cars. Ask for it by name.

63% OF RUBBER GROWN IN MALAYA BOUGHT BY U. S.

And Then Is Sent Back as Tires on Automobiles.

The following story concerning the Malay peninsula has just been received from Mr. Dailey, who was assigned to make a survey of territories in the far east. Mr. Dailey is now in India.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SINGAPORE, April 8.—[By mail.]—Trade statistics are often very misleading, and the records for 1929 show that while the United States buys 42.7 per cent of the product of Malaya, equal in value for the year to $257,349,439, she ships in but 3.6 per cent of the peninsula's requirements, to the value of $18,062,212.

Yet the vast majority of motor cars and accessories are of American make. Of these, however, the Ford cars are assembled in Canada and come in under the head of British colonial products, while the General Motors company has an assembling plant in Java, and the cars of that company are entered as Javanese products.

Reveals American Astuteness.

It would require days of figuring to show really just what the net trade balance is. The situation shows, however, that Americans are experts in finding the cheapest way to market their products.

America's chief purchase is rubber, and about 63 per cent of the entire rubber output of Malaya last year went to the United States by five American lines of steamships. The round the world boats of the Dollar line lie over four days in Singapore to load rubber.

While the total exportation to America of crude rubber on last year's traffic amounted to 362,637 long tons, much of this came back in tires on completed cars. America also shipped to Malaya $1,093,597 worth of tires.

America bought also about half the tin output of Malaya and shipped back $296,793 in tin plate. America buys more than half her tin requirements in Malaya and the shipments for 1929 totalled 102,024 long tons. Copra and preserved pineapples are among the other chief items of American purchase in Malaya.

Malaya Has Free Trade.

Malaya is a free trade country and for that reason there is a vast reexportation from the port of Singapore to other islands in the East Indies. The same rule applies to the Strait Settlements. The revenues of the Settlements come from an export tax on rubber and tin. The only tariff on imports are on tobacco, opium, alcoholic liquors for local consumption, and on petroleum.

The government has an opium monopoly and controls all the smoking parlors under a licensed permit system. As the consumption of opium is great the revenues from this source run into a big item.

It is estimated that the population of Malaya is 4,250,000, this reckoning the nine Malay states and the Strait Settlements, in all covering an area about the size of the state of Illinois, having 56,602 square miles.

The population is composed of Chinese to the number of 1,775,000, about an equal number of Malays and about 650,000 Indians. This availability of the yellow and brown races makes the competition keen among them and wages are low as a result. There are 24,000 Europeans and 450 Americans. The latter are about equally devided between the missionaries and the business men.

The bulk of the retail business is in the hands of the Chinese who are clever marchants and also are in control of some of the larger industries. They have their own banks and do a great deal of their own importing, and this direct dealing by the Chinese is on a steady increase.

Annual importations of manufactured goods are valued at approximately $200,000,000. The National City, Hongkong and Shanghai and Chartered banks do a very large commercial business in this connection. Gasoline and fuel oil imports are the chief items of importation, each valued around $30,000,000 annually. Cotton piece goods are next in value, being placed at $21,930,000. Cigars, cigarets, manufactured and unmanufactured tobacco total about $20,000,000 annually.

Machinery is imported to the value of about $12,300,000 annually, of which $1,671,699 is from America. Wheat flour is imported to the extent of $3,917,270 in value on last year's figures, of which the value of $208,704 came from America.

Most Typewriters from U. S.

Of total iron and steel manufactures to the value of almost $17,000,000, slightly under a million came from the United States, and five-seventh of the typewriters are of American make. Fresh and dried American fruit to the value of $381,703 came in last year.

Automobile importations in 1929—chiefly American, of course—reached the value of $5,159,789, of which $1,582,367 worth came direct. Auto accessories totaled $1,518,192.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Whipping the Giants yesterday by 6 to 5 wove the champion Cubs into another of those plots that John McGraw and Frank Chance first made famous years ago. It came about because of a noisy, turbulent finish that had not only the proud New Yorkers but 32,000 spectators hanging dizzily on the ropes awaiting the final blow.

Going into the eighth there were indications that the title holders were going to surrender their winning streak and a chance to mount to first place. Hub Pruett, famous as the man who always fanned Babe Ruth, had them stopped with his dipping southpaw screw ball. Hub had them under his thumb, by a score of 5 to 3. Then came the mutiny.

Capt. Grimm gave the signal. Gabby Hartnett carried it on. Crippled Riggs Stephenson trudged out of the dugout as the pinch man who was destined to apply the tying blow. Then Hal Carlson, who had been on the brink of defeat, singled home the run that stretched the streak to eight games and put the champions in the lead of the pennant procession.

Wilson Fans, Then Rally Starts.

The decisive eighth started with the fumbling of the man who all afternoon had been the Giants' outstanding tormentor. It was Hack Wilson. With a double and two singles, he had figured in the three runs scored early in the game. But as leadoff man in the eighth Hack neglected to swing at a third strike.

Hack was no sooner in the dugout than the movement to suppress the Giants got under way. Grimm slashed a long fly to the left field corner and reached second. Bell grounded to Jackson and a throw to Lindstrom nipped Grimm between the bases.

Hartnett then shot a ripping two base driven down the left field line. It put Bell on third and completed the setting for Stephenson's entrance.

Stephenson Hits Double.

Boss McCarthy turned from the coacher's box toward the coop to muster his forces for the big moment. He told fleetfooted Dan Taylor to go to second to run for Gabby. He told Stephenson to go up and bat for Beck. He told Hornsby to pick up a bat and go up to where the succeeding hitter stands. The idea was to impress Pruett with the fact that if he walked Stephenson there would be a dangerous man batting for Carlson.

Stephenson relieved Hornsby of the necessity of running on his lame heel. The Old Hoss of Alabama spurned a couple of pitches that were wide. Pruett thought he could make him go after a bad ball, but Stevie doesn't have that habit. The next pitch was better, and the pinch batter crashed into it for a double down the third base line, scoring Bell and D. Taylor with the tying runs. Then Carlson singled over first base, Stevie ran home with the winning run, and Heving was summoned to end the inning for Pruett.

Giants Fight Back.

The winning run didn't relieve the tension. The Giants didn't want to surrender. They had hit Carlson hard all afternoon, and they kept it up in the ninth. Lindstrom was the first man up. He rolled one to the side of the diamond and Carlson threw him out. Terry slashed a hit through short. When the dangerous Ott flied to right the situation eased up a bit. Crawford tightened it again with a hit to left. Then there was Jackson to be disposed of. He bounced to Carlson, and the performance closed.

Pat Malone will try to carry on the good work today, possibly with Genebach as an opponent.

The Cubs lost no time in the first inning letting Pruett know they were present for a definite purpose. After Carlson had given the Giants nothing but less than a double by Lindstrom, the home opener was inaugurated with English's two bagger down the right field line. Woody scored on a single

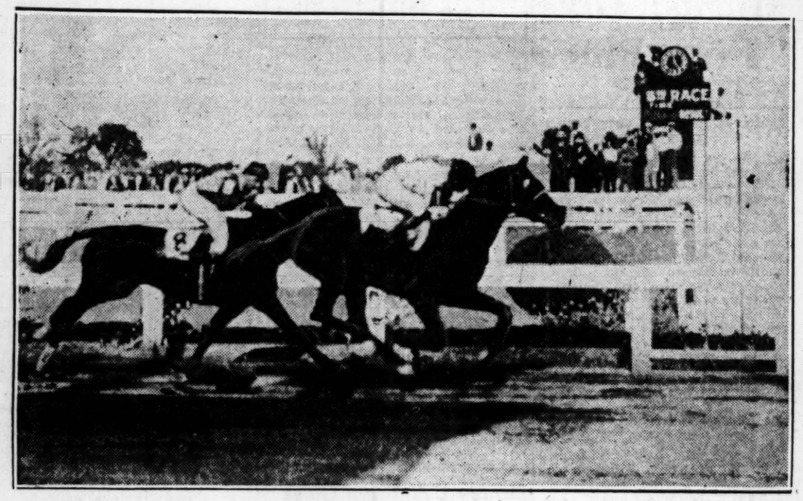
WHEN FAVORITE MADE GOOD



Earl Sande, America's most famous jockey, rode the first Preakness winner of his career yesterday, bringing the even money choice, Gallant Fox, home three-quarters of a length in front of Crack Brigade. Snowflake, coupled in the betting with Swinfield as the Salmon entry, was third. The race was worth $51,925 to William Woodward, Gallant Fox's owner. Sande will ride Gallant Fox in the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs a week from today. [Pacific and Atlantic Photo: Sent by phone.]

In the WAKE of the NEWS

ON THE SCENE.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 9.—Friend Arch: Well, Arch here we are on the scene and rarin' to go. That phone message you relayed, that it was all right for me to start last night, got delayed along the route somewhere, so I did not get it at home until 10 o'clock; but there still was plenty of time to make the midnight train, so Jack and I grabbed Jack and I grabbed a cab [Jack was at the house ready to start in case I heard from you] to the station. I suppose it'll be all right to charge the cab on the expense account, won't it? The fare was $3.85.

LORD DERBY.

I really think you used very good judgment in wanting me to come early, and if you keep on making decisions like that you ought to be very successful as a sporting editor.

We went out to the track to shake hands with Col. Winn, Dan O'Sullivan, Ernie Wiedekamp, and chat with Harry Lindenberger. If you ever come down, Arch, chat with Harry early because he's the busiest fellow around and he's also the fellow you have to see for tickets, photo badges, etc., when the rest of the staff come down. Some people think he's grouchy but I've always found him O. K. and who wouldn't be grouchy if they had to watchdog the treasury against all the pass mooochers. Another thing, if he likes you, Harry will cash a check after you've been misinformed as to the speed of several horses in a row.

Of course we're a little tired yet because the train arrives at 7 a. m. I don't know how that figures on daylight saving time or whether we lost or gained an hour's sleep except I know we didn't gain any sleep because 6:30 o'clock, as you know, is too early for a newspaper man to get up, daylight saving or any other time.

There's one thing worrying me a little. Perhaps you'll have a thought. I understand they are going to give a dinner for Lord Derby or Darby. Now not many newspaper fellows are to be there and I may not be invited. But if Col. Winn gives the dinner, he can hardly overlook me without getting me peeved and he wouldn't want to do that because I have been a turf booster for so many years.

So I thought I better look at my dinner coat. It's the first time I've looked at it since last winter because I work so hard for you, Arch, I don't have much time to use it. Well, the coat was all right, but while the suit was hanging in the closet some vicarious moths ate out the inside of the right leg. It's fortunate it's on the inside because if I stand with my feet together all the time the holes don't show much, but if I take a long step, I'm ruined.

Now, I could rent a suit here but I don't know whether I could get that in my expense account. Once when I was sporting editor we sent a chap to a prize fight and it turned so hot he had to buy a palm beach suit and he put $40 for "necessary clothing" on his expense account and the auciting department said the paper paid reporters a salary but didn't clothe them.

Of course, renting a dinner coat wouldn't cost anything like $40 but since the auditor questioned that $20 for "good will" in last year's Derby expenses, I don't want any trouble and if that $20 I spent wasn't good will, I don't know what good will is. I think you and I are going to get along fine on expense accounts, if you are an understanding fellow, but I don't want to make any mistakes. Of course, I may not be invited to Lord Derby's or Darby's dinner, but if I am, what do you think I better do, stand with my feet close together or rent a dinner suit.

Another thing, I haven't an evening hat but you don't wear hats at dinner anyway and I think that dove colored light felt hat I wear would look all right just going and coming, don't you?

Some of the Derby candidates are here, but the majority will arrive early next week. I'll start talking to them right away and will send you what they think of their chances. Otherwise everything's O. K. Regards to gang. Harvey T. Woodruff.

P. S. Everything's pretty expensive here but I won't spend any more than is absolutely necessary. Maybe those trousers would be all right after all.—H. T. W.

Rockne Leaves Hospital for Home; Walks to Train

Rochester, Minn., May 9.—(AP)—Bound for home and the Notre Dame practice fields on which spring drill has progressed without him, Knute Rockne left Rochester tonight. A month ago he came on a stretcher from Florida, but tonight he walked to the train, said he felt "great" and expressed pleasure that he would be back with his football squad at South Bend early next week.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—The Senators this afternoon gave a shower for our White Sox—a shower of fifteen base hits, which included homers by Sam Rice and Goose Goslin, triples by Sam West and Roy Spencer, two doubles by Joe Cronin, and one each by Lloyd Brown and Rice. In fact, at least one hit was made by every enemy for a total of thirty bases. The score was Washington, 14; Chicago, 3.

Today's spectacle was the sixth White Sox flop in the last seven starts and the long road trip now is reminiscent of the merry voyages during the managerial days of Collins, Schalk, and Blackburne. The Sox have three more games here and three coming up with the world champion Athletics. There are many who think that the trip will end a failure.

Totals Are Deceiving.

The totals other than the runs are most deceptive, for the Sox made 13 hits themselves and the Senators made two errors to the Chicagoans' one. But the hits, obviously, did not come at opportune moments and the one error, a high throw by Kamm on what should have been the third out

GALLANT FOX IS VICTOR IN RICH PREAKNESS RACE

Crack Brigade Runs 2d, Snowflake Third.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pimlico, Md., May 9.—For just a few seconds in the running of the Preakness out there on the Pimlico track this afternoon Gallant Fox with Earl Sande on his back, gave rise to serious doubts. The horse fell back after the first few strides, was running third as they passed the stands, and was tenth in a field of eleven as the pack swung around the first turn with a billow of brown dust rolling along behind them.

Then Gallant Fox began to move up. Off in the distance Sande's bowed back, with the red dotted white silks bellying in the breeze, could be seen going forward through the middle of the bunch. At the top of the homestretch Gallant Fox was back in the race again, fighting it out with Crack Brigade. With only a sixteenth of a mile to go, they were head and head.

Sande Uses Baton.

Then Sande's baton went up slowly and came down with a deliberate swat on the shiny flank of his steed. George Ellis, on Crack Brigade, brought down his baton, too, but Gallant Fox had more run in him than Crack Brigade, and he rolled over the line a winner by three-quarters of a length in the big race of the spring season in Maryland, with Snowflake third. Gallant Fox's time was 2:00 3-5.

William Woodward, the vice chairman of the Jockey club, the supergovernment of the horse racing business, won $51,925 as Sande brought his bay colt home and within fifteen minutes he announced that Gallant Fox would leave Sunday evening for Louisville to run in the Kentucky Derby, with Sande along to ride him.

This was the first time Sande won the Preakness. Last year, when he was trying to race some horses of his own, he rode a big, clumsy, grayish nag called Hermitage and finished last. Now he goes to run for his third winning in the Derby, and the speculative odds, the only gauge by which the probabilities can be judged, will indicate that Sande is on the point of winning the Derby for the third time.

Pays $4.00 to Win.

Gallant Fox, the favorite in the Preakness, notwithstanding reports that he had quit in some of his practice runs, paid $4.00 to win the mutuels, $4.30 to place, and $2.90 to show. Crack Brigade, a son of Light Brigade, one of Lord Derby's horses, paid $7.20 to place and $4.60 to show. Snowflake, a filly, owned by Walter Salmon, the New York real estate man, who had won the Preakness on three previous occasions, paid $3.70 to show. She was coupled in the betting with Swinfield.

Snowflake was half a dozen lengths behind Crack Brigade, and Michigan Boy, the fourth horse, was about a length and a half behind her. The rest by this time were not racing any more, but just going back to the barns after an interesting outing in the presence of a dusty, sticky, and bedraggled crowd of some 35,000 Marylanders and foreigners from Washington, Philadelphia, and New York.

Crack Brigade in Front.

The horses were at the post six minutes before they broke away for the Preakness and the time dragged so slowly that it seemed the steeds might be four year olds before they could get going. Twice Gallant Fox stepped out of his starting stall and Sande ducked his red cap under the elastic barrier. Armageddon, on the outside, backed out once and danced off to the rear.

Then the roar went up and the muffled drumming of the hoofs came out of the distance as the pack thundered by the stands. Sande's

NEW WELTER CHAMPION

Young Jack Thompson, San Francisco Negro boxer, became welterweight champion of the world last night by winning a fifteen round decision over Jackie Fields of Chicago at Detroit. Fields had previously beaten Thompson in two ten round fights, but Thompson came back last night and had the Chicagoan helpless in the thirteenth round.

McCarthy, McGraw to Watch Boys Vie for Prizes Today

BY ARCH WARD.

Thirty-eight years ago a clear eyed, rosy cheeked lad of 18 arrived in Baltimore and inquired where the Baltimore Orioles played ball. He was about 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighed 125 pounds. The club was faring badly and Manager Barnie welcomed the new prospect, even though he looked too young and fragile for a great ball player. The boy's name was John Joseph McGraw. They didn't know then that he was destined to become one of baseball's immortals.

Today this same McGraw, heavier and grayer, but the same old firebrand, steps onto Wrigley field to tell students in THE TRIBUNE baseball school a thing or two about his career on the diamond. By his side will be the man who probably stands between McGraw and his eleventh National league pennant, Joe McCarthy, manager of the Cubs.

Scan the list of National league managers and see if you can find a greater pair of instructors than McCarthy and McGraw. They are involved in the most important series of the season to date. Still they are willing to give part of their time to teach boys of Chicagoland what they must know to become successful ball players.

Four Star Player-Instructors.

In addition to two of the greatest leaders on the diamond THE TRIBUNE faculty today includes four of the most famous players in the major leagues. They are Hack Wilson and Kiki Cuyler of the Cubs and Fred Lindstrom and Melvin Ott of the Giants. All are great hitters and brilliant fielders.

If this array of professional talent isn't sufficient to interest you, perhaps you will get a kick out of a chance to win an outfielder's glove, a pair of baseball shoes or two balls autographed by Hack Wilson. These are the contests for which the awards will be given:

1. Batting for distance. The student who hits the longest drive will win the autographed balls.

2. Speed on bases. The lad who makes the fastest time circling the bases will be given a pair of shoes.

3. Accurate throwing. An outfielder's glove will go to the boy who makes the longest and most accurate throw from right field to the plate.

Class starts at 9:30 and students who want front row seats are urged to be there early. The enrollment has been growing each Saturday and today's attendance is certain to smash last week's record. Gates will be opened at 8:20.

Free Ticket for Admission.

Clip the free ticket out of today's TRIBUNE and present it at the turnstiles. It's the only requirement for admission. Boys too young to attend alone are invited to bring their fathers, mothers, or older brothers or friends. THE TRIBUNE wants every boy interested in baseball to have the opportunity to avail himself of instruction from the game's master teachers. There never has been a course like it. Baseball leaders throughout the country say it is one of the greatest stimulants the sport has had in years.

This is the last lesson at Wrigley field. The Cubs leave their home diamond next week-end, and THE TRIBUNE school will be shifted to Comiskey park, where Bill Cissell, White Sox second baseman, will be in charge of the class.

The final program on the north side, in addition to talks by McGraw and McCarthy, includes the following demonstrations: Outfielding by Cuyler, base running by Cuyler, and hitting by Wilson, Ott, and Lindstrom.

COLORED BOXER BEATS JACKIE IN FIFTEEN ROUNDS

Rallies in Seventh to Earn Decision.

BULLETIN.

Detroit, Mich., May 10 (Saturday).—(AP)—Jack Thompson, newly crowned welterweight champion, was taken to a hospital early today because of profuse bleeding of the eyes and nose, which started after his fight with Jackie Fields. The boxer's condition was said to be "temporarily serious."

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., May 9.—[Special.]—Young Jack Thompson, San Francisco Negro, is the new welterweight champion of the world.

Twice defeated in ten round battles by Jackie Fields of Chicago, the former champion, Thompson came back tonight in Olympia stadium to pound out the decision over Fields in 15 rounds. Fourteen thousand spectators many of whom had seen Fields win the title here last summer, when Joe Dundee fouled him in the second round, were present again tonight when Jackie passed it on.

Thompson's superior condition brought him the crown and the fortune which accompanies it. Defeated by Tommy Freeman a few weeks ago in the same ring which he left tonight as a champion, Thompson is the enigma of pugilism.

Beaten Twice by Fields.

Jimmy McLarnin defeated him. Before that Jackie Fields had jabbed and slashed his way to an easy victory in the Coliseum after which Jackie was named champion by the National Boxing association. And even prior to that, Fields had given the Negro a boxing lesson in San Francisco.

But tonight was another night, and Thompson was another fighter. He weathered the early rounds when Fields piled up an early lead, and then came back, jabbing and uppercutting in close until it seemed Fields must go down for the count.

In the thirteenth round Jackie stood defenseless. He scarcely landed a blow as Thompson battered away with both hands. Only a fighting heart kept the champion from falling. He staggered to the ropes, toppling sideways, then fell into Thompson's arms. Jackie held on with both hands.

Bell Saves Jackie.

The referee pulled the men apart but before Thompson could again close in the bell ended the round.

Thompson rushed at the start of the fourteenth round, determined to end the battle. He, too, was tired and his blows lacked the power that previously had carried through Field's defense. Then came the fifteenth.

Fields sensed he was fighting a losing battle, and he made a last effort worthy of a champion. Calling on unsuspected reserve, he pushed and shoved Thompson from side to side. Although he won the round, he couldn't offset the margin that Thompson already had piled up against him.

Tide Turns in Seventh.

The seventh round, when the tide swung to the challenger, was as dramatic as the finish. Up to this stage Fields held an easy advantage. Starting slowly in the first, Jackie had won the succeeding rounds, although some were close. His left jab had closed Thompson's right eye partially and the Negro peered carefully over his guard as Jackie danced around him.

But in the seventh Thompson shot in a series of rights to the jaw from in close. These short jolts sapped Fields' strength and his defeat was only a matter of time. Thompson's straight left opened a gash under Fields' right eye, evidence of the strength of the Negro's attack.

By the eleventh, Fields was through. Three times he fell into clinches, making no effort to carry on, despite the boos of the crowd.

Tonight Jack Thompson, rated a has-been and refused a match in Madison Square Garden with Fields, is the first Negro welterweight champion since the days of Joe Wolcott.

Henry and Walsh Given Rough Treatment.

in the second, was the break that blew the game out of the water, for three runs were chased across immediately and Chicago forthwith became a sick outfit.

The Sox stepped off to a two run lead in the first inning and hopes were entertained that Dutch Henry, National league castoff, would be able to do something with the margin. But it was only few minutes before Dutch was in arrears, 6 to 2. Walsh went in at the start of the third, but was no better than Henry and eventually surrendered in the seventh.

Three Sox Players Hit.

Two doubles and a single enabled the Sox to mark up their two runs in the first inning.

But the two run margin did not survive the inning. Loepp popped to Smith, but Rice walked and went to third on Goslin's single through the box. Myer popped a Texas leaguer back of second, Rice scoring and Goslin stopping at second. Goslin and Myer staged a double steal, a success because Riddle's throw to Kamm was too high for Bill to tag Goslin. Cronin singled to center, scoring Goslin and Myer.

Rice Cleans the Bases.

The record of the Senators' second is most depressing. Kamm threw out Bluege and Spencer, but Brown got credit for a double when Moore overran his fly to left. Loepp grounded to Kass, but Bill threw high to first, so Brown was on third and Loepp on first with still another putout to be made. Rice then smacked a homer to center, Brown and Loepp scoring ahead of him.

Henry did not emerge from the dugout in the third. Walsh took over the pitching. He got through the third, but in the fourth the Senators touched him for four hits and four runs.

The White Sox made believe they were in the ball game for a while in the sixth and piled up a total of one run.

The Senators got a run around in the eighth without the aid of a hit.

PAT MALONE IS FREED BY COURT; PAYS CAFE BILL

Pat Malone, speedball ace of the Chicago Cubs, worked himself out of a tight place in the South State street court yesterday when arraigned before Judge Joseph L. McCarthy on charges of disorderly conduct and attempting to defraud an inn keeper. Malone was released after he paid a bill of $35.40, which Herman Griffin, manager of the Frolics café, 18 East 22d street, claimed he refused to pay Thursday night.

State's Attorney Russell Root assured Judge McCarthy that the disagreement over the check was merely a misunderstanding. Malone and the judge retired into the latter's chambers and, after posing for photographers, the pitcher was released.

At the time of his arrest the police said Malone had called for the check for a party of friends whom he entertained at the café, but refused to pay when it was delivered to him, remarking that he was not accustomed to paying for his entertainment.

Irish Wins by 8 Lengths on Aurora Track

BY FRENCH LANE.

The lads whose bankrolls were thinned last Wednesday at Aurora when Irish was disqualified after he led Salona to the wire got it all back at a good, healthy rate of interest in the feature number yesterday.

The same Irish, a fleet running 4 year old son of The Finn-Ohone, came back and made good for them. He ran so fast he was leading a field of good sprinters to the line of finish by eight lengths when it came time to hang out the numbers at the end of a five and a half furlong struggle.

Result Never in Doubt.

Irish never left the result in doubt. Neither did he interfere with any other starters. He was too far in front of them most of the way to cause any interference. He was ridden by Jockey R. Ayraud, who kept him running straight and true as he thundered down the stretch.

Backbone, a famous handicap star of a few years ago, finished second, and Peter Ruff wound up third. There had been a last minute plunge on Old Kickapoo, but Irish carried him along so fast in the first two furlongs Old Kickapoo quit before the stretch run was under way.

Chicago Man Owns Irish.

It was little more than a cakewalk for Irish, owned by William Schmidt, a Chicago undertaker, who picked the good runner up in New York a few weeks ago at a small price. In the mutuel betting he paid $9.82 to win, $6.10 to place, and $4.62 to show. Backbone was at $9.12 to place and $6.64 to show, while Peter Ruff paid $3.82 to show.

The time was 1:06 1-5, within a second of the track record. Charley Irwin, the Wyoming cowboy, furnished most of the fireworks. Old Charley takes up about half the grand stand when he plants his 395 pounds on three chairs in the center of the stand. He saddled Kit Carson for the second race and watched Old Kit step out and score handily from a cheap band at odds of 15 to 1. In the third race Charley wobbled down to the paddock and put the saddle on Miss Joan. She hugged the rail on the turn into the stretch, while most of the others in the field of twelve went wide, and galloped on to win by a good wide margin. Jockey Willie Moran booted both winners home and was the star of the program.

Old Charley made one more move during the afternoon. He claimed House Boy, the beaten favorite in the fifth race, from Ben Rosenheim of Chicago. The price was $2,000.

by Heathcote, who went to second on the return throw. The Mighty Hack doubled to left, Heathcote scoring.

Three runs hung up by the Giants in the second round were not tainted in the least, three doubles and a single being mingled in the attack.

All the Cubs were able to harvest from three hits and an error in the third was a run that tied the argument at 3 and 3.

It was Pruett's bat that let the Giants go into a 4 to 3 lead in the fourth. Reese put the running under way with a single to right and O'Farrell's infield out moved him to second. Pruett hoisted a long fly to left and it came down close to the foul line for a double, Reese scorign.

Triple Scores Giant Run.

There was only one Giant hit in the fifth, but it served its purpose to the extent of the last New York run, making the count 5 and 3.

The Cubs ignored a great opportunity in the fifth. With one out Cuyler walked and raced to third on Wilson's third straight hit. The best Capt. Grimm could think of was a pop foul to Terry. Bell then slammed one hard enough, but Lindstrom plucked it on the bounce with his gloved hand and tossed to Crawford for a force at second.

NOVICE LEARNS TO TAKE IT EASY IN SPOON SWING

Rich Does First 9 Holes in 61.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Howard Rich, one of THE TRIBUNE'S novice golfers, has played his first game of golf, after three lessons in learning how to hit the ball, and he was quite chipper about it when he finished. He went around nine holes at Jackson park in 61 shots, including three "whiffs," but he was second low in the foursome and the other three had been playing three years. He made the last hole in four, which was a bit of a triumph in itself.

Alec Cunningham, professional at North Shore, gave the lad his fourth lesson on the spoon. "Bend your knees a little bit and stand easily," Cunningham told Howard, "but don't worry about your knee action in the swing. If the swing is right the knees will take care of themselves."

Use Your Hands.

Having Howard swing the club, Cunningham told him to use his hands to get the club to top of the swing, not to try to lift it with his shoulders. "Carry a mental picture of where your hands should be at the top of the swing and at the finish. Forget the club and get your hands into those two correct positions, regardless of how they get there. If you start right and finish right you can't be far wrong."

Cunningham taught him to swing the club back with the arms extended instead of picking it up. "The bigger the arc the more power in the shot," the professional said. "Keep your hands working together; golf is a two handed game and both hands must travel together.

Relax and Enjoy Swing.

"Don't work so hard at it," he added a moment later as Howard swung savagely at the ball. "The club only weighs a few ounces, so be natural. Don't grit your teeth and tighten your muscles, relax and enjoy swinging the club."

After the lesson in playing the spoon Cunningham told the boy he was not going to try to teach him to putt, but that he must learn it by himself. "No one can teach a putting stroke," Cunningham said. "The teacher only can develop it after the student has found the easiest way to get the ball into the hole." So Howard will practice putting alone until he finds by trial and error the easiest way for him.

Indiana Principals Favor Prep Tournaments, 26 to 24

Indiana was the first of the seven states in the Western conference territory to prohibit its high school teams from competing in Stagg's interscholastic basketball tournament. Notwithstanding this established policy, the first returns from the Hoosier state on THE TRIBUNE'S questionnaire show 26 principals favor invitational meets, while 24 are against.

The first returns from 693 ballots mailed to Michigan high schools give 24 for and 24 against the meets.

Favor State Meet.

Many Indiana principals believe the annual state tournament should climax the basketball season. The state finals include 16 teams and the winner plays four times in two days before a nerve wracking throng of 15,000 which annually gathers in Indianapolis. This seems to be the basis of argument for those who would abolish invitational meets. They are in accord with the action of the Federation of State High School Associations.

Indiana limits each player to twenty games during the regular season, exclusive of state tournament play, which begins with the districts, advances to the regionals, and then to the finals. Neither does Indiana have the plethora of invitational meets conducted by the smaller colleges.

Hoosier fans have maintained any one of a score of Indiana quintets could win the national tournament. They point to 1920, when Crawfordsville and Wingate, barred from the state association, entered Stagg's meet and played the championship game.

Many of the principals make an exception of Stagg's interscholastic track and field meet. This has always received Indiana patronage.

Famous Schools Oppose It.

The list of schools opposed to invitational meets includes many famed in basketball history. Franklin, which produced three successive championship teams, is opposed. So are Greencastle, Logansport, Washington (1930 state champion), Shortridge and Washington of Indianapolis, Goshen, Crawfordsville, one Fort Wayne school, and two in Gary.

On the other side are Hartford City, Anderson, Hammond, Marion (the home of Stretch Murphy of Purdue), Greensburg, Martinsville, South Bend, Attica, Greenfield, Mount Vernon, New Albany, and two of the Terre Haute schools.

The Wabash valley schools in the vicinity of Terre Haute hold an annual tournament for Indiana and Illinois schools, which may have influenced the votes in that territory.

The arguments advanced by both camps are similar to those in Illinois.

"There is some danger of overdoing contests," a principal from central Indiana writes. "The winning of the game becomes the all absorbing thing in the pupil's mind. He may lose sight of the main purpose of the high school, which is to give an all round development. This depends largely on the coach.

Don't Consider Stagg Meet.

"However, we do not consider the annual Stagg field meet in this class because, unlike football and basketball, it is necessary for us to go out of the state to get enough competition. We try to keep our boys on an even keel in regard to contests."

Another principal voices the same idea. "Unless there is a general ruling regarding the number of invitational meets a school may enter there is liable to be an overindulgence. Colleges, also, may overdo in an attempt to promote their own interests."

Principal Guy Stoutz of Gerstmeyer Technical High school, Terre Haute, thinks high schools should conduct their own tournaments where they have the facilities. He adds: "I believe, however, that big meets, like Stagg's, are still good affairs because no high school is large enough to sponsor such a meet. Colleges did high schools a big service by conducting meets, but now most of the schools in our state have adequate equipment to hold their own meets."

Although he votes against invitational tournaments, Principal D. F. R. Rice of Ironwood, Mich., says: "I would favor invitational meets if all schools were as ethical as the University of Chicago."

The larger high schools in Michigan are opposed, while the smaller schools are voting in favor. Included in the proponents are the Arthur Hill Trade school of Saginaw and one Battle Creek school.

The list against includes four Grand Rapids high schools, Benton Harbor, Niles, Central High of Lansing, one Saginaw school, Flint, and Ann Arbor.

The vote is nearly completed in Kentucky. Partial returns have been received from Iowa, Wisconsin, and Kansas. These will be announced tomorrow with latest reports from Illinois, Michigan, and Indiana.

Robins' Rallies Beat Pirates in First Game, 7 to 4

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 9.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Robins outrallied the Pirates in the last two innings today to win the opening game of the series, 7 to 4. Bill Clark and Jess Petty waged a mound duel for the first seven frames, with Brooklyn holding a 2 to 0 lead after the sixth. Score:

Brooklyn broke through for two runs in the sixth and drove Petty from the mound with four more in the eighth. The Pirates equaled the rally in the same inning as Clark weakened for the first time, but could not score again, while Johnny Frederick added a home run to Brooklyn's total.

Red Sox Win Opener from Browns, 5-2

Boston, Mass., May 9.—(AP)—Danny MacFayden, Boston's bespectacled pitcher, held the St. Louis Browns to six hits here today and the Red Sox won the first game of the series from the westerners, 5 to 2. One of the hits off MacFayden was a homer by Manion over the left field fence in the sixth. It was the third win in a row for the Bostonians.

Sweeney of the Sox knocked the ball over the left field barrier in the sixth inning with two men on and backed up this feat by good work in the field.

Tom Oliver continued merrily on his hitting streak by getting two singles to make it 18 consecutive games in which he has hit. Score:

New York Millionaires Go to Nihleen

"Though a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."
Ralph Waldo Emerson

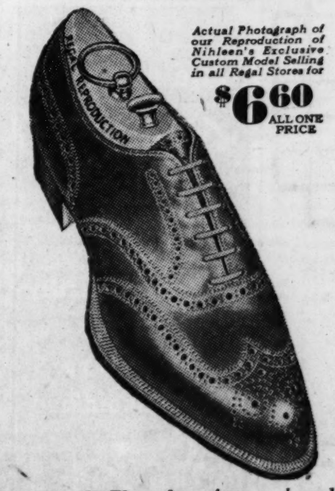
COMPARE



Actual Photograph of our Reproduction of Nihleen's Exclusive Custom Model Selling in all Regal Stores for $6.60 ALL ONE PRICE

NOW as far as we know, Anton Nihleen never wrote a book, preached a sermon, or made a mouse-trap, but a good many New York Millionaires have beaten a path to the door of his little shop at 30 West 47th Street, because they think he is the greatest shoe maker in the world.

We went to Nihleen because it is our policy to Reproduce the best Styles made by the best bootmakers in the World.

We paid $50 for the Original, and if you can afford the luxury of owning a $50 pair of hand made shoes, we think they are worth the price. But there are a million of us who can't afford to pay the millionaire's price, who would like to know where they can get an exact Style Reproduction of Nihleen's millionaire's model for $6.60.

The distinctive features of Nihleen's new model are a narrow receding custom toe, with broad comfortable tread, swagger swing extension sole, and a new high heel.

The Upper Leather in the Original is Gallun's Bark Tanned Calfskin and in the Regal Reproduction we are using this same tannage.

Our Volume makes this Value possible. We make about 1,000 pairs to Nihleen's 1 pair—and every pair looks like Nihleen's Original.

P. S. Three days after we showed this famous Nihleen Model we sold every shoe in our Stores. We duplicated the first order and placed a third order to supply all stores. Express shipments from our Factory by truck and train have just been received.

MICHIGAN WINS IN RADIO FIGHT; GETS A CHANNEL

U. S. Grants State Police a Station Permit.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—Receding in the face of an ultimatum from Gov. Fred W. Green of Michigan, the federal radio commission today not only issued a permit authorizing the construction of a state police radio station to operate with 5,000 watts power in the daytime and 1,000 watts at night but also allotted a specially cleared channel for the station.

The commission's action ends a controversy begun several weeks ago when plans for the new station to be located at Lansing, Mich., the capital, were announced. The commission promptly declared it was formulating rules and regulations for the operation of police radio stations and among them was a provision that such facilities should be "municipally operated."

Michigan Witnesses Heard.

The latter provision generally was interpreted to bar state operation but Gov. Green, when his legal advisers held that the provision might be construed to authorize operation by the state, declared the state would proceed with its station and challenged the commission to halt the construction.

Hearings already had been set for the latter part of May by the commission but they were advanced and Attorney General W. M. Brucker, and a delegation of state police officials, as well as William P. Rutledge, former police commissioner of Detroit, a pioneer in the use of police radio, appeared to testify.

"The question now is," declared Rutledge, summing up for the Michigan delegation, "who is to have precedence in radio—the soap sellers and the tooth paste manufacturers, or officers of the law trying to wipe out crime."

A Midchannel Selected.

In order to allow the Michigan state police a place in the air, the commission's engineers selected a midchannel between maritime wave lengths and those assigned to geophysical concerns engaged in exploring for minerals by radio, and the result was that the short wave of 1662 kilocycles was set aside for the new station.

The station, it is expected, will be able to cover the entire state with the possible exception of remote sections of the upper peninsula and because of its exclusive channel will be able to operate without interference from other municipal police services which share other short waves.

Speak English on the Radio, Is Listener's Plea

Decries Pronunciations in Foreign Tongues.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Pat Barnes, W-G-N, 8 to 8:30, plunged into the controversial subject of the life and works of Richard Wagner last night and so far as I could determine created the best program of the evening.

As to the pronunciation of the composer's name, Mr. Barnes said at the start that "we will be American and call it Wagner" (therefore not Vaghner). Mr. Barnes referred incidentally to the fact that we pronounced Beethoven as Ba-to-ven (accent on first syllable) and Mozart as Motzart. My own up-to-date American dictionary gives "Mozart" as the preferable pronunciation.

Now, Americanization of all foreign names and the English translation of titles of compositions should be a goal in radio. Station WFAA, Dallas, has recently announced that hereafter a reasonable application of English titles over their station is to be enforced.

The sooner this sensible principle is applied to broadcasting the better it will be for the progress and popularity of radio.

The concert by the U. S. Army band, from Washington, D. C., through WMAQ, 7:30 to 8, had a solidarity and sonority of tone that seemed to come in like a complementary color to the dominating presence of orchestral programs. The playing of Dvorak's "Humoresque" was charming and, for the moment, took this work out of the over familiar class.

In an excellent orchestral program from W-G-N, 9 to 10, the solos by Gloria Haynes, soprano, were enjoyable. There is youth and charm in this singer's voice. Devotees of the dance had the W-G-N 8:30 to 9 period all to themselves. Jean Goldkette and his band provided the music.

I tried hard but failed to get interested in a new program from New York featuring Godfrey Ludlow, violinist, through WIBO, 10 to 10:30. Mr. Ludlow was given little or no opportunity to display his talent.

PROSECUTOR'S AID DISCHARGED IN WILL COUNTY

State's Attorney Hjalmar Rehm of Will county yesterday discharged one of his assistants, Frank Drummond, who, it was charged, rented his farm near Braidwood with the understanding that a still was to be operated on the premises.

The evidence on which the state's attorney acted consisted of an affidavit made by John Tezak, alleged bootlegger, who set forth that he paid Drummond $200 a month for the use of the farm. No evidence of a still was found when the farm was raided, but Tezak alleged he had been informed of the projected raid in time to remove the apparatus.

Drummond said he referred three men who wanted to rent his farm to W. L. Meyers, who already had rented it. They returned, he said, and paid him $400 for two months' rent for the barn. Drummond said he had an understanding with Meyers as to renting the barn, and that he thought the men intended to use it for stock raising.

S. S. McKenny, Employe of The Tribune, Is Buried

"Colonel" S. S. McKenny, guardian of the doors of THE TRIBUNE'S local room for the last twelve years, was buried in Oakwoods cemetery yesterday following services at Christ Episcopal church, 65th street and Woodlawn avenue. He died Tuesday at the age of 83 after an illness of almost a year. Six of his associates at THE TRIBUNE acted as pallbearers.

REVEAL RECORD OF 'RIDE' VICTIM; HUNT WOMAN

Data on the life of Harry Anthony, whose body was found here Wednesday morning with thirteen bullets in the head and chest, was furnished yesterday by police of Toledo, O., where he had lived until five weeks ago. The information indicated that Anthony was a racketeer and may have been killed because of it, although police saw possibilities of a woman, who is being hunted, as the cause of the killing.

Anthony was known in Toledo under many aliases, Frank Fisher, Frank Frisher, A. J. Woods, Herbert Anthony, Harry Martin, Aubrey J. Bryant, Clyde Anthony, Robert J. Woods, and Harry Samuel Martin, according to Toledo records.

A year ago, Toledo authorities declared, Anthony was a doorman for Jimmy Hayes at the Jovel club, where a dice game was in progress. He wore a star and used it in seizing slot machines in stores and bringing them to Hayes, the police of Toledo asserted.

It was because of that information that Lieut. John Treacy thought Anthony might have tried to "muscle in" on gambling or beer hustling here. Anthony's wife, who identified his body, said he left her five weeks ago to come to Chicago.

HOPE FOR ACTION ON SEAWAY DIM, GOVERNOR SAYS

Returning yesterday from Washington, where he had talked with President Hoover and Vice President Curtis in addition to members of the Illinois delegation in congress, Gov. Louis L. Emmerson admitted he was discouraged about the outlook for the federal appropriation for the Illinois waterway.

"I was told," he said, "that there is little likelihood of action at this session on the rivers and harbors bill, which includes our appropriation. Apparently the only major legislation that will be passed before adjournment about June 10 will be the tariff bill and the naval pact. That would mean that we should have to wait until the short session which opens in December."

Reports from Washington have indicated that Senator Vandenberg of Michigan and other opponents of the Illinois improvement have lined up with the opposition to the New York state route for the St. Lawrence waterway.

W. A. Sauer Appointed to Chicago Plan Commission

William A. Sauer, vice president of the Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company and vice president of the Midland Utilities company, was named yesterday by Mayor Thompson as a member of the Chicago Plan commission. Mr. Sauer, who is 50 years old, was born in Chicago.

FIREMEN BREAK RECORD IN FIRE FIGHTING TEST

Firemen of Engine company No. 4 broke the record for speed yesterday in getting their equipment out of the fire house and connecting 250 feet of hose to a fire hydrant in a test which was a part of the survey of the fire department being conducted by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. Members of the company performed the required actions in 29 seconds, lowering by two seconds the previous record of 31 seconds established by Engine company No. 21.

The test started with the firemen gathered in their living quarters in the fire station at 1240 North Halsted street. At the clang of the gong they slid down the brass rail and ran the fire engine to a distance of 300 feet from the station, then connected 250 feet of hose to a fire hydrant, started their pumps, and had water at the nozzle of the hose 29 seconds after the gong sounded.

Capt. George Sweeney of the company was complimented by Chief Fire Marshal Corrigan for the showing of his men, which fire officials do not believe will be bettered by other companies. The other members of the company crew are Engineer William Milke and Firemen George Ulrich, Ernest Braile, Charles Makin, and Peter Weilheim.

Seeks Divorce from Kin of Early Chicago Mayor

De Witt Clinton Cregier, grandson of an early mayor of Chicago, De Witt C. Cregier, was sued for divorce in the Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Margaret Cregier. Mr. Cregier is the son of the late De Witt C. Cregier, former custodian of the police department. Mrs. Cregier is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Selferth. The Cregiers were married in 1925 and separated several months ago.

Milwaukee Road's Oldest Engineer Drops Dead at 83

William E. Salisbury, oldest engineer of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, dropped dead last evening while reading a newspaper at his home, 318 South street, Elgin. Salisbury was 83 years old, a native of McHenry county and an employé of the Milwaukee road for 61 years. Despite his advanced age he worked every day, driving a pusher locomotive over the hills around Elgin until a week ago, when he started a brief vacation in celebration of his 60th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Alice Wilson, Wife of Utility Official, Dies

Mrs. Alice Wilson, 128 Wildwood road, Lake Forest, died last night in a Milwaukee hospital following a long illness. She was 50 years old, a granddaughter of Col. S. V. Shipman, pioneer Chicago architect, and wife of Chester P. Wilson, assistant to the president of the Seaboard Public Service company, an Insull utility concern of Alexandria, Va. Her husband, a son, and a daughter survive. Funeral services will be held next Tuesday at Grace Episcopal church, Madison, Wis., with burial at Madison.

George A. Keller, Political Figure for 50 Years, Dead

George A. Keller, 70 years old, 2861 Warren avenue, a figure in Chicago political circles for half a century, died yesterday from the effects of exposure suffered on a motor trip five months ago. One leg was frozen and gangrene developed. Mr. Keller formerly was a construction engineer for the sanitary district and later a Municipal court clerk. He is survived by his widow, Genevieve. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock today at 2906 West Madison street, with burial in Oak Ridge cemetery.

CHURCH, HEAD OF OF U. S. PENSION BUREAU, IS DEAD

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(AP)—Earl D. Church, of Hartford, Conn., commissioner of pensions, died here at 8:05 o'clock tonight of cerebrospinal meningitis which developed Wednesday morning following an illness of several weeks.

Church became commissioner of pensions last May at the time Secretary of the Interior Wilbur announced the selection had been based on Church's extensive knowledge of insurance, together with his distinguished record in the ordnance department of the A. E. F. in the world war.

For his war services Church received the French croix de guerre and the American distinguished service medal.

He is survived by his widow.

Engineers Stake Out Site of World's Fair Building

World's Fair engineers staked out the site for the administration building yesterday. The building will be on the east side of the outer drive in Grant park, facing the Field museum and Soldiers' field. Daniel H. Burnham, secretary of the World's Fair, said that the contract for the building would be let the first part of next week when Rufus C. Dawes, president of the fair organization, returns to the city.

"Marrying J. P." Retains His Office at the Polls

Howard Kemp, marrying justice of Crown Point, Ind., saved his office from twenty-five candidates who sought the justiceship in the primary election on Tuesday. He won the nomination by a narrow margin. Kemp has been justice for eight years. The income of the office from fees is popularly reported as $50,000 annually.

HOLD BROTHER OF SLAYER ON 8 HOLDUP CHARGES

Lawrence [Red] O'Brien, brother of "Smiling Jack" O'Brien, hanged ten years ago for the murder of a policeman, was held yesterday for grand jury action by Municipal Judge John Lupe in the Grand Crossing court on eight robbery charges. His total bond was placed at $140,000. One of the several companions of O'Brien, who were captured with him in a raid led by Capt. Michael Grady upon a cottage at 167th street and Head avenue on May 6, was also held. Capt. Grady found in a garage at the cottage the roadster in which Edward Wolfe, auto salesman, was slain on April 11. The car was stolen from a south side garage after the murder.

Follow These Simple Rules

1—Every week-day for 48 consecutive days, (not including Sundays) the Chicago Daily Tribune will print a "Game of Counties" picture. Each picture will represent a County in one of these five States: Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin. You are invited to name the Counties.

2—The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly named and neatest complete sets of pictures in accordance with these rules. See prize list at right.
NOTE:—You do not necessarily have to name each of the 48 pictures correctly to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank the highest.

3—This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls, except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

4—Pictures are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do not send in each picture separately. Hold all pictures until you have the complete set of 48. Then send them to "Counties," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Ill. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Picture No. 48 has been printed.

5—Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Dept. Contestants may submit as many sets of pictures as they wish, but no contestant will be entitled to more than one prize. Accuracy will count. Neatness will count.

6—You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the pictures and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

7—Judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

STEEL LEADERS SIGHT BETTER TRADE AHEAD

Find Improvement This Quarter.

BY O. A. MATHER.

American industry is weathering a severe storm, but already the tempest is subsiding and fair weather appears to be in the offing. This is the consensus of leaders of the steel industry, who are about as hard-headed lot of business men as the country can boast. They gathered in New York yesterday for the semi-annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute and cast their weather eyes over their own situation, as well as general conditions.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB.

Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, was the spokesman. He is known as a confirmed optimist and made good his reputation. But he had the support of James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation; Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem; Tom L. Girdler, chairman and president of Republic Steel, and L. E. Block, chairman of Inland Steel.

"I am sure I voice the opinions of steel men generally when I say that, looking ahead, the prospects for the future of the steel industry are reassuring," Mr. Schwab said. "As to general business, from all indications the second quarter will be better than the first, with prospects good for a substantial volume of business in the second half of the year.

Cleaning Helped.

"In fact, business is a lot better today than it was six or nine months ago because of the inevitable house-cleaning which has taken place. In many lines there are signs that business in the latter half of the year will be at very satisfactory levels. All present indications are that 1930, in broad perspective, will prove a year of normal business. We cannot expect record years all the time.

"Industrial production is once more on an upward trend; employment, which happily was less seriously affected this time than in any business crisis in the past, is showing noticeable improvement; speeding up of public improvements will be helpful. But farsighted industrial management recognizes that in the long run, industry must rely for its recovery on normal conditions, not on outside aid."

Mr. Schwab asserted the steel industry is in sounder condition than ever, due to good management, and that the present rate of operations had always been regarded as satisfactory in the past and should be so regarded now. He defended mergers as a natural development in economic progress and promising benefit to both industry and the public, adding that "the most logical purpose of business expansion is to serve the public more effectively."

Grace Sees Upturn.

Mr. Grace said the low point in the steel industry has been passed and operations are around 75 per cent of capacity, although off a trifle.

"Prices have been a little weak but I believe this condition is about to end," he concluded. "There is reason to expect a gradual picking up in the industry—not right away, but after a little time."

Mr. Farrell said the steel business is "very good" and he concurred in Mr. Schwab's summary.

"Production of the country is not down to 79 or 80 per cent but up to that level," he added. "The building industry is good. Every fabricating plant has four to five months' work in its books."

But the optimistic note struck by the steel makers was hardly echoed in the weekly mercantile reviews appearing yesterday. While they were not pessimistic, they at least were cautious.

See Better Signs.

"It is possible to discern a number of encouraging signs and more wholesome aspects," Dun's review says, "but the favorable portents are qualified by phases of an opposite character. The immediate situation is one in which retarding forces are present in more than ordinary degree, hindering the movement toward recovery and delaying the broad advance which it is believed will ultimately develop."

"Retail trade in seasonable goods, especially light wearing apparel, has been helped by continued high temperatures, while the weather and fairly abundant rainfall has given an exceptionally good start to crops," Bradstreet's review says. "But reports as to primary distribution are rather less favorable."

Bank clearings this week are placed at $12,731,775,000, an increase of 4.9 per cent over a year ago. But business failures numbered 525, compared with 472 last week and 428 in the corresponding week last year.

Distribution Is Big Factor in the High Cost of Living

BY SCRUTATOR.

The high cost of living, as we know it in the United States today, is in large part the high cost of distribution.

Living costs are based on retail prices. These followed wholesale commodities upward, or even preceded them, from 1913 to 1920. Since then they have, on the whole, moved downward, but not so rapidly as the wholesale prices of materials in common use.

The International Institute of Statisticians has found that wholesale commodities at the end of last year were selling at an index of 138.3, using the price level of 1913 as 100. A new cost of living survey made for the United States by the national industrial conference board shows that the retail prices of all the common necessities and comforts of life were on an average of 161 in 1929, compared to a base index of 100 in July, 1914.

Cites Difference.

An answer to the difference in the two indexes lies in the fact that consumers do not, as a rule, consume commodities at wholesale. Neither do they live wholly on what are known as commodities in the charts. Rents, as an instance, depend only in part on the prices of the materials that go into building. The men who put up the house and transportation costs and taxes together are far more important in rent cost figuring than are the materials alone.

Rents, according to the conference board, were higher in 1924 than in any other year between 1914 and 1929, declined until about two years ago and have since been stationary. Of the other major items in the salaried or wage paid earner's budget, clothing is said in the survey to have had the greatest rise over 1914. Fuel and light have been going down in price since 1920. Food has been greatly cheapened in price since 1920, but is still higher, as compared to 1914, than most other items.

Most of the frills that add to the cost of living have been added in the fields of special service and in distribution, rather than in primary production. Canteloupes and strawberries are grown in the same old way. But the canteloupe and the strawberry get a ride in a truck and a refrigerator car on the way from California or Florida or other suitable climate to the out of season consumer in the north.

There is a wide spread between the farm price of cattle and the retail prices of steak and roast. The cutting of this spread can hardly be accomplished to any great extent in the packing house. It must be done mainly between the packer and the consumer's kitchen stove. Here laws like the consent decree of 1920 are a primary factor; they prevent the elimination of overhead, which would occur at least theoretically if the biggest packers were allowed to distribute other foods than meat and to run retail meat markets if they liked.

Nation of Specialists.

Perhaps the most cognent reason for the seemingly high cost of living, as compared to wholesale prices, is that so large a portion of the people who are paying the high costs are themselves making them. England was once described as a nation of shopkeepers. The United States is becoming more and more a nation of distributors and specialists. Workers are being attracted from mining, farming, and even factory work to other things.

Lowering the cost of living means lowering cost of distribution, and this, in turn, means the displacement of workers. Objections to monopoly or even great power in distribution are often dictated by the workers' or the small employers' fear of such displacement. This is cause enough to keep a stern fight going against feasible increases in distributive efficiency.

AMERICAN, BRITISH BANKERS GIVE JAPS $125,000,000 LOAN

TOKIO, May 9.—(AP)—It was learned here today that Juichi Tsushima, the government's finance commissioner, had concluded in London a contract with American and British bankers for a bond issue of approximately 250,000,000 yen [nearly $125,000,000] to convert Japan's 4 per cent sterling loan of 1899, which falls due in 1931.

The American share of the new issue will be $71,000,000 and the British share, 12,500,000 pounds sterling. The new issue will bear interest at 5½ per cent for a term of 35 years. With the issue price at 90 the actual yield will be 6.2 per cent.

J. P. Morgan & Co., the National City bank, and the First National Bank of New York are the American underwriters. The Westminster bank and the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking corporation will handle the British share.

There was some dissatisfaction in Tokio banking circles because Japan must pay more than 6 per cent on its government bonds, but other authorities pointed out that such terms were to be expected in view of Japan's economic depression.

RESERVE GROUP BANKS INVEST AND LEND LESS

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(AP)—Loans and investments of federal reserve member banks on March 27, aggregated $35,056,000,000, a decrease of $878,000,000 since Dec. 31, 1929, and also a decrease of $337,000,000 since March 27, 1929.

In a statement issued today by the federal reserve board, loans of member banks were said to have declined $1,031,000,000 during the first quarter of 1930 but increased $174,000,000 for the whole year. Investments showed an increase of $153,000,000 for the quarter and a decrease of $511,000,000 for the year.

Net demand deposits of all member banks of the federal reserve on March 27 were $18,489,000,000, a decrease of $1,308,000,000 for the quarter and a decrease of $345,000,000 for the year. Time deposits showed increases of $285,000,000 and $190,000,000 for the quarter and the year respectively.

Bill for Silver Embargo Is Proposed in Congress

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(AP)—An embargo on silver except that imported for processing and minting purposes, would be authorized under a bill introduced today by Representative Arentz, Republican, Nevada. Arentz said in the house that the rejection of a duty of 30 cents an ounce on silver in the tariff bill placed the responsibility of giving protection to the industry upon congress.

Six Apartments on North Francisco Change Hands

J. E. Lamb bought the six apartments at 6139-41 North Francisco avenue, lot 66x125, from Charles E. Gustavson and Gust Elster for a reported $62,000, subject to $32,000. He gave in part payment the two flats at 1424 Farragut avenue, lot 50x125, at a reported $22,000, the balance being in cash. The Lake View Real Estate exchange was broker.

Employes to Benefit from American T. & T. Rights

American Telephone and Telegraph "rights" will add approximately $1,000,000 to the pocketbooks of Chicago telephone makers, it was disclosed yesterday at the Western Electric Hawthorne works. During the ten years employés at this plant have been able to buy A. T. & T. stock by deductions from weekly pay. About 49,000 shares have been paid up. At the present time 27,000 people are subscribing for more than 164,000 shares.

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES STEADY; SALES DECLINE

Modine Mfg. Spurts 7 Points.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Scarcity of either buying or selling orders from the outside gave professionals a chance to push up their favorite issues on the Chicago exchange yesterday. The market as a whole was steady on a light turnover. Total sales for the day amounted to only 220,000 shares.

Issues benefiting from the professional support were Great Lakes Dredge, which spurted 15 points on light trade; United Gas, which gained nearly 4, and Lion Oil, which climbed 3 points to close at 27. Modine Manufacturing shot up 7 points in the last few minutes after hovering around 58½ during most of the session.

Houdaille Hershey "B" was actively traded in and moderately higher at the close. Prospects of a contract with the Ford Motor company for furnishing metal tire covers for Ford cars was discussed. Houdaille has just acquired the Lyon Metal Tire cover company of Detroit. Representatives of the Houdaille company are now in Detroit and it is reported that the closing of such a contract is near.

Market Leaders Dull.

The traditional market leaders were particularly dull. Middle West was steady slightly under 35 on greatly reduced sales volume. Grigsby-Grunow was about unchanged. Trading in Bendix and Borg Warner was small and prices showed little change.

Assurance that the present dividend rate of $3 annually will be maintained was given stockholders of the Roos Gear and Tool company in a letter from President E. A. Ross. Mr. Ross stated that the earnings of the company for the first quarter were $89,597, equivalent to 55 cents a share. Earnings in the first month were practically nothing, while February showed some improvement, and in March the company was able to make a creditable showing. Prospects for the second quarter are good, he said.

Customers Increase.

Albert E. Pierce, president of the Central Public Service corporation states that customers of the company have increased 29 per cent since the first. The company is now furnishing service to 471 communities.

Harnischfeger corporation reported sales for the first quarter of over 21 per cent greater than for the corresponding period last year. Earnings for the quarter covered all fixed charges, including preferred dividends, with a small balance available for the common stock.

Process corporation has purchased for cash consideration the N-Gravure Corporation of America, 141 South Wells street.

Arrangements have been completed for the sale of an exchange seat for $37,000, which is a gain of $1,000 over the previous sale.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Union Bag & Paper.

Union Bag and Paper has been well bought in recent market sessions. The reason for this probably is to be found in the sale of the company's power site to the Niagara-Hudson Power company. Profits from the deal will provide Union Bag and Paper with sufficient funds to pay off all of its bank loans and funded debt and increase its working capital besides.

Outside Following.

Speculators who have been disappointed over the action of Electric Bond and Share should not overlook the fact that this stock has a large outside following. Some of the selling has undoubtedly been to protect holdings on the stock exchange. Electric Bond and Share is a big favorite among operators active in American and Foreign Power and Electric Power and Light, two stocks which were hard hit by the recent break.

Marine-Midland Course.

Although Marine-Midland's market course has been uninteresting in the last few weeks, there has been evidence at times that good buying has been taking place on concessions. The stock received much better support during the recent break than it did during similar situations, both this year and last.

Probable Effect.

The statement by Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern Railway company, that dividends on the common stock of the company would be maintained cannot help but have a favorable effect on that issue. The question has been raised as to whether the dividend would be maintained this year-if, by chance, it were not earned. Mr. Harrison made it plain that an appropriation has been made for the full dividends scheduled to be declared throughout this year.

Continues Improvement.

The earnings improvement shown by Rainbow Luminous Products for the year ended Jan. 31 has been continued in the last few months, according to most recent advices. This probably accounts for the manner in which the stock has been able to resist selling. The corporation reported net income of $237,000 for the last fiscal year, or close to $1 a share on the A stock.

I. C. ORDERED TO ADJUST RATES IN RAIL-WATER ROW

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(AP)—The Illinois Central railroad was ordered today by the interstate commerce commission to establish joint rail-water rates via New Orleans in conjunction with the Luckenbach Gulf Steamship company, Inc., lines, on traffic to and from Los Angeles and San Francisco, with equal joint rates which the railroad now makes for like traffic moving over the Redwood Line, Inc., between gulf ports and the California coast.

The Luckenbach company complained that the railroad made the joint rates with the Redwood line covering the transportation of canned goods, iron and steel articles, tin plate and soap, but at the same time refused to extend like privileges, to Luckenbach ships.

The commission sustained the complaint, ordered the Illinois Central on or before July 28 to give the Luckenbach line rates and joint schedules on the inter-coastal shipments exactly equal to those allowed the Redwood.

Patino Mines Directors Pass Interim Dividend

Directors of Patino Mines and Enterprises Consolidated have passed the usual interim dividend of 4 shillings due at this time. Last year the dividend was paid.

Predicts New Millions Will Turn to Real Estate Market

BY AL CHASE.

Charles G. Edwards, president of the New York Real Estate Securities exchange, Inc., yesterday predicted that new millions will turn to real estate provided they can invest in small units, commensurate with their capital and not so tie up their funds that they can only get out again in a hurry at a great loss.

CHARLES G. EDWARDS.

This prediction was made in an address delivered at the Chicago Real Estate board rooms. Mr. Edwards told of the workings of the new exchange in New York for the purchase and sale of real estate securities.

"Just the minute that the real estate interests and the financing houses realize this public attitude and realize that the New York Real Estate Securities exchange offers them ready-made the means with which to meet it soundly and satisfactorily, I predict that we shall step across the threshold of a new era of real estate investing," he said.

Will Be Aid to Banker.

"It is almost beyond the imagination to say how profound the change may be, once it becomes the practice instead of the exception for a real estate issue to be openly and publicly dealt in.

"Heretofore real estate securities have been almost worthless as collateral. Why? Because the banker had no certain and swift means of finding out what they were worth and because he didn't want in the vaults frozen securities which would tie up his capital to the detriment of his own institution an dthe public he serves.

"Now, what is going to happen once our exchange is in full stride? The banker is going to find it just as simple to determine the value of a real estate security as to determine that of any other issue and he is going to have confidence in those values when they are established by a regulated public exchange of high character.

Predicts More Liberal Laws.

"The banker, like any one else, likes to broaden his market, so to speak, and he is going to be just as eager to accept real estate securities for collateral as any others, once he can handle them with the same ease and safety.

"Moreover, I have no doubt in the world that as the exchange grows and real estate securities gradually emerge from the category of frozen assets, there is going to be a liberalizing of the laws and the regulations covering the class of investment committed to various banks and fiduciaries, and I look to see the time when national banks, for example, will be enabled to participate in real estate financing much more largely and easily than they can under present restrictions."

BOOST GASOLINE PRICE IN GOTHAM TO TANK WAGONS

New York, May 9.—(AP)—Sinclair Consolidated Oil company and Standard Oil Company of New Jersey increased the tank wagon price of gasoline ½c a gal to 9c. The advance in the New York harbor area followed the advance by other companies recently, the current market ranging from 9c to 10c, with probably the great bulk moving at the lower quotation.

E. D. Levy, president of the Pierce Petroleum corporation, is in New York, and, according to unconfirmed reports in Wall street, announcement is expected soon of a merger of the Pierce organization with the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation.

Q. R. S. De Vry to Market Portable 'Talkie' Machine

The Cinetone, a talking picture machine for use in the home, schoolroom or factory, will soon be available at a moderate price, it was announced yesterday by H. A. De Vry, vice president of the Q. R. S.-De Vry corporation. Production of the apparatus is now underway, the announcement said. It is portable and can be carried handily in two suitcases. The marketing of the Cinetone will be followed with a small hand camera which may be connected with the sound recording mechanism, Mr. De Vry declared, adding that arrangements are being made with film producers for prints of talking pictures for home use.

National Dry Goods Retail Convention Opens Monday

Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, will deliver the formal address of welcome at the annual convention of the National Dry Goods Retail association, which convenes Monday at the Drake hotel for a four day session. A principal speaker will be Philip Le Boutillier, president of the association, whose address will relate to the decrease in the purchasing power of the consumer and its emphasis in department store tactics.

J. C. Allen of Mandel Brothers will speak before the traffic section Monday.

Drought Forces Closing of U. S. Plant in Mexico

New York, May 9.—(AP)—The American Smelting and Refining company has closed its plant at Matehuala, state of San Luis Potosi, in central Mexico, because of drought. It was said that unless conditions are immediately alleviated in the northern part of the state, the mines of the region will have to cease operation and the American Smelting company's plants at the city of San Luis Potosi also may have to shut down.

St. Joseph Lead Acquires Site for Zinc Smelter

New York, May 9.—(AP)—The St. Joseph Lead company, owner of mining properties in Missouri and in New York state, has acquired about 150 acres of land near Monaca, Pa., on which it will erect a zinc smelter costing between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000.

The plant will probably be ready for operation around the end of the year. The smelter will produce both zinc metal and zinc oxide, using the new electric thermic process of treating the ore.

Announce Terms of New Free State Loan Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, May 9.—The terms for the new Free State national loan will be published Saturday morning. The loan will amount to $30,000,000 at 93¼ and bearing 4½ per cent interest. There will be no redemption until 1950 but the sinking fund arrangements are liberal. The government will take one-sixth of the loan and the balance will be offered to private investors.

Appoint Receiver for Yellow Cab Corp. of Minn.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 9.—(AP)—A receiver has been appointed for the Yellow Cab corporation of Minnesota, at the request of the Crescent Oil company of Minneapolis, which claims the cab firm owes it $5,000. J. W. Buffington, Minneapolis, was named receiver. Assets of the corporation were given as $1,200,000 and liabilities at $275,000. The company operates cabs in Minneapolis and Duluth and a baggage service in Minneapolis.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE RULES ON SALES OF YOUNGSTOWN SHARES

New York, May 9.—[Special.]—What is regarded as a very unusual situation respecting a stock listed on the New York Stock exchange developed today in the case of the common shares of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company.

As a result of the stockholders' fight over the recently ratified plan of the Youngstown company to merge with the Bethlehem Steel corporation, the committee on securities of the exchange made a ruling that, starting today, common stock of that company shall be dealt in three distinct classes. Those three classes are stamped shares, shares stamped with black ink, and shares stamped with red ink. The committee at the same time advised members not to accept any delivery of unstamped stock except by transfer.

Unless otherwise specified, quotations and sales will be in unstamped stock, the committee ruled. Quotations and sales of "Youngstown stamped" stock will be considered to be in black stamped stock. In quotations and sales of red stamped stock particulars in regard to the stamp must be inclosed as part of the bid and offer.

The ruling of the committee follows receipt of notice from the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company that there are outstanding certificates representing common stock of the company in respect to which dissents have been filed from the sale of assets and merger with Bethlehem Steel corporation and on behalf of which demand has been made for "the fair cash value"; that certificates stamped as to such dissent are being issued and divided into two classes, representing varying demands of dissenting shareholders.

Leading Meat Lines Are in Fairly Broad Demand

"Leading meat lines again showed the effects of a fairly broad consuming demand, with offerings, for the most part, being absorbed at prices averaging steady," reports the weekly review of Armour & Co. on packing house trade conditions. "The market for pork loins showed somewhat stronger prices, while several other leading fresh pork cuts were steady to easier. Smoked meats again moved in satisfactory volume.

"With a large percentage of spring lambs of exceptional quality making up the receipts, the lamb business showed a fairly good clearance at prices that were just about steady. Veal was in fair demand, with prices, both alive and dressed, just about steady. Beef continued to sell rather slowly. Foreign business was fairly good."

Life Insurance Death Claims Total $64,800,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 9.—Approximately 111,800 death claims, totaling about $64,800,000, were paid during 1929 on life insurance policies which had been in force one year or less. This compares with 107,400 such payments aggregating $63,500,000 paid during the preceding year, according to a survey by the weekly Underwriter and Insurance Press. Three New York companies, the Metropolitan, the Equitable Life, and the Prudential reported they had paid 4,546 first year claims under group insurance contracts for $7,154,247, or an average policy of $1,573. It is estimated that in about 45 per cent of the claims settled under group plans there was no other insurance.

N. Y. Produce Exchange Has Cottonseed Oil Rules

New York, May 9.—(AP)—The New York Produce exchange has put into effect new rules governing trading in cottonseed oil. Transactions on the first call may now be for delivery in any month from November, next, to April, 1931, and a new month is added to the futures market at the end of each month of trading. The purpose of the new regulation is to standardize business. A contract for 60,000 pounds of loose oil is also established. Transactions will be permitted under the old rules for delivery up to and including December, but all bids and offers made under those rules must specify "old contract."

Construction Starts on Bryn Mawr Avenue Flats

Norman R. Petersen has the general contract for the erection of a three story English design apartment building, work on which has already started, on the north side of Bryn Mawr avenue, 108 feet west of Spaulding avenue. Mr. Petersen also was the sole broker in the sale. Ethel M. Dyke and Edwin J. Murphy were the sellers. Johnson & Johnson are the architects.

Week's Construction Contracts Increase

New York, May 9.—(AP)—Engineering News Record reports that heavy construction and engineering contracts let in the United States during the last week reached a total of $69,091,000, which compares with $63,625,000 in the preceding week and $107,287,000 in the corresponding week last year.

URGES INDUSTRY TO PUT SURPLUS INTO MORTGAGES

Manufacturers of basic building materials could stimulate building on a national scale if they could be persuaded to invest part of their surplus in first mortgages, according to W. Burke Harmon, president of the Harmon National Realty Trust.

"For more than a year mortgage money has been difficult to obtain on terms which builders could profitably pay," said Mr. Harmon yesterday. "As a result of this condition building operations have lagged, which of course has acted unfavorably on sales of such basic commodities as steel, cement, lumber, electrical fixtures and everything else that goes into construction.

"What is needed is for huge organizations like the U. S. Steel corporation to recognize the great economic advantage of investing part of their surplus money in first mortgages during times when mortgage money is scarce. Cement companies, electrical equipment companies, lumber companies and all producers of basic building materials should follow suit.

"The immediate result would be the ironing out of the depression in the building industries. Employment would pick up."

Universal Pipe & Radiator Applies for Added Listing

New York, May 9.—(AP)—Universal Pipe and Radiator company has applied to the New York stock exchange for listing of 30,000 additional common shares, bringing its total listing to 488,288 shares. Of the 30,000 shares 25,000 have been underwritten at $6 a share and the remaining 5,000 shares are under option to bankers extending not more than 60 days at prices averaging $10.63 to the company. The proceeds are to be used in paying off bank loans. Any balance is to be used as working capital and to anticipate maturities of bonds and mortgages of subsidiaries.

BY FRED HARVEY.

New York, May 9.—With little to encourage it beyond the unexpected $200,000,000 drop in the weekly loan figures, the stock market worked irregularly higher today. Utility, rail, and food shares claimed a major share of the interest. Here and there a favorite among them showed a gain of as much as 5 to 7 or 8 points. However, the bulk of changes amounted to only a point or so and a liberal sprinkling of issues of assorted description lost further ground.

Trading was at a listless pace all day, transactions falling off to 3,009,830 shares, the smallest turnover in months.

Steel shares were helped somewhat by the optimism expressed by the country's leading steel executives on the industry's outlook at the semi-annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute, but the predictions were not of a character to stimulate buying enthusiasm generally.

United States Steel Gains.

However, the development was made the occasion for a little better buying of steel stocks in the late trading. United States Steel came back to around 170, a net gain on the day of nearly 2 points, and other issues of the group improved noticeably.

The copper stocks took it easier, although Kennecott, Magma, and most of the others moved further ahead. Anaconda crossed 60, only to run into profit taking and closed showing a fractional loss. Nevada Copper, with a first quarterly statement showing only 46 cents a share earned on its stock as compared with 66 cents a share for the December quarter, was unable to participate in the improvement of the group. It lagged all day, and was off a point at the close.

Food stocks were in rather lively demand for a time, but slowed up. Buyers of these shares were evidently taking advantage of the prospects for increased earnings by the companies, owing to the cheapness of commodities. Some of the principal companies of the department, for instance, are buying sugar and cocoa at the lowest prices in history. In addition to this, their business is said to be improving steadily.

Utility shares accounted for some of the healthiest gains of the day, such favorites as American and Foreign Power, Electric Power and Light, Public Service of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas, American Telephone, and Standard Gas moving up from 1 to 3 points on impressive buying.

The rails had their best day in weeks, Atchison advancing 3½ points, New York Central 2⅞, Erie 2¼, Bangor and Aroostock 2 points, and various other issues of the group a point or so. The oils also got into the picture once more, with Phillips Petroleum, Houston, and several others enjoying fair demand.

The street heard that the annual report of Standard of New Jersey, which is expected to appear in advance of the annual stockholders' meeting next month, will show a balance for outstanding capital stock equal to something over $5 a share, as against the net equivalent of $4.43 a share reported for 1928.

American Tobacco.

The tobacco issues were given another whirl, American Tobacco advancing nearly 3 points and the B stock jumping nearly 10.

Announcement by Senator Couzens that an injunction suit against the Radio-General Electric-Westinghouse deal would be filed by the department of justice within a week did not carry much weight as a market factor. Radio displayed a distinctly firm tone in the face of these dispatches, with little or no nervous selling of consequence developing.

After all, the news did not come as any surprise. The Radio management had indicated at the time of its annual meeting earlier in the week that it expected full investigation of the situation, and apparently Wall street was prepared for news of that order.

Money on call ruled easy at 3 per cent, while further shading was reported in time funds, with bill dealers cutting rates on longer maturities ⅛ of 1 per cent.

REPORTS REVEAL WHAT COPPER PRODUCERS FACE

Andes and Chile Incomes for 1929 Shown.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 9.—Indications of the positions in which copper companies now find themselves due to the break in the retail price of the metal were given in reports from four copper producers released today. Two of the reports were for the first three months of this year and both show decreased earnings and increased production costs. The other two were annual reports for 1929, showing increased earnings.

Of the quarterly reports, one was from the Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting, and Power company, which showed an increase in production costs to 12.07 cents a pound in the first quarter of this year, compared with 9.97 cents a pound in the first three months of 1929. The other was that of the Nevada Consolidated Copper company, which showed an increase in production costs to 9.76 cents a pound in the first three months of this year, compared with 9.14 cents a pound in the last three months of 1929.

Granby Report.

The Granby Consolidated announced net income of $688,386 after charges, but before depreciation and depletion for the initial quarter of 1930. This was equal to $1.53 a share on 450,000 capital shares, against $940,364, or $2.09 a share, on the same share basis last year.

Net earnings of Nevada Consolidated for the first three months amounted to $2,224,425, after depreciation, but before depletion and federal taxes, indicative of 46 cents a share on 4,857,248 no par capital shares outstanding. This compared with $3,213,711, or 66 cents a share, in the final quarter of last year and $6,724,519, or $1.38 a share, in the initial period of that year.

Andes Earns $3.11.

The Andes Copper Mining company reported for 1929 net profit after charges, except depletion, of $11,153,845, equivalent to earnings of $3.11 a share on the 3,582,379 shares outstanding on Dec. 31, 1929. In 1928 the net profit was $3,933,721, equivalent to earnings of $1.10 a share on the 3,577,495 shares outstanding on Dec. 31, 1928.

The Chile Copper company reports for 1929 net profit after all charges, except depletion, of $21,821,832, equivalent to earnings of $4.94 on the 4,415,499 shares outstanding at the end of the year. In 1928 the net profit was $19,943,864, equivalent to $4.52 a share on the stock then outstanding. Production of copper in 1929 was 299,575,752 pounds, compared with 265,863,517 pounds in 1928.

CURB MARKET TRADING DULL; PRICES STEADY

Electric Bond and Share in 2½ Point Advance.

New York, May 9.—(AP)—The curb market closed firm today, with a wide assortment of utilities, industrials and specialties showing substantial gains, although trading was again at the low levels of early March, and price movements were hesitant and uncertain during much of the day. Total sales were only 809,300 shares.

Electric Bond and Share accounted for a substantial slice of the day's business, moving up 2½ points to 100 in active trading. The United Gas issues, American Light new and American Gas and Electric sold up 1 to 4 points. Niagara Hudson and gt. Regis new sold up slightly in fairly active trading in contrast to dullness elsewhere.

Moves Up Four.

Dresser Manufacturing B was a firm feature of the industrials, moving up nearly 4 points to a new high at 44. This issue, recently listed, has practically eclipsed the class A stock in trading, and has sold substantially above its recent over the counter quotations. Sponsors of the stock point out that the company is doing an unusual volume of business, owing to many gas line projects.

Another firm spot was Bellanca Aircraft, which mounted 3 points to 14, a new 1930 high. Fokker also moved ahead moderately. Deere was firm in sympathy with strength of the farm implements on the big board. In the amusements, Loew's warrants reached a new high in sympathy with the stock. An increased dividend is talked of. Technicolor sold up about 4 points, then encountered profit taking.

Oils Irregular.

Oils were highly irregular. Gulf lost 2 points, possibly reflecting the $3,000,000 fire at its Bayonne refinery, while Humble sold up a couple of points. Indiana was fairly active, moving up a point, then sagging. Cities Service gained fractionally. In the coppers, Newmont and Noranda were again in fair demand, reflecting the increased red metal buying.

Richard M. Johnson Buys House in Skokie Heights

S. Rogers Touhy was having sold the nine room residence at 1044 Eastwood road, Skokie Heights, Glencoe, for H. E. Jones to Richard M. Johnson for an undisclosed consideration. The property has a frontage of 218 feet.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

SLIGHT CHANGE IN SENTIMENT IS HELP TO WHEAT

Final Trades Show Gains of 1/4@3/4c.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A slight change in sentiment occurred in the wheat trade yesterday. Independent strength in the Liverpool market and less favorable crop reports from France and Italy, with intimations that a large export business had been put through, brought in a fair class of buying. With evening up for the government report, which was due after the close, prices averaged higher with final trades showing net gains of ¼@¾c. May was $1.01 and July, $1.01½@1.01⅝ at the last.

The pit element, while still mainly bearish, showed little disposition to press the selling side on the dips. In some quarters it was claimed that there was a sleeping short interest of large proportions that might cause a sharp up turn in values should anything develop to bring about a buying movement.

The general run of crop comments was favorable from North America, but France now needs dry weather, owing to excessive rains which have promoted rapid growth of weeds. A private estimate placed the Italian crop at 220,000,000 bu, or about 35,000,000 bu less than last year's harvest.

Speculative Trade Light.

Speculative interest in the wheat market was not large, and any good buying or selling caused erratic fluctuations. Liverpool gained ½@1d for the day, with millers buying contract wheat there. Little pressure was in evidence on the May delivery, which gained ¼d on the July. Winnipeg was ¼@⅜c higher in sympathy with American markets.

Persistent buying by houses with seaboard connections, presumably a reflection of export business, was understood to have been heavy. There was also a good business in hard winters and durums, but only 500,000 to 600,000 bu of all kinds of wheat were confirmed at New York. Buenos Aires closed ⅝c higher.

A Chicago house sold 100,000 bu No. 2 hard winter it had at Newport News at the best premium on the crop, and is understood to have disposed of around 500,000 bu it had at that port in the last few days. Local stocks are expected to show a heavy reduction for the week, as around 2,000,000 bu have been loaded out from elevators, part of which went to the Stabilization corporation on May contracts.

New Low on Corn.

Liquidation was on in corn, with all deliveries dropping to a new low for the season, May touching 77⅛c and the December, 77¾c. Support came mainly from shorts and holders of bids. There was a fair rally from the inside figures in sympathy with wheat, but the finish was ⅝@¾c lower with May, 78⅛c, and July, 78¾c. Some stop loss orders were caught on the way down. Favorable weather for field work, a slow cash demand and prospects of a large movement from the interior when planting is over had a depressing effect. Buenos Aires futures finished ⅜@⅝c lower.

Cash interests were again on the buying side of oats and the nearby delivery acted tight the greater part of the day. Commission houses sold all deliveries and the close was ⅛@¼c lower, May being 41⅛@41⅜c and July 40⅝c. An amendment to the rules of the exchange will be balloted upon on May 19 proposing to change the minimum quantity that ca nbe traded in for future delivery to 2,000 bu, equal to a carload.

Rye finished ⅝@⅞c higher as the result of spreading operations with Winnipeg. Open interest in the May delivery is very small, around 100,000 bu. May finished at 57⅞c, and July, 62¼c.

WOOL.

BOSTON, Mass., May 9.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston will say tomorrow:

"There is a broader movement in wool both at the seaboard markets and in the west. Demand locally is largely for the fine woods, with average to good French combing territory woools costing about 70@75c, and choice staple wools from 75c to 80c, clean basis, depending upon the lot.

"Purchases in the west which now are becoming fairly general are being made substantially on the basis at which wool is selling in Boston. The piece goods markets are still more or less in the doldrums. Foreign markets are steady and are waiting for London, which will have a fairly large offering of 143,000 bales. Mohair is slightly more active on the lower basis of prices.

"The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from Jan. 1 to May 8, inclusive, were 48,223,000 pounds, against 65,851,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from Jan. 1 to May 8, inclusive, were 71,652,000 pounds, against 78,735,885 pounds for the same period last year."

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, May 9.—(AP)—Raw sugar was quiet early today and, although no sales were reported, offerings of Cuban at last paid prices of 3.27c for spots. Duty paid were more liberal, with buyers showing little interest, and then only at 1-32c less, or 3.24c. No sales were reported. Futures weakened under increased bedge selling and renewed liquidation by tired longs. May declined to 1.39c, or 2 points below the previous close. The market at midday was still unsettled and within a point of the lowest and from 1 to 2 points below the previous close. Prices follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev close.
May	1.38	1.39	1.38	1.39	1.41
July	1.48	1.48	1.45	1.45	1.47
September	1.56	1.56	1.53	1.53	1.55
December	1.64	1.64	1.61	1.63	1.64
January	1.66	1.66	1.64	1.65	1.67
March	1.72	1.72	1.70	1.71	1.72

In refined withdrawals continue of fair proportions, but no new business was reported. The easier tone to the spot market, probably restricted fresh commitments. Prices were unchanged at 4.90c for fine granulated, with resales available at 4.70c.

Top yesterday, $10.75; average, $10.25.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 100 cattle, 8,000 hogs, and 5,000 sheep.

Demand for hogs yesterday was fairly active and with a moderate supply on hand prices strengthened 10c. There were 14,000 hogs on sale, of which 4,000 were shipped direct to packers from outside points.

The top of the market gained 5c, resting at $10.45, but heavy butchers showed most of the upturn, thus creating a narrower price range. Heavy butchers sold within 40c of the day's top price and only packing sows went to $9.50 or below.

The market generally was at the week's peak and less than 2,000 remained unsold at the close of the session. Only 8,000 were expected for the Saturday's trade. The general undertone of the trade was strong.

The hog futures market was rather slow, with bids on lightweights being weak. Heavy hogs, however, were strong and September medium weights sold at $10.15, with June heavies and July heavies at $10.00.

Cattle Scarce, Slow.

Demand for cattle was slow and the market weakened considerably despite the fact that there were only 1,000 cattle on sale yesterday. Lightweight yearlings, especially heifers, comprised the bulk of the day's receipts. They sold lower. Bids in some cases were so low that cattle were held off of the market.

Reports from the dressed beef trade were anything but favorable and buyers were out to break values. The general market closed at the season's lowest levels. Up to $13.50 was paid for a shipment of fancy yearling steers and heifers, but most sales ranged downward from $11.00c.

Cows and bulls also found slow sale, but calves held steady. A few extra choice heavy cows suitable for the kosher trade were quotable to $9.00 and $9.25, but most fat cows sold downward from $8.000. Veal calves were on a $9.50 to $10.50 basis for the most part, with fancy handy weight calves averaging 150 to 175 lbs going at $12.00.

Lambs Decline.

Friday's market on lambs was slow and prices were weak to 25c lower. While best wooled lambs were held at $11.25, few sold above $10.75, and a spread of $9.50 to $10.50 bought the bulk of all fat lambs.

A good sized shipment of California spring lambs sold at $11.50, averaging 74 lbs. Prices on California springers previously this week were around $12.50 mostly, but the quality of Friday's offerings was not so good.

Few fat ewes were on sale and the market was nominally steady. Best fat ewes were quotable to $6.00, with a spread of $4.75 to $6.00 taking the bulk. Common ewes on the cull order sold around $3.50 to $4.00.

Live stock receipts for today were estimated at 100 cattle, 8,000 hogs, and 5,000 sheep, compared with 318 cattle, 5,479 hogs, and 7,224 sheep a week ago.

BREAK IN COTTON PRICES

Pressure on the new crop futures was sufficiently heavy to make a lower range and force a decline, which at one time was around $1.00 a bale, and a rally at the close, with net losses on the most active futures of only 5 to 9 points, except for December, which closed higher at New Orleans and 3 points lower in Chicago.

Net losses on the old crop months were 3 to 10 points. Liverpool closed unchanged to 2 points net lower, with sales of 3,000 bales. There was nothing in the news to induce taking a pronounced position on either side. Reports from Texas regarding the crop prospects were less favorable.

Spot cotton was 5 points lower at 16.55c in New York, 15.70c in New Orleans, 15.85c at Galveston, and 15.70c at Houston. Prices follow:

FOR SALE.

53 acres of land on the west bank of the romantic Rio Grande del Norte, the opposite bank to the wonderful State Highway between Taos and Santa Fe, fifty miles from Santa Fe.

Besides having a frontage of nearly half a mile on the Rio Grande, which river is becoming more and more noted for its excellent trout fishing, the property is peculiarly beautiful and one of the most remarkable sites for a home that could possibly be imagined. Numerous springs emanate from the base of the 1,000 foot cliff that backs the property on the west and furnish more than an abundance of water for any extensive orchard or garden that might be desired.

It is so situated that neither early nor late frosts would endanger any fruit that is adaptable to this part of the country.

USED CARS AT WHOLESALE PRICES!

STUDEBAKER'S prices are so low that out-of-town dealers would find it profitable to purchase cars from us and then resell them at higher prices. If you want to make a substantial saving, investigate our values at once. Every used car is backed by the famous Studebaker Used Car Pledge, that guarantees 5 days' free driving trial.

BUICK VICTORIA. Late model 4 pass. coupe, 6 with new tires and hundreds of dollars' worth of extras. The finish is bright and shiny. Has a sweet running motor. Will not remain long at $595.

CHEVROLET PHAETON. One of the very latest Chev. Sixes that was actually driven only 4,738 mi. This is positively the best open car buy in Chicago. Every detail is still brand new and the equipment includes 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $385.

CHRYSLER ROYAL SEDAN. 1929 model 71 that sold for over $1,800 a few months ago. This car was practically not used at all. The owner decided on a Roadster, so he traded in this Chrysler at a very favorable price. Lacquered an attractive tan, and equipped with shock absorbers, wire wheels, shutter front, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Will be sold immediately at our price, $1,050.

ESSEX COACH. Late model. This car was in storage for 8 months. Today it's in exceptionally fine condition. Has shutter vent, shock absorbers, spare tire, bumpers, etc. $245.

FORD COUPE. Late model "A" with rumble seat. It's one of the sportiest Fords on the Chicago streets, with wire wheels, Houdaille shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. The motor is in splendid condition. Will not remain 24 hours at our price of $350.

GRAHAM-PAIGE SEDAN. 1929 with 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. The owner of this car drove it exactly 11 mos. and then decided what he wanted was a Victoria, so he sacrificed this car at a low figure. His loss is your gain, and now you have an opportunity to get a practically brand new Graham-Paige at only $650.

HUPMOBILE SEDAN. This Six is exceptionally clean throughout. The motor runs like clockwork. It was oiled and greased every 500 miles by the original owner. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, spotlight, etc. $375.

MARMON SEDAN. This 1928 str. 8 was owned by a prominent manufacturer who used it only to have his children driven up to school and back every day. The result is the finish, upholstery and tires are in the original new condition, and the motor runs very smoothly. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, wire wheels, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $595.

OLDSMOBILE COACH. We recommend this as one of our best buys. The motor runs smoothly and quietly, and the appearance is attractive. Has trunk, 5 good tires, bumpers, etc. $275.

PONTIAC COUPE. This late model must actually be seen to be appreciated. Finish has not a scratch on it, and the upholstery is in the original new condition. Has good tires and many extras. $350.

STUDEBAKER COMMANDER. Recent de luxe Regal Sedan. This car is a real beauty. It has the full crown fenders, expensive mohair upholstery. Finished a beautiful French tan, with an attractive panel along the sides. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, driving light, etc. The motor is as smooth and powerful. Special at $750.

STUDEBAKER PRESIDENT. 1929 Str. 8 sedan that was carefully checked over by expert mechanics, and now it carries a 30 day free service guarantee. Lacquered a handsome color. The upholstery shows not a worn spot and the equipment includes shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Sold for over $2,000 a short time ago. Now $985.

WILLYS KNIGHT SEDAN. Model 6-66 that has practically every conceivable extra you can imagine. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, shutter front, snubbers, rear bumper guards, heater, spare tire, etc. The attractive blue finish has not a scratch on it. Mechanically A-1. Only $350.
